PREFATORY NOTE.

In 1863 there was published a small quarto of forty-eight pages (including six pages of prefatory matter) entitled "Contributions Towards a Genealogy of the (Massachusetts) Family of Stiles, Descended from Robert of Rowley. 1659–1860. By Henry R. Stiles, M. D.," of which Dr. Stiles said in the preface: "The materials of the following Family Memoir were accumulated many years ago while the author was engaged in compiling the genealogy of the Connecticut Family of Stiles (between which and the Massachusetts Family no connection has yet been proved—M. S. P. G.), which was published in 1859."

This little work came into my hands in 1882, soon after I had begun my investigations of Stiles history, and, although not free from errors, has been of great assistance to me in many ways. Perhaps it may justly be called the foundation on which the present volume was built.

On our first acquaintance, in 1882, Dr. Stiles informed me of his intention of publishing at some future time a new history of the Stiles Family, and kindly offered to include in it my collections relating to the Massachusetts Family.

In 1883, 1884 and 1885 Dr. Stiles issued circulars announcing his intention of publishing a new History of the Stiles Family in England and America, complete, in an octavo volume of not less than 300 pages, and in December, 1885, the first signature was printed. At this time no adequate idea of the size of the Massachusetts Stiles Family had been obtained.

I was myself entirely ignorant in regard to preparing work for the press. I could, therefore, form no estimate as to the space my part of the Stiles history would require.

Dr. Stiles was aware that I had a manuscript of nearly one thousand pages, but it was expected that on being submitted to him for examination it would have to be cut down greatly and reduced in various ways, and doubtless it might have been somewhat reduced and otherwise improved could it have received his careful editing. This, however, has not been possible, as his time and attention for the last six years have been entirely occupied by other matters.

When I came fully to understand that the original plan for publication could not be realized, the idea of dividing the work and publishing it in two volumes, separately, if necessary, suggested itself. I was anxious that the results of my many years' labor should be got into print and thus secured against destruction. This has been accomplished; and, although the book in its literary features clearly shows the lack of proper editing, and in other respects the hand of a novice, I trust that it will be accepted for what it is really worth, for I believe that it will be found to possess the two essentials to such a work—thoroughness and accuracy.

In gathering the materials for the work I have spared neither labor nor expense. Over five hundred dollars have been expended, thousands of letters have been written, and large numbers of town and family histories have been examined. No remuneration is expected. It has been a labor of love; and, in the hope that it may prove of interest and value to the members of the family traced in its pages, the book is affectionately presented to the Massachusetts Family of Stiles

STILES GENEALOGY.

The Remote Origin of the Name and Family of Stiles.

By HENRY R. STILES, A. M., M. D.

The Stiles family is of Anglo-Saxon origin. If other families claim that their ancestors "came into England with William the Conqueror," ours may rest assured that it was in Britain before the Conquest.

This is evident from the name, and from the most ancient localities of the families which bore it.

First, as to the name. Lower, in his English Surnames (p. 84), mentions "among names which describe the nature or situation of the original bearer's residence, such as Hill, Dale, Wood," etc., that of STILE, STYLES, given in the old Subsidy Roll of the Rape of Lewes, Co. Sussex, 1296, as "Will° at Stighele" and "Rich° atte Stighele."*

A writer in the Sussex Archeological Collections (vol. ii, p. 292) says: "The word 'atte' or 'ater,' as it is sometimes written, seems, in all cases, to denote the dwelling-place, as in the names reduced to modern spelling, in towns, at the steeple, at the stair, 'at the style,'" etc. The same authority (p. 292), says: The Saxon "Stighele means at the style, or steps, or rising path." So that "Will" or "Rich°" "atte Stighele," simply designates a certain William and Richard who lived near a stile, a primitive and simple method of distinguishing individuals at a period when family surnames were not as common as they now are. Thus, by use and in course of time, William at the Style became William Stile.*

"From Stile was formed Styleman," also says Lower (p. 90), and it is not improbable that Still is another form of the name† as also Styel, Styell.‡

Second, as to locale of the Stiles family in England. This, as evidenced by the historical memoranda which we have accumulated in the following pages, was principally — if not altogether — in the south-eastern corner of England, viz., in the present counties of Suffolk, Norfolk, Kent, Essex, Sussex and Northampton. This was the very portion of the original Britain which was first conquered (A. D. 449–450) by the hordes of Jutes, Engles and Saxons, who swarmed over from the European mainland, and finally coalesced (A. D. 829) under King Ecgberght, and as the English people, occupying what since has been known as ENGLAND — (i. e., the land of the Engles — our Fatherland).

But, for the real fatherland of the English race, and, of course, for that of the Stiles name and family, we must look still further away, beyond England itself.

If the reader will consult a map of Northern Europe, he

*"Stile" seems used by Chaucer in an extended sense, as in some measure representing the country, in contrast with "street," which is used to represent the town:

†In the History of the University of Cambridge, by Edm'd Carter, pub. 1735, mention is made (p. 444) of JOHN STYLL, B. D. 1570, Fellow of Christ's Coll., as among the Preachers of Cambridge. "The first design of these Preachers was to instruct the ignorant, not only in and about Cambridge but in many other places; but afterwards learned Ministers being appointed in all places to instruct the unlearned, they are now, by their office, to preach a Latin Sermon called Concio ad Clerum, before the University, the Day before the Term begins; and others in English, at appointed Times, before that learned Body, in the Church of Great St. Marie's in Cambridge." JOHN STILL (probably the same) is also mentioned (p. 411) as one of the Vice-Chancellors of the University of Cambridge in 1575. He was then of St. John's College. He is also biographized in Thomas Fuller's Worthies of England (vol. ii, p. 12, edition of 1816).

‡May not Stoyell also be still another form of the same name?—M. S. P. Guild.

will there see this remoter fatherland. In the fifth century, A. D., the northern portion of the peninsula now known as Jutland, and which divides the North sea or German ocean from the Baltic sea, was occupied by a warrior tribe called Jutes, who were probably akin to the race that was fringing the opposite shores of Scandinavia and settling among the Danish isles.

From the south of the same peninsula of Jutland, the tribe of Saxons spread over the sand-flats of Holstein, and along the marshes of Friesland and the Elbe. And between the Jutes and Saxons, in the very heart of the peninsula, was a district which we now call Sleswick, but which was then known as Angeln, or the Englesland.

These three tribes were so closely united as to be known by neighboring people under the common name of Englishmen, a name which indicates also the Angles as being at the time when their history opens to us, the most powerful of the three.

It was by successive invasions of these closely related tribes that the eastern and south-eastern parts of Britain were first permanently occupied and ultimately made England. First, about 449–450, A. D., the Jutes, under their ealdormen (earls), Hengest and Horsa, invaded and held what is now known as the county of Kent. Their success invited a mightier foe to the work of invasion — the freebooter Saxons, from the Friesland and Holstein shores — pirates, whose long pillaging and ravaging of the eastern shore of Britain from the Wash to the Solent gave it the name of "the Saxon shore." In 477, bands of these pirates made a landing, which became the basis of a permanent occupation of that district now known as the shires of Norfolk and Suffolk, and gave to the foreigner the whole shore of Britain, from the Wash to Southampton water. Then (500–570, A. D.) the Engles, most powerful of all, slowly but steadily pressed forward and occupied Mid-Britain from the Humber to the Forth. From the desert state of the district from which the Engles came on the mainland, as men saw it hundreds of years afterwards, it would seem that, unlike their Saxon neighbors, the bulk of whom remained in their own homesteads, the whole Engle people must have forsaken their earlier seats for the soil of Britain. Such a transfer only would sufficiently account for the wide area of their conquests in Britain; and for the fact that their name eventually absorbed that of the Jutes and Saxons, and stamped itself on the people which sprang from the union of the conqueror, as in the lands which they won.

Concerning this conquest, J. Richard Green, thus speaks in his History of the English People : "The English Conquest was a sheer dispossession and slaughter of the people whom the English conquered. It was, indeed, only partly wrought out after two centuries of bitter warfare. But it was just through the long and merciless nature of the struggle that of all the German conquests, this proved the most thorough and complete. At its close Britain had become England, a land that is not of Britons, but of Englishmen. It is possible that a few of the vanquished people may have lingered around the homestead of their English conquerors, and a few of their household words (if these were not brought in at a later time) mingled oddly with the English tongue. But doubtful exceptions such as these leave the main facts untouched. When the steady progress of English conquest was stayed for a while by civil wars of a century and a half, after Aylesford the Briton had disappeared from the greater part of the land which had been his own, and the tongue, the religion, the laws of his English conqueror, reigned without a rival from Essex to the Severn, and from the British channel to the Firth of Forth. * * * What strikes us at once in the new England is, that it was the one purely German nation that rose upon the wreck of Rome. In other lands, in Spain or Gaul, or Italy, though they were equally conquered by German peoples, religion, social life, administrative order, still remained Roman. In Britain alone, Rome died into a vague tradition of the past. The whole organization of government and society disappeared with the people who used it. The villas, the mosaics, the coins which we dig up in our fields, are no relics of our English fathers, but of a Roman world which our fathers' sword utterly swept away. Its law, its literature, its manners, its faith, went with it. The new England was a heathen country. The religion of Woden and Thunder triumphed over the religion of Christ. * * * River and homestead and boundary, the very days of the week, bore the names of the new gods who displaced Christ. But if England seemed for the moment a waste from which all the civilization of the earth had fled away, it contained within itself the germs of a nobler life than that which had been destroyed. The base of the new English society was the freeman, whom we have seen tilling, judging or sacrificing for himself by the Northern sea. However roughly he dealt, while the struggle went on with the material civilization of Britain, it was impossible that such a man could be a mere destroyer. War was no sooner over than the warrior settled down into the farmer, and the home of the peasant churl rose beside the heap of goblin-haunted stones that marked the site of the villa he had burned. The English kinsfolk settled in groups over the conquered country, as the lot fell to each; no longer kinsfolk only, but dwellers in the same plot, knit together by their common holding within the same bounds. Each little village commonwealth lived the same life in Britain as its farmers had lived at home. Each had its 'moot-hill,' or sacred tree as a center; its 'mark' as a border; each judged by witness of the kinsfolk, and made its laws in the assembly of its wise men, and chose its own leaders among the 'eorls' for peace or war. In two ways only was this primitive organization of English society affected by its transfer to the soil of Britain. War begat the King. * * * And as it begat the King and the military noble, so it all but begat the slave — a class of the 'unfree,' such as captives of war, debtors, criminals — 'not such a slavery as that we have known in modern times, for stripes and bonds were rare.' "

But enough on this point. If our readers feel that interest which seems natural, in the origin, character and development of the race from which they sprang, we commend them to the fascinating pages of Green's volume, The Making of England. Our simple object in the preceding pages has been to enable them as members of the Stiles Family, to trace back their blood origin through two and a half centuries of (American) New England life (1885–1635, A. D.), and through nearly thirteen centuries (1635–450, A. D.), of old England life; and from thence through the "unfathomable mists" of Time, which envelop their ancestry in that still older England of all — the old, old Fatherland, which lies in and around the Jutland peninsula, the Weser, Lower Hanover and Oldenburg — the cradle of the Anglo-Saxon race.

With the subsequent course of English history (except as its gradual and splendid development must have insensibly but surely affected the condition, social surroundings and character of our ancestry during succeeding centuries) we have little to do in these pages. On both sides of the Atlantic the STILES FAMILY has held a respectable though not exalted position. In England it has embraced two lines of baronetcy (one now long extinct), and presents a fair array of names respectably eminent in theology and literature, as well as in the public military, naval and civil service of the kingdom. On this side of the water, its record is merely that of "simple folk,"—mostly farmers, with a fair sprinkling of clergymen, physicians, etc.—enterprising, intelligent, self-reliant, patriotic and God-fearing. Indeed, making due allowance for differences of surroundings, education and opportunities of development, we of the American branches have reason to feel that our record will reflect no discredit upon our English cousins; while their record is certainly as creditable to them as it is interesting to us.

The information presented in Appendix I, concerning the HISTORY AND ANTIQUITIES OF THE ENGLISH FAMILY OF STILES, STYLE, OR STYLES, was incidentally collected during my genealogical researches, and is simply offered as a matter of legitimate interest to the members of the American family. *No well-defined proof of connection has yet been discovered between the English and American families of the name.

It has seemed to me that the finding of such proof was not altogether impossible; but pleasant as it would be to establish the connection, I have been unable to command the time, the eyesight, and, especially the means, which such a search would require. Nor could any thing be gained by such proof of connection, except the satisfaction of a laudable curiosity.

* Except, perhaps, in the case of the BERMUDA BRANCH, now represented in the Georgia, Virginia and Pennsylvania families of the name.

The Massachusetts Family of Stiles.

Until quite recently, it has been accepted as a fact that ROBERT STILES was of Rev. Ezekiel Rogers' company from Yorkshire, England, which settled in Rowley Mass., in the spring of 1639; but Blodgett, in his account of the early settlers of Rowley (Essex Inst. Hist. Colls., vols. 18–24) says: "In the list here given no mention is made of those who first sat down at Boxford (then a part of Rowley); they were not of Rogers' company," etc., etc. If this is true, we may not even have the comfort of believing that our ancestor Robert Stiles came from Yorkshire, England, although there seems to be a possibility, after all, that he may have been of the company, for it is altogether probable that he was little more than a child at the time the emigrants settled at Rowley; and we had believed that he must have come from England in the capacity of ward or servant to one of the adult members of the company.

In view of this possibility, for such it must still be, since no complete list of the members of Rogers' company has ever been discovered, we will give an interesting extract from Perley's History of Boxford, entitled:

Early Settlers of Rowley, Mass.

"Early in the winter of 1638–9, a company of emigrants, numbering about twenty families, with Rev. Ezekiel Rogers as their guide, left Yorkshire, Eng., and came to Salem, Mass., where they spent the winter,* it being then too late in the season to proceed further in their investigations. When in Salem their number increased to sixty families. When spring opened, they removed to a location they had chosen half way between the towns of Ipswich and Newbury. They purchased of these two towns, for eight hundred pounds, an extensive tract of land now comprising the towns of Rowley, Boxford, Bradford, Groveland, Georgetown, and parts of two or three others.

"The site of their settlement is the site of Rowley village at the present time. This place was probably selected on account of its pleasantness, its nearness to a river, and the abundance of thatch that grew upon the river banks, with which they could cover the roofs of their humble dwellings, and apply it to many other purposes in their primitive arts.

* The name of the vessel in which they sailed from England is not known.

"Under the name of Rowley, they obtained a town charter, or an "Act of Incorporation," 4 Sept., 1639.

"They held their lands, and labored in common for nearly five years, when they laid out to each family a house-lot, etc.

"The colony lived and throve in spite of the many disadvantages that accrue to such conditions, and soon became a prominent colonial town. Their harvests were mostly abundant, their cottages warm, and every thing appeared as cheerful and pleasant as could be expected.

"The south-western portion of the town (Rowley) which is now known as the town of Boxford, remained unsettled by the white man for several years.

"From time immemorial the only occupants had been a tribe of North American Indians called the Agawams, a sub-tribe, probably, of the Massachusetts."

Boxford, Essex County, Mass.

[From Perley's History of Boxford.]

"The territory of the present town of Boxford occupies a central position in the county of Essex, and a north-easterly one in the old Bay State.

"The most north-western point of the town is but three miles distant from the dividing line between the States of Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

"The cities of Boston, Salem, Lynn, Gloucester, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport, in Massachusetts, and Nashua, Exeter and other important places in New Hampshire, lie less than twenty-five miles away.

"Boxford occupies an area of nearly eighteen square miles. The surface consists of hills and valleys with the exception of two or three quite extensive plains. There are numerous eminences in town, though but few are denominated by a name. Stiles' is the only hill in the West Parish to which the mapmakers have thought fit to give a name. Stiles' pond, at the base of Stiles' Hill, is a sheet of water covering an area of sixty acres, entirely hid from the traveler's view." Mr. Perley closes his description with the following words: "Boxford is a fine old farming town, pleasant and healthy to live in," etc.

"William Dale, Surgeon-General of the State of Massachusetts, says: 'Boxford is the most patriotic town in the Union, according to the number of inhabitants.'

"By this reliable testimony, which is but another witness to the fact, it is proved that the law of hereditaments is true, and the feeling that put life into the acts of our patriot sires was prominent in their posterity to the third and fourth generations."—Hist. Boxford, p. 329.

Let it be remembered that the descendants of Robert Stiles, the settler, both of the name and blood, have been identified with the history of Boxford ever since it has had a history, and an examination of the lists of its soldiers who have gone forth to defend the country in times of peril, will show that a fair proportion of these soldiers have been of the lineage of Robert Stiles.—M. S. P. G.

In speaking of the early settlers of Boxford, Perley says:

"The first settler of the present town of Boxford was undoubtedly Abraham Redington. * * *

"Robert Stiles, another early settler, was an emigrant from Yorkshire, England. In 1659 we find him owning a farm containing two hundred and fifty acres, with buildings thereon, in Rowley village. [That part of Rowley which afterwards became Boxford, was first called Rowley village, and what is now known as Rowley village, was then Rowley simply]. His residence was near the [present] East Parish village. December 16, that year [1659], he mortgages his farm to Thomas Wasse of Ipswich. To write his name was more than he was capable of doing." [In this particular he certainly formed no remarkable exception to the people of his time.— M. S. P. G.] —Perley's Hist. Boxford, p. 278.

On an old tax book, dated 1660 to 1664, Robert Stiles is noted as paying tax to the amount of £0.6.9.— New Eng. Hist. Gen. Reg. vol. xv, p. 254.

Also, in 1660, October 4, Robert Stiles was married (by Bradstreet) to Elizabeth (dau. of John) Frye of Andover.— Records of Births, Marriages and Deaths in Essex County, Mass., from 1654 to 1691, vol. i.

"Before the land in the village was laid out [which was in 1666–7], Abraham Redington, Robert Stiles, Joseph Bixby, John Cummings, William Foster and John Peabody, six of the early settlers of whom we have been speaking, bought of Joseph Jewett three thousand acres of the village lands. Soon after the town of Rowley laid out twelve hundred acres of it to the different owners of it. * * *

"These twelve hundred acres were laid out so as to enclose the plain on which the East Parish village is situated. Six house lots of thirty acres each were laid out on which the proprietors built their houses and settled down upon the plain, thus becoming the first residents of Rowley village."—Hist. Boxford, p. 40.

"Until 1666–7, the village lands, with the exception of the tracts already mentioned, lay common. Then the town of Rowley appointed two men, Ezekiel Northend and John Pickard, who laid out to those who owned shares in those lands by right of purchase, and to owners of house-lots in Rowley." —Hist. Boxford, p. 41.

Among those who had land laid out to them at this time we find the following:

"To Thomas Dorman, John Cummings and Robert Stiles, 400 acres, bounded east by land of William Stickney and others; west by Andover line; north by a highway which separates it from Mrs. Rogers' land, in part, and part by other peoples' land; south with a line running straight from Andover line to a clump of trees on the north side of Humphrey's Pond. These boundaries include a piece of meadow called Frye's meadow, before laid out to Mr. [Philip] Nelson."—Hist. Boxford, p. 43.

In 1673, a petition signed by several inhabitants of Rowley village, one of whom was Robert Stiles, was presented to the General Court, asking that the sixteen families who formed the population of Rowley village might be declared free of Rowley and united to Topsfield. This was not granted.—Hist. Boxford, p. 65.

In 1680, the number of families in Rowley village had increased to twenty; one of these families was that of "Goodman" Stiles (Hist. Boxford, p. 68), and the same year the town of Rowley appointed "tithing men to see that the Sabbath was well kept." Among the eleven families under the supervision of Joseph Bigsbee, we find that of "Goodman" Stiles.—Gage's Hist. Rowley, p. 365.

In 1684, the Rev. Joseph Capen was settled at Topsfield, where a church had existed since 1663, and in his list of members in full communion we find the name of Robert Stiles as, also, subsequent to his ordination, those of his [Robert's] son John, and Deliverance, wife of the latter, and under the date of February 23, 1689, the name of Elizabeth Stiles. During the year 1685, the town of Boxford was formed, and the Stiles family afterwards appear on that town and church records. —Mass. Fam. of Stiles, by Dr. H. R. Stiles, pp. 8 and 9.

In 1686, Robert Stiles was chosen constable of Boxford [probably the first one] (formerly Rowley village), which in 1685 had been incorporated as a town, its new name having been bestowed out of respect (perhaps) to Rev. Mr. Phillips, the minister at Rowley at this time, whose birth-place was Boxford, Berkshire county, England.—Hist. Boxford, pp. 86–7.

In Perley's History of Boxford we find that Robert Stiles, Sr., died July 30, 1690, and the administration was granted to his widow, Elizabeth, a month later; which proves very conclusively, that he was not the man of the same name who was living at Dorchester at the time, and who figured there as a rather disreputable individual and died there in 1710. We refer to this man in this place because Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, and Dr. Stiles in his 1st edition of "the Massachusetts Family of Stiles," were both puzzled to decide whether Robert Stiles of Rowley, and Robert Stiles of Dorchester were the same, or different individuals. Savage says (Geneal. Dict., vol. ii, p. 195), "Robert, Boxford, m. 4 Oct., 1660, Eliz. d. of John Frye of Andover; was of Rowley 1661, but perhaps rem. to Dorchester where I find one of this name, 1663, yet in my opin. this Dorchester man was older than him of B., possib. but not prob., was son of John the first; and inscript. on gr.-stone is of his d. 2 Nov. 1710, and age, a 91, that may seem something too high." Dr. Stiles says (Genealogy of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles (first edition), p. 10), "We must confess ourselves somewhat in the dark about Robert Stiles' history. We cannot reconcile the records of Dorchester from 1659 to 1680, which give him the character of being a shiftless, if not a vicious man, with the items of his Rowley connection from 1660 to 1684, or thereabouts which represent him as a sober citizen, possessed of considerable property, which he left to his children. The very estimable character which all his descendants, from his sons down to the present day, have sustained, is certainly not in accordance with the bad example, and neglect which the children of Robert of Dorchester must have had from their father." After quoting the opinion of Savage, already given, Dr. Stiles adds, "Our own opinion is, that whatever the degree of relationship between them, Robert of Dorchester and Robert of Rowley were entirely different individuals, and that some record will yet be brought to light settling this point, and thereby relieving the worthy descendants of the latter from the odium which seems to attach to him of Dorchester."

[Dr. Stiles has proved himself a true prophet. The record of the death, at Boxford, of Robert of Rowley, twenty years before that of Robert of Dorchester, certainly settles one point, and it is proper to add that there is abundant reason for believing that Robert Stiles of Rowley and Boxford, was a continuous resident of Rowley village and Boxford, from 1659 (at least) until his death, July 30, 1690.—M. S. P. G.]

July 10, 1704, Ebenezer Stiles of Boxford deeded "to Ephraim Foster, blacksmith, of Andover, one hundred acres of land lying on the north side of Humphrey's pond," "which was laid out to my father Robert Stiles by ye Towne of Rowley in partnership with Dorman and Cummins, even [?] 4 hundred acres laid out to them three men by ye town of Rowley and consigned to me in ye settlement of my fathers estate after his disease (consideration 30 lbs. silver money)"

Signed "Ebenezer Stiles"
"Dorothy Stiles."

(The above deed was in the possession of a descendant of Ebenezer Stiles, at the time of the preparation of the 1st edition of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles.)

[We feel quite sure that during the lifetime of Robert Stiles, and of his sons after him, no Stiles excepting members of their families could have been living at Boxford, and it is doubtful if any others could have been found even in Essex county previous to 1800. A very large proportion of the earlier generations in the male line have been traced, and doubtless most of those who have not been traced, might be, if we could but gain access to old family records which must still be in existence.—M. S. P. G.]

GENEALOGY.

FAMILY, 1.

1. Robert Stiles was married (by Bradstreet) Oct. 4, 1660, to Elizabeth (dau. of John and Anna) Frye, of Andover, Mass.,* who was born in England in 1637 (see foot-note, pp. 16, 17). According to Boxford records Robert Stiles had a second wife also named Elizabeth, who survived him. He died July 30, 1690 (Perley's History of Boxford, p. 28). This date is probably correct, but it does not tally with a record furnished us by Mr. Perley himself.†

To his widow Elizabeth was granted, one month after his death, the administration of his estate (Hist. Boxford, p. 28). She was admitted to the church Feb. 21, 1703 (Boxford Records). She must have been the person referred to in the following from the town records: "Mch. 2, 1696–7, a new road laid out to Widow Stiles' new field" (Hist. Boxford, p. 133). In 1702, Widow Stiles was admitted to full communion. —Boxford Records.

Children by First Marriage (all born at Rowley Village).‡

*The record of the marriage of Robert Stiles and Elizabeth Frye is found — together with the births of their children — in the 1st vol. of the Records of Births in Essex county, at the clerk of courts' office, at Salem, which contains the record of the births, marriages and deaths from 1654 to 1691, inclusive.

† "Robert Stiles m. Elizabeth ——— He d. 30 July, 16– (168–?). She was ad. to 1st ch. 21 Feb. 1702–3. Ch.—1—(son) b. 21 May 1— (1682?)." —Exact copy of record received from Mr. Perley.

‡ We have used the record of Robert Stiles' family which we found in the first edition of the Genealogy of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles, adding to it such new facts as are given in the History of Boxford and other authorities.—M. S. P. G.

(b. Aug. 7, 1657), son of Samuel and Sarah (Keies) Buswell of Boxford. John Buswell was a surveyor and fence-viewer at Boxford in 1689. In 1716 he was chosen grave-digger, the first one in Boxford. In 1703, he and his wife were dismissed from the church in Topsfield to the one just formed in Boxford. He probably died not far from 1740. Children (born in Boxford, from Hist. of Boxford):

* Extract from Perley's "The Dwellings of Boxford:"

"No. LI.—A short distance north-west of the East Parish meeting-house, in a pasture, is a cellar. Over this once stood a house in which lived a lazy old fellow known as 'King David' Butman. He was by trade a cooper, was short of stature, and had curly hair. He had come from Danvers, and married Ruth Buswell of Boxford in 1778, and settled in this place. She was the daughter of John Buswell, and had been published in order to marriage to John Love, a transient person, some three years before. She was then twenty-nine, but she preferred becoming an old maid to marrying Love, and so she forbid the giving out a certificate of marriage, '1stly, because the said John is a transient person and not much known in this place; 2ndly, because I never had any conjugal conversation with him, the said John; and 3rdly, because I never gave my consent to the said John for such publication.' And so poor John was forced to become a transient person in some other place, for we hear no more of him here. Perhaps Ruth would have done well to have heeded his charms, for the husband she did get was 'no 'count,' as her old neighbor, Phillis, would express it. In short, he was as lazy as she was smart. She cultivated the farm, doing the ploughing, hoeing, haying and harvesting herself. One day, in May, 1810, she had been ploughing all day, having hired the oxen of Richard Peabody, who lived in the old Spiller house, and just after dark, drove them home. She ran back to do her chores, and was taken sick that night, probably from over-exertion. She survived but a few days. If any woman was ever entitled to suffrage we have her here. Her husband left this mundane sphere in 1816, at the age of sixty-eight. They had four children, Joseph, Esther, Hitty, and John.' * * * The writer thinks, and has considerable evidence to prove it, that this was the old Buswell farm, and that Ruth settled on her father's place."

"John Frye was from Basing, Hants Co., Eng. He arrived in the Harbor of Boston in Aug., 1638, bringing with him his wife and 3 children, viz.: (I) John (Dea. John of Andover), b. 1633; (II) Benjamin, b. 1635; (III) Elizabeth, b. 1637 (m. Robert Stiles). He was one of the original purchasers of the Cochichewick tract; rem. from Newbury to Andover previous to 1641. At Andover were born 3 children, viz.: (IV) Sarah, b. 1642; d. Mch. 5, 1661–2; (V) Samuel, b. 1644; (VI) James, b. 1652." The above account is from a letter of Theophilus D. Frye of Montclair, N. J., Genealogist of the Frye Family. Mr. F. states that there is now in the possession of a family in Michigan an ancient "Sampler," which was wrought by a Miss Ann Frye, in 1785, and was a copy of an older one which, family tradition says, was the work of Elizabeth, depicting the Frye arms. Among the posterity of the emigrants John and Anna Frye, these have been, from the first, persons of note. This is shown by the following epitome from Miss Bailey's "Historical Sketches of Andover, Mass.:" "Mr. Fry was one of the first settlers in this towne, and his offspring men of grate note; there was Copprils, Sergeants, Clarks, Ensigns, Lieuts Twelve Captains, Magrs, Cornels, and Major Generals, Two Judges of the Corts Superer and Court of Common Pleas, and two that held the titel of the Honorable Councellors, and severall justices of the Peace, and some of the Rest excellen Good citizens." [U. S. Senator Frye, of Maine, is a descendent of John[1] Frye in the line of his son Samuel.]

They came to America (probably in 1635), and settled first in Salem, Mass. Dec. 11, 1640, William Towne had granted him "a little neck of land right over against his house on the other side of the river." About 1651 he moved to Topsfield, where he d. 1672; his wife d. about 1682. They had eight children, six of whom were bapt. in Yarmouth, Eng.; of these, Rebecca, wife of Francis Nurse, and Mary, wife of Isaac Esty, were executed on a charge of witchcraft on Gallows Hill, Salem, Mass., the former July 19, 1692, the latter Sept. 22 of the same year. Jacob[2], bapt. in Yarmouth, Eng., 1633, m. Catherine Symonds (dau. of John and Elizabeth), of Salem, Mass., June 26, 1657; had John[3], Jacob[3], Catherine[3], Deliverance[3] (m. John Stiles), Ruth[3], Edmund[3].—Hist. Windham, N. H., pp. 802–3.

Stiles, with others, was dismissed to Boxford "to gather church," and January 2nd following, Deliverance Stiles was dismissed to Boxford church (Topsfield Records). Deliverance Stiles died May 16, 17—. [Sidney Perley, author of the History of Boxford, thinks she probably died about 1705.]

The 2nd wife of John Stiles was Mary — which is proved by the following from the Boxford Records: "Mary Stiles, ad. to 1st ch. 24 Dec., 1727, wife of John Stiles." John Stiles' place in Boxford was on the south side of Fish brook (Perley's Hist. Boxford, p. 27). In 1680, "John Stiles" was summoned to testify at the trial of Elizabeth Morse of Newbury, Mass., who was accused of witchcraft. He was made a freeman at Boxford in 1690; was constable in 1705, and selectman in 1725. There is no record of his death, but widow Mary Stiles died May 13, 1753 (Boxford Records), which shows that he was not living at that time.

Children (by first marriage):*

18. I. Deliverance[3], b. Sept., 1685 (from early returns of births, marriages and deaths at the office of the clerk of courts at Salem, Mass.). Another authority gives the month of her birth as Oct., and still another has Oct. 23.

19. II. Ruth[3], b. Feb. 17, 1686–7. (In the Boxford Records no names are given to the first three children of John Stiles, but in the clerk of courts' office at Salem the first two are named as here given, although Ruth is recorded as the dau. of John and Elizabeth, an evident mistake.) Ruth Stiles m. Elias Smith about 1717 (prob.).—Boxford Records.

20. III. John[3], bapt. Dec. 16, 1688, "John Stiles his John" (Topsfield Rec.), m. Eleanor Pearl. Family 3.

Ursula[5] (dau. of John and Marion[4] [Bristol] Preston), born Feb. 12, 1780, m. Lemuel Humphreyville, farmer, Jan. 1, 1799; res. at Northfield, Conn., where he d. Nov. 13, 1828, æ. 51. She d. May 26, 1882, æ. 102 yrs. 3 mos. 14 days. "Although delicate in early life, she gained strength and vigor with increasing years, when both were most needed.

"She was called to part with her husband over 54 years before her own death, and from that time she carried the burdens of the family alone. The outdoor labors necessitated by the superintending of her farm, probably contributed much towards prolonging her life. To the day of her death she showed no symptoms of disease, but died as a clock runs down. It should be said that her early faith and trust in God seemed to grow strong as nature grew weak. Her recollection of hymns and tunes learned in early life remained to the last, and even on the morning of her death she sang a favorite verse sweetly and distinctly."

Family 5.

77. John[4] Stiles [52] (John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., Mch. 17, 1725; bapt. Mch. 27, 1725; m. (1) Nov. 16, 1752 (pub. Aug. 9, 1752) Hannah, dau. of Oliver and Susannah (Wright) Holt (b. at Andover, Mass., Aug. 29, 1728); m. (2) Hannah Deney, Mch. 14, 1757. They owned the ch. covenant July 2, 1758; m. (3) Phebe Marasser, Feb. 9, 1761; received the ch. covenant Dec. 14, 1766.

(Boxford Records). We find in Perley's Hist. of Boxford, that there was a John Stiles, who was a blacksmith, and Mr. Perley in "Dwellings in Boxford" designates the spot occupied by his shop, and also mentions an old cellar over which once stood a house in which John Stiles, blacksmith, is said to have lived for a few years (between 1766 and 1776).

The following is from the Boxford Records — probably refers to him: "Sept. 25, 1775, order on the town Records to pay John Stiles one shilling for the use of his shop and one bushel of coal for running bullets."

John Stiles, the blacksmith, may have been John[3], Jr., the father of John[4], but we have no means of deciding. Mr. Perley makes several references to John Stiles, in his History of Boxford, and we shall give them all in connection with John[4], although we are very sure that they cannot all of them refer to him, but we can devise no better plan of disposing of them:

In 1776, John Stiles, of Boxford, enlisted for 8 months in the Cambridge campaign. (Hist. Boxford, p. 228.)

1776. John Stiles enlisted in the Continental army. (Ibid., p. 229).

1777, Apr. 14. John Stiles enlisted as private under Capt. David Lane of Gen. Sullivan's army, which was sent out against the Oneidas. (Ibid., p. 232).

1777, Mch. John Stiles was one of 13 Boxford men who were hired by the town — receiving as bounty £30 each — to serve 3 yrs. or for the war, in the Continental army. (Ibid., p. 235).

1778, Feb. 3, John Stiles, of Boxford, died at Albany. (Ibid., p. 233.

Family 8.

Simeon[5] Stiles [71] (Benjamin[4], John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., July 24, 1744; bapt. July 29, 1744; (Boxford Records); married Sept. 8, 1768, Mary (dau. of Thomas) Gould. [Thomas Gould was son of Thomas, son of Capt. John, only son of Zaccheus, one of the early settlers of Topsfield, Mass.] Mary Gould was b. Nov. 11, 1739, d. Apr. 19, 1826, in her 86th year. Simeon Stiles was selectman of Boxford, 1791–2–3 (Perley's Hist. Boxford). His name is on the muster-roll of Capt. Jacob Gould's company, Apr. 19, 1775, and he enlisted in the Northern and Continental Army, but it is not known how long he served. He d. May 3, 1831. Perley, in Dwellings in Boxford, has the following concerning the house in Boxford in which Simeon Stiles lived: "No. CXXVI. Between the road and the house where Dea. John K. Cole resides, was an old house owned by Simeon Stiles a century ago [written in 1884]. He was a

*"Ethan Cutter died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. E. S. Lawrence, in Dorchester, Oct. 24, 1889, aged 94 years and 6 months. Mr. Cutler was a prominent and highly respected citizen of Jaffrey, N. H., where he was born and lived most of his long life. For many years he was town treasurer and postmaster, also secretary of Charity Lodge of Masons. Mr. Cutter was a life-long Universalist. He was a pensioner of the War of 1812, and was a member of the Jaffrey riflemen who marched from Jaffrey to Portsmouth, N. H., when that place was threatened by the British. For more than fifty years he was proprietor of Cutler's Hotel, at Jaffrey." (Boston Transcript, Nov. 1, 1889.)

grandson of John and Eleanor (Pearl) Stiles of Boxford. He married and resided in the house of which we are writing, which he may have erected, or which may have been his father's before him. We think it was the original Stiles settlement. He had five children born here. Mrs. Mary Stiles died in 1826, at the age of 85 years. Mr. Stiles survived her until the spring of 1831, when he died at the age of 86. Mr. Stiles' youngest son, Asa, resided upon the place and took care of it during his father's declining years. In 1851, Asa sold to Mr. Cole, who was from Topsfield, and removed to the old Foster house, No. CXXV, subsequently dying at Moses Gould's, No. CVIII, where he was boarding, at the age of 82 years. He was b. in Mch., 1779, and d. in Mch., 1861.

"Dea. Cole took the old house down and erected his present residence in 1856.

"The old willow in the yard was brought from Danvers, as a walking stick, by Simeon Stiles, during the Revolution. He placed one end in the ground and it began to take root, and is to-day sixteen feet in circumference. The middle of the tree has decayed and fallen out so that the trunk is divided into two parts, and a fence passes through it."

In this community his memory is cherished with a more than ordinary degree of affection. For many years he exemplified the truth and importance of the Christian religion in the midst of this people, living to do good and honor his Divine Master. He was an esteemed member of, and an honored and useful officer in the Presbyterian church in this village, in which capacity he did much to promote the interests of vital piety; more than twenty years since he removed to the West, first to Michigan, and then to Illinois, where he aided essentially in building up two or three churches. He lived to witness and enjoy during the past winter, an extensive revival of religion in Elgin, and from such delightful scenes was called to his heavenly rest."

248. III. Irving C.[7], b. Feb. 18, 1829; m. —— ——. He was engaged in the foundry business before the breaking out of the late war with the South, when he joined a cavalry regiment and went south. He was wounded in battle and died from the effects, in the hospital at Paducah, Ky., leaving 2 children, one of whom was a son, who bore his name.

249. IV. Elizabeth H. Holbrook[7], b. Feb. 28, 1831; m. May 21, 1850, Ephraim Wood of Troy, N. Y. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits before the breaking out of the late Civil War. At this time he formed a company of young men, and was placed in command as captain. Fearless of danger, and full of patriotic feeling, he went forth to defend his country. He was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg, July 4, 1863, and died on the 5th. His last words to his company were: "On with the colors!" He was buried on the field, but his remains were afterward secured and removed to Troy, N. Y., for final interment. He was quite a prominent member of the Masonic order. Mrs. Elizabeth Wood d. 253. Capt. Vernon[6] Stiles [170] (Josiah[5], Benjamim[4], John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born at Millbury, Mass. (formerly Sutton), Aug. 17, 1801; married, Sept. 22, 1824, Lucy H., dau. of Perley and Lucy (Harrington) Goddard, of Grafton, Mass. While in M. he kept a hotel. He removed, in 1831, to Thompson, Conn., where, besides keeping a hotel he was a justice of the peace, also rep. to the State Legislature, 1837 and 1843. In 1849 he rem. to Racine, Wis., and died there Sept. 1, 1863.

In Miss Larned's History of Windham County, Conn. (pp. 535, 538), we find the following interesting and amusing account of Capt. Vernon Stiles: "One of the Thompson notabilities of this date was Capt. Vernon Stiles [he removed from Sutton to Thompson about 1833, as has been stated] [Miss Larned's dates do not exactly tally with those given by the family], now in charge of the Central Tavern, who claimed that more stage passengers dined there every day than at any other house in New England. Capt. Stiles was the beau ideal of a landlord, distinguished in person and manners, a genial host, a graceful speaker, an adroit politician. His bar room was the headquarters of the Democratic party, now very powerful in town; and his spacious hall the scene of many a festive entertainment. Stiles' tavern was especially noted for its matrimonial facilities. Thompson's local position, cornering upon two States, afforded some peculiar advantages.

"Its 'Line' tavern enabled legal fugitives and liquor-sellers to dodge, back and forth, into Rhode Island and Massachusetts, and its convenient access tempted youthful lovers to evade the prolonged publishment required in the above States. A single notice, read before or after church service, satisfied the legal requirement in Connecticut, and so it became very much the fashion for affianced pairs to drive to Thompson Hill on a Sunday, and there celebrate their wedding.

"At first Mr. Dow and other ministers performed the ceremony, but the occasions became so frequent, and the consequent Sabbath breaking so alarming, that they resigned the office to Capt. Stiles as justice, who administered the vows with a grace and dignity that charmed all the participants. Scarce a Sabbath passed without bringing its wedding party to partake of the wedding cake that was always made ready for them. 'Runaways' were united on more than one occasion, and Thompson Hill and its hymenial landlord were as celebrated for a time as Gretna Green and its famous blacksmith in Great Britain.

"When, through the labors of John Hawkins, the temperance reform received a new impulse, Capt. Stiles closed his bar and made his popular tavern a temperance house."

FAMILY 41.

363. Luther Harvey[8] Stiles [309] (Cornelius C.[7], Luther[6], Josiah[5], Benjamin[4], John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born in Elgin, Ill., July 4, 1851 ; learned telegraphy at the age of 16; was employed as railroad agent until 1880, when he entered the employ of the Sandwich, Ill., Mfg. Co., holding successively the positions of ass't and head book-keeper and cashier. In 1883 he was sent to Kansas City to represent the company in a branch office. In the summer of 1886 he located at Wichita, Kans., going into the real estate business there in company with Mr. Frank E. A. Smith. The firm of Stiles & Smith represents one of the most successful firms in the city, and does its business in such a reliable way as to gain the confidence of the best people. When a boy of 16, Luther H. Stiles became a member of and an earnest worker in the Congregational church. He and his partner are members of the Y. M. C. A., and he is himself supt. of the Sabbath School of the 1st Cong. Ch. at Wichita. He was married July 7, 1887, to Fleta Lawrence of Wichita.

365. Dr. William Heman[8] Stiles [310] (Cornelius C.[7], Luther[6], Josiah[5], Benjamin[4], John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born at Hanover, Cook Co., Ill., Mch. 31, 1853. At the age of 16, having received a good common-school education, he entered the mfg. shops at Marseilles, Ill.; after spending several years at hard work and study he was admitted to Hahnemann Coll., and in 1878 received his degree of M. D. At the age of 23 he became a member of the Cong. church. He married Sept. 20, 1880, Fannie J., eldest daughter of Hon. Geo. B. Okeson of Lexington, Ill. [Hon. Geo. B. Okeson is a son of Wm. Okeson of Juniata Co., Pa., gr. son of Nicholas Albertson Okeson; g. gr. son of Daniel Okeson, who m. Anglechea, eldest dau. of Nicholas Albertson, who came to America in 1731. Nicholas A. was the son of Cornelius Albertson, a wealthy ship-owner of Amsterdam.] Dr. Stiles commenced the practice of his profession at Lexington, Ill., where he remained until Sept., 1886, when he sold out his practice and moved to San Bernardino, Cal., the change being made necessary by a severe throat trouble. He fortunately found an immediate opportunity to associate himself with Dr. Ammi K. Johnson (an old college chum), of San Bernardino, and with every prospect of success.

Child:

366. I. Pauline[9], b. Mch. 18, 1885.

Family 43.

367. Dr. Fred. Phelps[8] Stiles [311] (Cornelius C.[7], Luther[6], Josiah[5], Benjamin[4], John[3], Jr., John[2], Robert[1]), was born at Elgin, Ill., Mch. 22, 1855. After passing through a preparatory course for college he entered the mfg. shops at Sandwich, where his parents were then residing. Having a special aptitude for mechanics he was engaged at the age of 18 as foreman in the wood department, drafting and laying out the lumber for a large manufactory of corn-shellers and harvesters. While still employed at the manufactory he studied medicine with a resident physician, and in 1878 entered Hahnemann Med. Coll., receiving his degree of M. D. in 1880. He then became partner with Dr. A. B. Nichols of Sparta, Wis., who died the following year, leaving a lucrative practice to Dr. Stiles, who, however, was obliged on account of ill-health to relinquish it and go farther south. He accordingly disposed of his practice to Dr. G. Long, and associated himself in Jan., 1884, with Dr. David Blood of Sandwich, Ill. After a year's residence at Sandwich he concluded to return to Sparta, having received the appointment of physician in charge of the State Asylum located at Sparta. He is also proprietor of the Turkish Bath Institute at that place. He married Sept. 30, 1884, Nellie B. (dau. of G. W.) Root of Sparta.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT STILES, EMIGRANT, IN THE LINE OF HIS SON EBENEZER[2].

FAMILY 2.

17. Ebenezer[2] Stiles [9] (Robert[1]), was born in Rowley, Mass., Feb. 20, 1669–70 (Records of Essex Co., Salem, Mass.); married at Bradford, Mass., July 23, 1701, Dorothy Dalton (Hist. Bradford). He was a man of considerable wealth for those days. A few years previous to his death he paid the highest tax but one in Middleton, where he resided. He was selectman for several years, and was honored with the prefix of "Mr." He purchased land in Middleton about 1700. In 1704 he sold one hundred acres of land "lying on the north side of Humphrey's Pond" (in Rowley village), (the said one hundred acres being a part of the 400 which were granted in 1666–7 to Thomas Dorman, John Cummins and Robert Stiles) to Ephraim Foster, blacksmith, of Andover, for £30 silver.†

"Feb. 21, 1702–3, he was dismissed from the ch'h in Topsfield to ch'h in Boxford, to which he was admitted to full communion. Oct. 1, 1729, Ebenezer Stiles, Ebenezer, Jr., Hezekiah (aged 18) and Dorothy Stiles were all admitted to membership in the 1st Cong. Church in Middleton."

*The authorities consulted in making up the history of Ebenezer Stiles are: Records of Essex county at Salem, Mass. (birth); History of Bradford, Mass. (marriage); Topsfield Records, Boxford Records and Middleton Records.

He died June 3, 1746, æ. 77, and his wife d. at the age of 93.

Children (recorded at Boxford, excepting Ebenezer, Jr., and Caleb):

18. I. Mehitable[3], b. 1702; bapt. Nov. 21, 1703; adm. to ch. Dec. 31, 1727; mar. John Barnard, Dec. 17, 1733 (Middleton Records).
19. II. Dorothy[3], b. Feb., 1706; bapt. Apr. 14, 1706; adm. to the ch. Dec. 31, 1727.
20. III. Ebenezer[3], Jr., b. July 3, 1707; m. Sarah How. Family 3.
21. IV. Hezekiah[3], "bapt. 1st Sab., May, 1711;" m. Hannah Barnard and Harriet Lovejoy. Family 4.
22. V. Daniel[3], b. July 15, 1715; bapt. Sept., 1715; m. Elizabeth Booth. Family 5.
23. VI. Caleb[3], Jr.;* m. Sarah —— and Polly Dalton. Family 6.

Family 3.

24. Ebenezer[3] Stiles, Jr. [20] (Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was doubtless born at Andover, Mass., but not (we think) on July 31, 1707, as given in the 1st edition of the Mass. Stiles Family, for we have the record of his death at Middleton, in 1787, at the age of 85, which shows that he was born about 1702. He married Sarah How April 23, 1733. He inherited much of his father's spirit, wrote a good hand, and was, with his father and other members of his family, one of the original founders of the Middleton Church, in 1729. It is said that his father divided a large farm between his sons, Ebenezer, Jr., and Daniel.

Children (from Middleton Records):

25. I. Ebenezer[4], b. Feb. 10, 1733; d. 1756; unm.

* It is proper to state that some of Caleb Stiles' descendants believe that his father's name was Samuel instead of Ebenezer, and the case has been so strongly represented that we were nearly convinced that the present arrangement had better be changed; but, on consulting with Dea. David Stiles of Middleton, who collected much valuable information for the first edition of the "Mass. Stiles Family," and who probably possesses more actual knowledge of the matter than any one now living, we find that he is of the opinion that there should be no change, as he believes that the persons (Dea. David Stiles, Sen., of Middleton, and Esq. David Stiles of Temple) who were principally responsible for placing Caleb among Ebenezer's children had good reasons for so doing.—M. S. P. G.

26. II. Ezekiel[4], b. Oct. 5, 1735; m. Miriam Richardson. Family 7.
27. III. Joseph[4], b. July 15, 1737; m. Eunice Wilkins. Family 8.
28. IV. Abner[4], b. Aug. 2, 1739; m. Ruth Bickford. Family 9.

Family 4.

31. Hezekiah[3] Stiles [21] (Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was bapt. 1st Sabbath in May, 1711 (Boxford Records). Hezekiah Stiles (age 18) was one of the original 30 members of the church formed at Middleton, Oct., 1729. Married (1) Nov. 21, 1736 (by Rev. Samuel Phillips), in Andover, Hannah Barnard, who died May 24, 1752, æ. 37; m. (2) Harriet Lovejoy, Dec. 27, 1752; resided at Andover, Mass.

Children (by first wife from Andover Records):

32. I. Hannah[4], b. Jan. 10, 1739; d. May 18, 1752.
33. II. Stephen[4], b. Mch. 11, 1741; m. wid. Huldah Wardwell. Family 12.

Family 5.

40. Daniel[3] Stiles [22] (Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born July 15, 1715; bapt. Sept., 1715 (Boxford Records); married Elizabeth Booth, May 23, 1742. Resided at Middleton, Mass. Daniel and Elizabeth Stiles members of Cong. Ch. at Middleton, 1744. It is said that the father of Daniel Stiles divided a large farm between his sons, Ebenezer, Jr., and Daniel.

Children (all excepting the first from Middleton Records):

41. I. Rebecca[4], published to Samuel Stevens, Feb. 22, 1761 (Boxford Records). [Although we have found no record of the birth of this child we think from the date of her publishment that she must have been the eldest. After their marriage it is supposed they lived for a while in N. H., perhaps at Lyndeborough, afterward removed with their 2 children to Chester, Vt. Mr. Stevens died in the War of 1812.] Issue:

42. i. Samuel[5], was living about 40 years ago (1888) at Francestown, N. H., and his descendants are probably living there at the present time.

43. ii. The 2nd child may have been a daughter who married Nathaniel[5] ti les (Caleb[4], Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), and lived at Chester, Vt. (See Family 37 of this line.)

44. iii. William[5], b. ; m. —— Rice. He died at the age of 33 or near it. Issue: (1) Roxanna Styles[6] (Stevens) (was named for her Aunt Styles), born at Chester, Vt., Aug. 8, 1804; d. at Bellows Falls, Vt., Nov. 5, 1886; m. at Westminster, Vt., Oct. 27, 1829, Samuel Guild, a papermaker; res. Bellows Falls, Vt., where Mr. G. died June 26, 1872. Children: (a) Samuel Harvey[7] (Guild), b. Sept. 2, 1831; m. June 9, 1857, Caroline S. Arms, who d. Nov. 1, 1876. He was a tailor at Bellows Falls, now dead; (b) William Stevens[7] (Guild), b. Sept. 18, 1832; m. Eliza M. Scales; res. Brattleboro, Vt., 8 children (see Guild Genealogy, p. 194, for their names); (c) George Otis[7] (Guild), b. Feb. 21, 1836; m. Martha Jane Aldrich. He is P. M. at Bellows Falls; 4 chil. 50. VII. Samuel[4], b. Mch. 21, 1756; m. Edney Gould. Family 16.

FAMILY 6.

51. Caleb[3] Stiles [23] (Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was probably born at Andover, Mass. [It has already been stated that some of the descendants of Caleb Stiles consider that he was a son of Ebenezer's half brother Samuel, but the evidence in favor of his being a son of Ebenezer is much stronger, and if he really was his son he was undoubtedly born at Andover.—M. S. P. G.] He married (1) Sarah ——, (2) Polly Dalton. He resided in Middleton, Mass., previous to 1741; at this date he was one of the inhabitants of Souhegan West — as a part of the township of Amherst, N. H., was then called. His name is among the founders of the church at Amherst, Sept. 22, 1741 (Hist. Amherst). In 1747 his name is signed to a petition of the inhabitants of Souhegan West, for soldiers for defense against the Indians (N. H. Hist. Coll., vol. v, p. 254). Up to about 1763, he appears to have been a resident of Amherst, his name appearing on various town lists until that time, when he probably removed to Hollis, where his son Caleb, Jr., was then living.

Jan. 1, 1775, Caleb Stiles, an inhabitant of Hollis (east side), was taxed £0 2s. 3d. (Hist. Hollis, p. 137). The amount of his tax shows him to have been not very wealthy at that time, as few of the inhabitants paid a smaller tax, while many paid much more. In 1779 Caleb Stiles and Caleb Stiles, Jr., each received from the town of Hollis, as bounty, for one year's service in the Continental army £300; also 10 bushels of rye and 10 bushels of Indian corn (Hist. Hollis). June 9, 1781, Caleb Stiles of Hollis, signs a petition of soldiers, "for an allowance for the depreciation of their pay." June 2, 1784, Caleb Stiles and others of Hollis, petition for the appointment of Dea. Daniel Emerson as magistrate. July 5, 1784, Caleb Stiles, Caleb, Jr., and other Hollis soldiers, sign an order to the State Treas. to pay all that was due them for service in the Continental army to Dea. Dan'l Emerson, Jr. [The last three items are from N. H. Town Papers, vol. 12, pp. 244–5, 252.]

Children (by first wife from Middleton Records):

65. Ezekiel[4] Stiles [26] (Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born in Middleton, Mass., Oct. 5, 1735; married Miriam Richardson, a descendant of Francis Richardson of Marblehead. She was born at Marblehead ; d. at Middleton, 1819, æ. 73. Her husband d. in 1788 or 9, æ. 46. Mrs. Stiles was naturally a tender-hearted woman, and ready to give a helping hand to the needy. She also possessed much wit, and keenly enjoyed a good joke.* She moved after her marriage to the place built by Ebenezer[2] for his son Ebenezer, Jr., which was

* Extract from Letter of Dea. David Stiles, Jr., of Middleton, Mass.— My grandmother, Miriam Stiles, lost her husband Ezekiel when her family, composed mostly of boys, was quite young; and, being of a courageous disposition, she took the reins without hesitation, and soon cleared up all the incumbrances on the farm, while her five boys (from the age of a few months to 16 or 17 yrs.) were taught to obey and respect her; and having once put her hand to the work she was not one to look back.

It is said that on one occasion, at least, she felt it her duty to flog one of her oldest boys, which she did in the old Puritan style. In fact, her courage and perseverance became known throughout the vicinity. On one occasion, four men returning from a hunting excursion on horseback, and probably unwilling to return home without accomplishing something, took it into their heads to make a little "game" of the old widow, and see how she would behave. They, therefore, rode past the house around a little hill out of sight, and hid their horses. The stars dimly shone as they silently advanced in single file toward the house with their guns upon their shoulders. Taking their position under a large tree which stood in front of the widow's dwelling, they commenced in the most deliberate manner loading their guns with powder and shot, and then rapidly poured their whole broadside into the front of the house. It was well riddled; several windows were broken, and the next day some of the shot were picked out of the dog's neck, although he had remained in the rear of the house. As the old lady passed through the front entry into the west end of the house to take counsel of Mr. Wright (an infirm old man who was living there, helped by the town), a shot shattered the front door. The house was far from any neighbors; a fact on which this lawless party had doubtless calculated as rendering their detection less liable. Before they had time, however, to unhitch their horses, the old lady was in their midst, and calling them by name, demanded restitution forthwith, threatening prosecution immediately if it was not made. They honorably settled all the damages the next day, well satisfied to escape so easily from the consequences of their frolic.

Another anecdote is as follows: The widow's flock of geese, which was large, had been annoyed and decimated by foxes. One night, hearing an unusual clatter among the geese, she got up and went out to the goose-house ready for service. In her hurry she took neither candle nor lantern, but, nothing daunted, she boldly thrust her hand into the goose-house to find out was going on. Her hand fell on something which did not feel like goose-feathers, so she grappled with it, pulled it out and carried it into the house, when, on getting a light, she found she had captured a large fox, which feigned dead. Thinking this might be so, as the goose had probably beaten him violently with its wings, the old lady threw him down at the door of the boys' bed-room, telling them to get up and skin him while he was yet warm. Suddenly, however, the widow's sharp eyes discovered that the fox was far from dead, and he was forthwith killed.

afterward owned by her son Dea. David Stiles; she was buried in the Symonds burial-ground.

Children (from Middleton Records):

66. I. Sarah[5], b. Sept. 23, 1764; "lived to grow up, but died in early life."
67. II. Ebenezer[5]. [This son is not in the list of Ezekiel's children furnished by the town clerk of Middleton; but, according to Dea. David Stiles, Jr., it should be there, although, perhaps, not in this place.]
68. III. Simeon[5], b. Sept. 7, 1777; d. Jan. 10, 1849; m. Sarah Elliott. Family 19.
69. IV. Andrew[5], b. Oct. 1, 1778; m. Hannah Kimball. Family 20.

71. VI. David[5], b. Nov. 1, 1784; d. Aug. 7, 1863; m. Nancy Farnham. Family 21.
72. VII. Phineas[5], b. Nov. 11, 1789; d. Oct. 14, 1821, æ. nearly 33 years.
73. VIII. Hannah[5], b. 1789; m. a Hardy of North Andover, Mass.

Family 8.

74. Joseph[4] Stiles [27] (Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born in Middleton, Mass., July 15, 1737; married Eunice Wilkins, Oct. 29, 1761. Note. — Eunice Wilkins was probably either a daughter or granddaughter of one of the three Wilkinses (Thomas, Henry and Bray), who were among the early residents of Boxford; but were all "set off" to Middleton when that town was incorporated in 1728. The great grandfather of Thomas, Henry and Bray Wilkins, was Lord John Wilkins of Wales (see Perley's Hist. Boxford, p. 102). Joseph Stiles was one of the first settlers of Wilton, N. H. In Sept., 1761, being then of Middleton, Mass., he sold land in a new township (No. 2) in N. H. He is styled "husbandman," in this transaction. (Information obtained from Probate Office, Exeter, N. H., by Dr. John R. Ham of Dover, N. H.) He settled in Wilton, on the farm now (1885) owned by Dea. George Buss. His name appears on the Wilton Records in 1773, but he probably sold as early as 1776, and removed to Nelson, N. H. He served 7 years in the Revolutionary War; was present at the battle of Bennington. He d. at Nelson, N. H., in 1812. His widow d. at same place, at the age of 88.

Children (said to have been all born at Wilton, N. H.):

75. I. Joseph[5], Jr., b. June 5, 1762; m. Ruth Greely. Family 22.

76. II. Ebenezer[5], b. June 14, 1765; m. Sarah Killam. Family 23.

77. III. Lucy[5], b. March 24, 1768; m. Samuel Putnam; res. at Hunneford, Me.; d. many years ago; had children who are all dead.

78. IV. Andrew[5], b. June 10, 1770; m. Lydia Holt and Dorcas Beard. Family 24.

79. V. Eunice[5], b. July 2, 1773; m. (1) William Shannon; (2) David White; res. at Nelson, N. H.

80. VI. Abram[5], b. Mch. 13, 1777; m. Hannah Stoddard. Family 25.

81. VII. Aaron[5], b. Mch. 13, 1782; was drowned at sea in Boston Harbor 1806; unm.

Family 9.

82. Abner[4] Stiles [28] (Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born in Middleton, Mass., Aug. 2, 1739; married Ruth Bickford. He settled in Wilton, N. H., on lot No. 15 in the 6th range. He served 3 years as selectman, and was chosen many times on important committees and to other offices. He died March 4, 1791, æ. 51 years. Mrs. Ruth (Bickford) Stiles d. June 20, 1824, æ. 88 years.

Children:

83. I. Betty[5], b. Oct. 9, 1763; m. her cousin Asa Stiles (see Family 25), May 22, 1792. They resided in Wilton, N. H., where he was a blacksmith, farmer and store-keeper. She d. Aug. 27, 1800; and he m. twice again; he d. at Wilton, Feb. 10, 1832, æ. 67 years. Children of Asa and Betty Stiles:

84. i. Asa[6], b. Apr. 27, 1794; m. Polly Tapley, Mrs. Lucinda B. Holt and Mrs. Betsey Farwell (see Family 52, of this line).

85. ii. Betsey[6], b. Apr. 17, 1798; m. David Blood; res. in Mason, N. H. In 1857 she was a "widow and childless;" she d. at Mason, N. H., Apr. 13, 1883.

86. iii. Polly[6], b. June 7, 1800; m. Royal Blood; was living 1857 in Ind. (see 1st ed. Mass. Stiles' Family Genealogy, p. 21).

87. II. John[5], b. Mch. 13, 1767; m. Miss Sally Sheldon, Sept. 18, 1794. They settled on the homestead with his father; he died Feb. 6, 1824, from an injury received while endeavoring to stop a runaway colt which was attached to a sleigh. The shaft of the sleigh striking him in the side, broke several ribs, causing his death in a few days. "He was a good townsman, an honest, kind and obliging neighbor."

88. III. Ruth[5], b. Oct. 7, 1772; m. James Hutchinson, Jr., July 9, 1797. He was born in Amherst, N. H., Apr. 28, 1772. Ruth Stiles was his 1st wife, and must have died previous to 1824, as he mar. again 23d Sept. of that year Anna Spalding; had 4 children by his 2d marriage, one authority says; but this is, perhaps, a mistake, as another says Ruth (Stiles) Hutchinson left 4 children.

Family 10.

89. Asa[4] Stiles [29] (Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Middleton, Mass., Nov. 3, 1741. He married Dec. 28, 1764, Huldah Bixby of Boxford, who was without doubt a descendant of "Sergeant" Joseph Bixby, who in 1661 was "one of the leading men in Rowley village" (Perley's Hist. Boxford, p. 28). Asa Stiles evidently lived at Boxford at the time of his marriage, and for a short time afterward, as the birth of his eldest child is recorded there. Perley, in his "Dwellings of Boxford," mentions a barn raised Nov. 25, 1766, in Boxford, saying "the work upon the barn was mostly done by Asa Stiles." This shows him to have been by trade a carpenter as well as a blacksmith. Mrs. Huldah (Bixby) Stiles was dismissed from the church in Boxford to the church in Middleton Aug. 29, 1773. It is said that Asa Stiles was at one time town clerk of Middleton.

"Asa Stiles resided on lot No. 20 in the 10th range, said lot being originally the north-west corner lot of Wilton; said 10th range, when Temple was incorporated, being disannexed from Wilton and annexed to Temple. He purchased of the original proprietor, George Jaffrey of Portsmouth, N. H., lot No. 18, in the 8th range (Wilton, N. H.); consideration of the deed 300 Spanish dollars; date of the deed Apr. 2, 1791. The same was conveyed to Asa Stiles, Jr., Oct. 15, 1791; con. £37. It is the same now owned by his (Asa[4]) great-grandson, Joseph W. Stiles of Wilton, and one of the very few owned by descendants of original proprietors. He died Apr. 19, 1808. His widow d. Jan. 13, 1823" (see Hist. Temple, pp. 164–5).

Children (all of whom, with exception of Asa, are recorded at Middleton):

90. I. Asa[5], b. at Boxford, Nov. 17, 1765 [records furnished by descendants give the date of Asa's birth as Nov. 10, 1765, which very likely is the correct one, the Boxford record probably referring to the date of baptism]; m. Betty Stiles, Mrs. Abigail (Harwood) Carson and Polly Dascomb. Family 26.

91. II. Ebenezer[5], b. Aug. 28, 1769; m. Sarah Killam. Family 27.

103. V. Fanny[5], b. Mch. 30, 1778; m. June 17, 1800, Oliver Whiting (b. in Temple, N. H., Jan. 5, 1778), the seventh in descent from Rev. Samuel Whiting, the 1st minister of Lynn, Mass., and his 2nd wife Elizabeth (sister of Oliver) St. John of Bedfordshire, Eng. This lady, who was distinguished for her virtues and accomplishments, had a most remarkable pedigree. It is traced in two distinct lines to William, the Norman, and in her were united the lineage of ten of the sovereigns of Europe — a confluence of noble blood not often witnessed (History of Lynn, Mass., p. 274). Oliver and Fanny (Stiles) Whiting settled in Wilton, N. H., where he d. Aug. 2, 1849; she d. May 24, 1866. Issue:

149. Caleb[4] Stiles, Jr. [54] (Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Middleton, Mass., June 19, 1737; married Feb. 7, 1760, Mary (or Elizabeth) Townsend at Hollis, N. H.; res. in Hollis for a number of years; probably went there from Amherst, N. H., before his marriage; was of Hollis in 1779, when he and his father Caleb Stiles, Sen., received as bounty from the town of Hollis, for service one year in the Continental army, £300 each; also 10 bushels of rye and 10 bushels of Indian corn (see Hist. Hollis, N. H., p. 183). He died Oct., 1824, in Danville, Vt., to which place a number of Hollis families are said to have removed after the close of the Revolutionary War. Most of his children, with their families, seem to have been among the Hollis people who removed either to Danville or to towns in the vicinity. He applied for a pension Nov., 1819, and was living June, 1820, with his son Samuel, at Danville, Vt.; had no family with him, by which it may be understood that his wife was not at that time living (Pension Records).

* Died at Middleton, Mass., Jan. 26, 1857, of consumption, Franklin Osgood Stiles, æ. 32.

Mr. Stiles was born in M., and his father is at present a deacon in the Orthodox Cong. Church in that place. When but 14 years of age he was sufficiently decided in his religious views to admit of his union with the church. The influence of the Christian principles he at that time professed was to increase the attractiveness that Nature herself had rendered winning. At the age of 17 yrs. he became a pupil at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., where he remained until his 18th year. At this time he manifested a great taste for mechanics, and under the instructions of his brother, David Stiles, in his native town, he applied himself to learn the trade of a blacksmith. But after six years spent at the forge, desiring better facilities for improving his mind than his situation afforded, he left his native place to become a student at Leicester Academy. He there studied assiduously for four years, and then entered Amherst College with the design of educating himself for the ministry. He graduated at Amherst with high honors in the fall of 1856. Very soon after the close of his collegiate course he went to test his strength by teaching in an academy at Adrian, Mich. Here his disease made rapid progress, and in a few months he returned home to die. * * * With a calm and unwavering trust in Christ, whose presence he recognized continually, he set out cheerfully to be led by Him through the "Valley of the shadow of death" unto the presence of his Heavenly Father.—Newspaper Obituary.

FAMILY 23.

211. Ebenezer[5] Stiles [76] (Joseph[4], Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Wilton, N. H., June 14, 1765; married Sarah (dau. of Benjamin and Sarah) Killam* of Temple, N. H. She was b. at Wilmington, Mass., Apr., 1766; died at Peru, Vt., Sept. 30, 1868 [being as will be seen, 102 years 5 mos. 16 days old]. After their marriage they res. for 9 years at Wilton, then after spending over a year at Temple, they removed, about 1800, to Landgrove, where they lived for 12 years. In 1813 they rem. to a farm which they had purchased in Peru, Vt. Here he died, Sept. 21, 1857, "where he had lived, loved, labored and worshiped, while years rolled away and generations changed, until at the call of his God he slept to waken not, in the 92d year of his age." He was a volunteer for the War of 1812, serving for a short time. Ebenezer Stiles and his wife were both members of the Cong. church until their deaths. They lived together 65 years. His death was the first in the family.

* Sarah Killam was the third of the 9 children of Benjamin and Sarah Killam, all of whom she outlived. Her father, a farmer, living in Wilmington, Mass., took a lively interest in the affairs of the young colonies. In 1770 he removed with his family (by ox team) to Temple, N. H., during the first tide of special emigration to what was then known as the "Hampshire grants." Mrs. Stiles (then a child of 7 years) remembered going on horseback all the way from Wilmington to Temple, a distance of 50 miles. Her descendants have heard her tell of seeing the Red Coats pass her father's house in Wilmington, on their way from Boston to Haverhill. It is mentioned as a notable fact that the color of her wedding dress was red. She was a wonderfully cheerful Christian; was always ready to talk on the subject of religion, and could repeat a great deal of scripture. On her 100th birthday a religious meeting was held at the house of the son with whom she was living, and she repeated passages of scripture, her mind being very clear, etc., etc.

372. Caleb[5] Stiles, Jr. [151] (Caleb[4], Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Hollis, N. H., Feb. 17, 1765; m. at Hollis, Feb. 7, 1787, Betty [also called Betsey and Elizabeth], eldest child of Ephraim and Esther (Stone) Pierce, b. at Hollis, Sept. 26, 1766. Caleb Stiles, Jr. (then in his 17th year), was one of eight soldiers to whom the town of Hollis, in 1779, paid a bounty of £300 for service for one year in the Continental army. His father and Ephraim Pierce (his future father-in-law), were also of the number; they were gone nearly a year, and all returned together. He died Feb. 26, 1807. His widow in July, 1839 (then living at Barnet, Vt.), applied for (and probably secured) a pension on account of his military services. Caleb Stiles and his wife Betsey were admitted to church membership in Barnet, Vt., July 1, 1801, and their dau. Catharine was baptized there, as were nearly all their children. They had a large family (Pension Office Records, Washington, D. C.).

Jan. 26, 1768), dau. of Ephraim and Esther (Stone) Peirce of Hollis. He probably removed from Hollis to Danville, Vt., at the same time with his parents and brothers, which is supposed to have been not many years after the close of the Revolutionary War. It is understood that he spent his last years at Barnet, Vt., and that he died there.

459. Nathaniel[5] Stiles [154] (Caleb[4], Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Hollis, N. H., Dec. 14, 1770 (Hollis Records).

[We have no record of the marriage of Nathaniel Stiles, nor do we know the name of his wife; but certain facts in the history of one Samuel Stephens Stiles, whose father's name is now known to have been Nathaniel, warrant us, as we think, in assigning the appended family to the son of Caleb, Jr. M. S. P. G.]

The father of Samuel Stephens Stiles [whom we consider to have been the son of Caleb, Jr.] died at Chester, Vermont, in 1792 or 1793. Samuel S., his 3d child, was born about 1793, after his father's death. (So says Hon. Wm. H. Stiles of Montgomery Centre, Vt.)

472. Joshua[5] Stiles [165] (Joshua[4], Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born in Lyndeborough, N. H. (in that part of the town now called Greenfield), Oct. 8, 1779; married Elizabeth Tuck of Manchester, Mass. (b. Oct. 29, 1784), Jan. 8, 1807. "Joshua Stiles was a successful school-teacher for over twenty-five years, having taught in several different places in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. In the branch of mathematics he was exceptionally proficient, and while Nathaniel Bowditch was preparing the copy for his famous 'Navigator,' a book known to the mercantile marine of the entire civilized world, Mr. Stiles was employed to write out the separate calculations from which the valuable tables of that book were constructed.

"Mr. Stiles gave private instruction in fitting young men for college, and several of his pupils subsequently became eminent in social, scientific, business and judicial standing in their respective communities." [The above biographical sketch was furnished by E. N. Walton, Esq., junior editor of the Salem Gazette, Salem, Mass., who is a nephew of Mr. Stiles.] Mr. Stiles died at the home of his son, Ammi B. Stiles, of Waltham, Mass., Dec. 19, 1860.

Feb. 17, 1877, and where his widow still lives. "Ammi Burnham Stiles was born in Milford, New Hampshire, July 13, 1815. His parents removed to Waltham, Mass., when he was ten years old.

"The rudiments of his education were obtained in a little factory school-house, now standing on Elm street. Gen. N. P. Banks was a member of the school at the same time. The young Ammi learned the painter's trade of his brother Joshua, and was a very skillful workman. Mr. Stiles was the only sign painter in town for many years. He was, besides, a very ingenious man, and a perfect master of tools. He conducted his business systematically and accumulated property.

"He was very fond of music; understood the theory perfectly, and played well on the organ, piano and violin.

"He was an earnest Episcopalian, and a constant attendant upon the services of the church.

"A zealous friend of temperance, an ardent anti-slavery man, he let his principles be known on every suitable occasion. He was very fond of the study of astronomy, and owned a large telescope with which he took frequent observations. Mr. Alvin Clarke of Cambridge, now a maker of telescopes, was a valued friend of Mr. Stiles, and a number of years ago painted his portrait.

"Mr. Stiles died on the 17th of March, 1877, greatly regretted by all who knew him."—Local paper. They had no children.

FAMILY 43.

503. Dea. David[6] Stiles, Jr. [196] (Dea. David[5], Ezekiel[4], Ebenezer[3], Jr., Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Middleton, Mass., June 19, 1813; married Rebecca Perry of Danvers, Mass., Apr. 21, 1836; she b. Jan. 17, 1815; d. Feb. 2, 1887; resided in Middleton. Their golden wedding was celebrated Apr. 21, 1886. He died Aug. 7, 1889.

Mr. Stiles was a direct descendant of Mary Estey who, with her sister Rebecca Morse, was executed for witchcraft in 1692. Mr. Stiles' great grandmother was Susannah Estey, whose great grandmother was Mary Estey above mentioned.

Mr. Stiles received the rudiments of an education at the old brick school-house in the northern district of Middleton. After he was nine years of age, as was the usual custom in those days, he remained at home during the summer terms to help on the farm, and attended school only in the winter season after that time.

He early evinced a mechanical ingenuity and skill which was remarkable, and his father erected a workshop for him in which he accomplished considerable in the line of iron-work and repairing for his father and the neighboring farmers.

At the age of 16 years he was apprenticed to Dea. Frederick Howe of Danvers, to learn the trade of a blacksmith.

In March, 1835, he purchased a blacksmith shop standing on the site of the present residence of Capt. Thomas Hoyt, in Middleton, where he worked most successfully at his chosen vocation till 1859, when he sold the land, took down the old shop, but continued working at his trade in a shop, which he fitted up with modern conveniences and appliances, nearer his residence.

July 16, 1850, Mr. Stiles obtained letters-patent on a hay and stalk cutter, and for several years afterward he was busily engaged in the manufacture and sale of that machine.

He was an earnest supporter of the Cong. church in Middleton, of which he became a member in 1832, and was a teacher in the Sabbath school in connection with it — when not its superintendent — for about 60 years. He held offices of trust in the gift of his fellow townsmen; holding the office of town treasurer eight years; also serving on the board of selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor.

Mr. Stiles was appointed a justice of the peace in Dec., 1887, by his excellency Gov. Oliver Ames.

He was much interested in the history of old families, especially of his native place, and he wrote the history of Middleton, which was printed in the "History of Essex County," which was published in 1888.

He gave much time to the investigation of family records, traditions and ancient documents relating to local history. He wrote an essay on "The Horse," which was printed in the "Transactions of Essex Co. Agricultural Society;" and he was invited by several farmers' clubs to deliver before them his lecture on that subject. He was a regular correspondent of the Salem Mercury for many years, and an occasional contributor to other publications.

He was a self-made man, enterprising and prompt in execution. He was a public-spirited citizen, and it has been said of him that "he was always ready to spend time and money for the furtherance of any good work."

He worked zealously in the anti-slavery cause, when it cost something to be anti-slavery man.

The Danvers Mirror, at the time of his death, said: "Mr. Stiles was in many ways a remarkable and notable man, and he was known generally in this section, and well throughout the State. He was of robust form, and pleasing manners, a good talker on almost any occasion, well informed, and a painstaking and accurate writer on local history, genealogy, agricultural matters and the horse."

We quote the following from a long article in the Salem Mercury, after his death: "He was a good and faithful workman, prudent, thrifty and saving, and soon became forehanded. He was a good type of the old-fashioned New England life and character. Like most men of marked individuality of character, he had his peculiar traits, but behind all this was honesty of conviction, a good order of intelligence, and a controlling desire to lead a life of usefulness among men. If upon political or religious questions he was ever earnest and positive in the interchange of views with any of his townsmen or friends, no warmth of controversy ever left in him a feeling of bitterness toward any man. He was by nature kind of heart and genial in temperament."

Mr. Stiles died while visiting in Sodus, N. Y. He left home Aug. 1, apparently in the best of health and spirits, took a sudden cold, and had an attack of congestion of the bowels (the same disease of which his father, bearing the same name, died just 26 years before), and in one short week his body was returned in a casket to his sorrowing family. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. J. Richardson of Lincoln, but a native of Middleton, who had known the deceased from early life. Mr. Richardson spoke first of Mr. Stiles as a valued neighbor and kind friend, who always had sympathy for those who were in sickness or trouble, and was ever ready with kindly offices. He said: "This large assembly of the people of the town testifies to the general feeling that the community has sustained a great loss in the death of a citizen who for more than 50 years had the best interests of his fellow-citizens and the town at heart. * * * From the time of his uniting with the church to the day of his death he was always deeply interested in its welfare, and was active in church work and parish matters. * * * It is but seemingly a short time since this house was filled to pay the last tribute of respect to the faithful, gentle, self-distrustful woman who for more than half a century was the companion of our brother, who now has joined her, we trust, in the heavenly rest."

It is thought that he may have been born at Chester, Vt., a little previous to 1790, as he had a sister younger than himself, but older than their brother Samuel Stephens, who is supposed to have been born about 1793. Nathaniel Stiles went to St. Albans, Vt., when a young man; was a blacksmith by trade. "The name of Nathaniel Stiles is found on the 'Grand List' of St. Albans for 1823 and other years" (Town Clerk's Letter, 1885). We have heard from one source that he lived at some period of his life at Georgia, Vt., and we are also informed that he is believed to have died at St. Albans about 1838.

819. Samuel Stephens[6] Stiles [462] (Nathaniel[5], Caleb[4] Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born about 1793, at Chester, Vt. (after the death of his father). While a boy he lived in Fitchburg, Mass., with a Mr. Harris. With the exception of the time he lived in F., his boyhood was mostly spent in Chester, Clarendon and Vergennes (all in Vt.). His son thinks he must have gone to St. Albans as early as 1812, from the fact of his having heard the cannonading at the battle of Plattsburgh, although it is possible that it could be heard at Vergennes. He lived several years at St. A.; while a young man he went to Enosburgh, Vt., where he had relatives living. At E., about 1822, he married Hannah, dau. of Talma Hendrick. They lived at E. and the adjoining towns of Berkshire and Montgomery for over thirty years. About 1848, they removed to Chemung, Walworth county, Wis., some of their children having preceded them. They afterward rem. to Harvard, McHenry Co., Ill., where Mr. Stiles died about 1859, and his wife a few years later. (The foregoing account was furnished by the eldest son, Hon. W. H. Stiles of Montgomery Centre, Vt.).

Mr H Stiles

FAMILY 115.

989. William Howard[7] Stiles [820] (Samuel Stephens[6], Nathaniel[5], Caleb[4] Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Enosburgh, Vt., June 21, 1823. [Mr. Stiles has given us the romantic origin of his name, as follows: His aunt Elcy Stiles, who died when a young woman, unm., was engaged to one William Howard, and at her request, the parents of the writer named him in honor of her affianced; and her letters to his parents afterward were full of affection for her baby nephew. From these letters, which he remembers seeing when a child, a very favorable impression was created in his mind as to her worthiness as a friend and relative. (Letter of Hon. Wm. H. Stiles.)

Mr. Stiles married in Enosburgh, Vt., Sept. 25, 1849, Betsey Miller of E., and now (1883) res. at Montgomery Centre, Vt.

He has furnished an interesting biographical sketch. He says: "My parents being poor, I began to work out when 8 years old, working the first summer for my board and clothes, and after that receiving wages by the month or year, reserving three months in the winter of each year till 20 years of age for attending the district school, working out of school hours to pay my board. A large share of my wages during my minority went for the support of our large family. I commenced life for myself by buying fifty acres of wild mountain land which I cleared, hiring my board meanwhile of the nearest neighbor, and selling the products received from the land. In the course of three years I had the land mostly cleared of timber, at which time I sold it and began the manufacture of butter tubs and lumber, in which business I have been interested more or less ever since. My occupation at present (1883) is that of farmer and merchant. I have a dairy of fifty cows, and am senior partner in the mercantile firm of Stiles & Co. The greater part of the time for the last 35 years, I have been engaged in the manufacture of butter packages in this town (Montgomery, Vt.). With regard to public offices, I will merely say that I have held most of the town offices; have been justice of the peace for nearly 30 years; I have represented the town in the General Assembly in 1859 and 1860; was State Senator in 1872 and '73, and have been postmaster in this place for the last ten years."

Children:

990. I. Annette L.[8], b. Oct. 28, 1850; grad. from the Vermont State Normal School in both courses in 1870. She subsequently taught six terms in the same Normal School. She m. Oct. 28, 1875, Samuel N. Dix of Montgomery Center, a partner of the mercantile firm of Stiles & Co. Mr. Dix was a member of the 15th Regt. Vt. Vols. during the late Civil War. He has been twice elected Representative to the General Assembly.

991. II. William Miller[8], b. Oct. 26, 1859; m. May Inez Ranney. Family 120.

FAMILY 116.

992. Benjamin Franklin[7] Stiles [823] (Samuel Stephens[6], Nathaniel[5], Caleb[4] Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born about 1829; m. Sarah Ann Jenne; is a farmer, and resides in Berkshire, Vt.

Child:

993. I. Mary Amelia[8], m. about 1879, John M. Robb. They reside at Montgomery Center, Vt.

FAMILY 117.

994. Sampson D.[7] Stiles [833] (Albert[6], Jonathan[5], Caleb[4] Jr., Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born in Vermont; m. Miss Connor, of Burlington, Vt.; resides (1885) at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Stiles served as 1st Lieut in the 9th Regt. N. Y. Vol. Cavalry, from Sept., 1861, to Oct. 14, 1864, when he was honorably mustered out of service; was afterward 1st Lieut. in a regiment belonging to the Hancock Corps, serving from Sept. 12, 1865, to Jan. 31, 1866; was then mustered out (War Dept. Record).

Children:

995. I. Henry L.[8]

996. II. Albert D.[8]

997. III. Carrie S.[8]; m. Mr. Ross.

FAMILY 118.

998. George Dearborn[7] Stiles [836] (Caleb Oscar[6], Caleb Dalton[5], Joshua[4], Caleb[3], Ebenezer[2], Robert[1]), was born at Lowell, Mass., June 8, 1844; m. at Middleton, Mass., Mch. 12, 1871, Eliza Frances Thomas (b. at M., Mch. 17, 1853); res. (1886) at Lynn, Mass.; d. Apr. 1, 1891.

In the Lynn Saturday Union, Jan. 19, 1884, was published a sketch of George D. Stiles, which we give almost entire.

"When he was very young his parents removed with him to Greenfield, N. H., in which place he passed his infancy and boyhood. At the time the war broke out in 1861 he was attending the academy in the neigboring town of Hancock, and though then but 17 years of age, he at once left his school and enlisted (Sept. 18, 1861) in Company C, Fourth New Hampshire Regt., Col. Thomas J. Whipple. Mr. Stiles was in active service all through the war, participating in many hotly contested engagements, and suffering all the privations and hardships incident to the life of a soldier. He was promoted through the regular gradations of rank from a private to corporal and sergeant, and in Oct. (14), 1864, he was transferred and promoted to the 2nd Lieutenancy of the 22d U. S. C. Infantry, and was soon after (Jan. 10, 1865) promoted to the 1st Lieutenancy of the same regiment. Sometime after this he was assigned to duty as Regimental Quartermaster, which position he held at the close of the war. Mr. Stiles was in the engagements at Port Royal, and accompanied the expedition under T. W. Sherman, that occupied the southern coast from Port Royal, S. C., to St. Augustine, Fla. He was in the engagement at Pocataglio, S. C., and was engaged in the siege of Morris Island. Soon after the capture of Morris Island, his first period of enlistment having nearly expired, Mr. Stiles reenlisted. After a short furlough home he was transferred to the Army of the James, and served under Gen. Butler. He was in the battle at Drury's Bluff, and in the engagement at Weir Bottom Church. He was present also at the battle of Cold Harbor, and all the principal engagements in front of Petersburg, and also at Deep Bottom and Fort Harrison. At the close of the war Mr. Stiles had the honor of being in command of a company that marched into the rebel capital. After the war closed Mr. Stiles went to the Texas frontier with a body of troops sent there by our government to guard against the apprehended encroachments of France in defiance of our Monroe doctrine in the time of the Maximilian revolution. At this time Mr. Stiles occupied the position of Quartermaster. After remaining in Texas for a few months, Mr. Stiles resigned (Aug. 23, 1868), and returned to his home in New Hampshire.

* * * * * * *

"Mr. Stiles remained in service over four years, being but 17 when he enlisted and over 21 when he resigned.

"Although he was present at many serious engagements, and had many narrow escapes, he was never wounded."

About a year after the close of the war Mr. Stiles went to Middleton, Mass., and learned the trade of shoemaker. At Middleton he married, and worked at his trade for six years and removed to this city [Lynn] in 1873.

He at once became an active and prominent member of the order of Knights of St. Crispin, being for some time its secretary. He was among the early founders of the Workingmen's party, and has always sustained a prominent position in their ranks. He was elected as assistant assessor in Ward 4, in 1879, and on Jan. 1, assumed the position which he now holds in the board of assessors.

In 1882 he was again elected by the large majority of 1,700.

In 1883 he was a prominent candidate for the mayoralty by the Workingmen's party.

Mr. Stiles has been connected with the G. A. R. post in this city for several years. In Dec., 1883, he was elected post commander.

During his residence in Lynn, Mr. Stiles has become widely and well known to her citizens. His ability as a public official is known and respected, while his genial qualities as a man, and his sterling public spirit as a citizen, are recognized by all who come in contact with him."

In the fall of 1885, Mr. Stiles was appointed to a clerkship in the Pension office, Boston, Mass., which position he retained until his death.

Mrs. Stiles has long been identified in various capacities with the Woman's Relief Corps of this district.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT STILES, THE EMIGRANT, IN THE LINE OF HIS SON ROBERT JR.

Family 2.

17. Robert[2] Stiles Jr. [11] (Robert[1]), was born at Rowley Village (which was incorporated as a town in 1686, under the name of Boxford), Mass., Nov. 15, 1675. According to Boxford Records, he was married to Ruth Bridges, Nov. 10, 1699. [Ruth Bridges, who m. Robert Stiles, Jr., was doubtless dau. of Josiah (son of Edmund, the emigrant) and Ruth (Greenslip) Bridges, of Boxford. She was probably born at Ipswich, Mass., before the removal of her parents to Boxford. Perley's History of B. gives some account of Josiah Bridges, but does not mention Ruth in his list of Josiah's children, which may be explained as above.—M. S. P. G.] Ruth, wife of Robert Stiles, was admitted to full communion, Mch. 4, 1704–5 (Boxford Ch. Records).

The land records of Lebanon, Conn., show that "Robert Stiles of Boxford, Essex county, Massachusetts Bay," purchased 200 acres of land for the sum of £100, in the year 1718. The town clerk of Lebanon who examined the records for information relating to Stileses, remarks, concerning the lands purchased by Robert Stiles: "I do not find that he disposed of it by conveyance, and conclude that he must have died while still in possession of the land, and it must have descended to his heirs by will or distribution." From the town records of Hebron, Conn., we find that "Robert Stiles died on ye 25th day of February, 1720."

Children (the births of all the children of Robert Stiles Jr., are recorded at Boxford, and all, excepting the eldest, were baptized there):

18. I. Jemima[3], b. Oct. 27, —17, (1700?) "Bapt. Mar. 9, 1701, R]obard Stiles, his Jemima" (Topsfield Records).

* NOTE.—In both instances where the date of birth of children of Robert Stiles Jr., is given in full, the child's baptism took place within a few days of its birth. From this we suspect that there may be a mistake in the records as to the day of the month of Hepzibah's baptism, which, perhaps, should be Nov. 16, instead of Nov. 6, 1709.—M. S. P. G.

† Rev. C. E. Phelps, who furnished the Genealogy of Hepzibah (Stiles) Phelps' family, thinks some of the dates of births of her children may be inaccurate.

FAMILY 3.

29. Nathan[3] Stiles [19] (Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., May 7, 1703; bapt. July 19, 1703 (Boxford Records); m. Ruth Carlings, Mch. 3, 1726. He died Mch. 19, 1760. His marriage and death are recorded at Hebron, Conn., where he undoubtedly spent most of his life. The Probate Records at Colchester, Conn., show that the estate of Nathan Stiles was settled at C.

Children (from Hebron, Conn., Records):

30. I. Nathan[4] Jr., was undoubtedly the eldest child, although the date of his birth does not accompany the record of the event on the Hebron Books. We think he could hardly have been born later than 1728, probably was born earlier. He married Keziah Kilbron (so says the record; this name is doubtless the same as Kilburn or Kilbourne). Family 6.

31. II. Robert[4], b. Jan. 25, 1730–31; m. Patience ——. Family 7.

32. III. Stephen[4], b. May 22, 1733; m. Rebecca Brown. Family 8.

33. IV. Mary[4], b. Apr. 28, 1735.

34. V. Abigail[4], b. Aug. 23, 1738.

FAMILY 4.

35. Lt. Amos[3] Stiles [20] (Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born Boxford, Mass., Apr. 20, 1705; bapt. Apr. 22, 1705 (Boxford Records); m. Martha Skinner, "June ye 24 1736." "Lt Amos Stiles, died Oct. 3, 1758, in ye 54 year of his age." His marriage and death are recorded at Hebron, Conn. From the Land Records of Lebanon, Conn., we learn that "Amos Stiles of Hebron, Conn., purchased estate at L., Sept., 1745." The following was found at Colchester, Dec. 17, 1886, by Dr. D. W. Patterson: "Est. of Amos Stiles, of Hebron, dec'd, Amos Stiles, administrator, presented acc. 2 Ap. 1759, and asked for a distribution, and was 'allowed' to be guardian to Benjamin, Aaron, and Edmund Stiles, minors." The word "allowed" indicates that they were over 14 years old, and chose him. Samuel

Tiler and Asa Phelps were app. to divide the estate. The inventory of the estate, £170, was made 18 Nov., 1758. The Probate Records of Colchester show that the estate of Amos Stiles was settled there. (Information obtained by P. R. Strong, Esq., of Colchester, Conn.)

Children (from Hebron Records):

36. I. Amos[4], b. July 9, 1737; d. Mch. 15, 1760 "in ye 23d year of his age" (Hebron Records).
37. II. Benjamin[4], b. Feb. 8, 1739–40; m. Damaris Brown. Family 9.
38. III. Aaron[4], b. May 19, 1742; m. Rebecca Clark. Family 10.
39. IV. Edmund[4], b. June 15, 1744; m. Lydia Porter. Family 11.

Family 5.

40. Job[3] Stiles [28] (Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., July 12, 17—; bapt. July 17, 1715 (Boxford Records).

[Our supposition that 1715 was the year of Job Stiles' birth is fortunately confirmed by the church records of Granville, Mass., which give the date of his death and age at that time.]

According to the Hebron, Conn., Records, Job Stiles and Anna Bliss [who was a dau. of John Bliss] were married Sept. 22, 1736. Judging from the records of the births of their children, they must have removed from Hebron to Colchester, Conn., sometime between March, 1742–3, and Jan., 1744–5, for the birth of their 3d child, Mch. 5, 1742–3, is recorded at Hebron, while that of the 4th, Jan. 10, 1744–5, is on the Colchester Records, as are also 7 others born subsequently.

Found by Dr. D. W. Patterson, at Colchester, Conn., Dec. 17, '86(?): "Job Stiles, and Anne Stiles, his wife, both of Colchester, ack. rec't, 3 July, 1750, of the portion which belonged to her as one of the daughters of Mr. John Bliss of Hebron, [Conn.], dec'd."

April 19, 1764, Job Stiles sold his farm of 47 acres to John Blesh [Bliss?] for £220 (Colchester Land Records). P. R.

Strong, Esq., who examined the records, says: "This farm lay about 8 miles from what is now *Marlborough (incorporated as a town in 1821)."

Job Stiles removed to Granville, Mass., about 1764. This we learn from the deposition of his son, John, on applying for a pension for services in the Revolutionary War (Pension Records, Washington, D. C.).

It is said that the land now occupied by the meeting-house, at East Granville, Mass., was formerly a part of the farm of Job Stiles.

In a "Record of Families," made by Rev. T. M. Cooley (while pastor of the Congregational Church at E. Granville) occurs the following: "1796, Job Stiles 81 yrs. of age." Without question, this was Job Stiles Senior. In another part of the church records kept by Rev. Mr. Cooley, occurs this entry: "Joel Stiles died, March, 1797, at the age of 82 years."

It is clear that this is the record of the death of the Job Stiles, who was 81 in 1796, and it is also easy to see that the mistake in spelling was a natural one.

In the same record the death of Anna Stiles, in 1782, aged 60, is given, which is undoubtedly that of Job's wife, Anna (Bliss) Stiles.

Job Stiles m. (2), Mrs. Dorcas (widow of Israel) Stiles of Westfield, Mass. (See p. 229, Conn. Fam. of Stiles.)

Children† (by 1st marriage):

41. I. Job[4] Jr.; m. Lydia Phelps and Dorcas Stiles. Family 12.

42. II. Elijah[4], b. May 12, 1740; m. Dorothy ——. Family 13.

* We have seen a statement made by a descendant of Mrs. Grace (Stiles) Bancroft, claiming that she (Grace) was born at "Mulbery," Conn. This we found hard to reconcile with the Colchester record, but when we learned that a town named Marlborough had been formed from a portion of Colchester, we saw the whole thing very clearly, for we remember hearing in our childhood certain old people mention Marlborough, N. H., which they pronounced as if it were spelt Maulbry.—M. S. P. G.

†A copy of the record of births of the last 8 children of Job Stiles, furnished by P. R. Strong, Esq., of Colchester, Conn.:

"Jan 10, 1746, Jemima, Dau to Job Stiles; John his Sone was born Oct 6, 1745; Livinne his Dau was born Apr 3, 1749; Eunice his Dau was born Jan 28, 1751; Grace his Dau was born Nov. 3, 1755; Eunice his Dau was born Jan 31, 1756; Samuel his Son was born Aug. 25, 1751; Samuel his Son was born Jan. 1, 1758. Eunice died Jan. 31, 1756; the first Samuel died Oct 26, 1757."

43. III. Lydia[4], b. at Hebron, Conn., Mch. 5, 1742–3.

Probably the remaining 8 children of Job and Anna were born at Colchester, as they are there recorded. On the next page will be found a copy of the said record, by Mr. P. R. Strong of C., who vouches for it as a "true copy," which, however, turns out to be any thing but a true record, and proves that the early town clerk was not infallible.

44. IV. Jemima[4], b. Jan. 10, 1744–5; bapt. Jan. 22, 1744–5.

(It will be seen by comparing the dates here given, with the record in the foot-note on this page, that the latter gives 1746 as the year of Jemima's birth, and 1745 as that of her next younger brother, John. For a long time we were sorely puzzled over the discrepancies of the "true copy," and finally gave up all expectation of reconciling them. Fortunately, however, after a time, we received from Dr. H. R. Stiles the following item: "Jemima, Dau. of Job Stiles, bap. 22d Jan., 1744," which his friend Dr. D. W. Patterson, of Hartford, Conn., had found in the Colchester Record. This solved the difficulty in Jemima's case, for it was clear that 1744 must be the true date of her birth, and we have accordingly substituted this date in our "revised version." In the case of John, who comes next to Jemima in the Colchester Record, we have his own testimony at the time of applying for a pension, and on the strength of that shall take the responsibility of placing him below his sister Lavinne.—M. S. P. G.)

45. V. Lavinne[4], b. Apr. 3, 1749; m. Benjamin Stow, at Granville, Mass., Mch. 30, 1767 (Granville Records). "They emigrated to the Western Reserve, and settled at Nelson, Portage Co., Ohio, where they were living in 1830," says an aged relative of theirs (Mr. James G. Tinker, of Abilene, Kans.), who visited them there that year. Issue:

46. i. Charity[5], m. Nathaniel Bancroft, at Granville, Mass., and moved to Randolph, Portage Co., Ohio.

47. VI. John[4], b. Oct. 23, 1750 (see note following his sister Jemima's record); married Ruth Roberts. Family 14.

(According to Mr. Strong's transcript, Eunice was born Jan. 28, 1751, and would, therefore, be the 7th child, but Dr. Patterson finds that this Eunice was born Jan. 28, 1754, which makes her the 8th in order.)

48. VII. Samuel[4], b. Aug. 25, 1751 (this child is the 10th in order in the Colchester Record, but, unless the date of his birth, therein given, is wrong, he should be the 7th); he d. Oct. 26, 1757.

49. VIII. Eunice[4], b. Jan. 28, 1754.

50. IX. Grace[4], b. Nov. 3, 1755, according to the Colchester Record. (A descendant gives it as 1758, which we think must be an error, for it is a well-authenticated fact that Samuel, whom the Colchester Records give as the youngest child, was born Jan. 1, 1758. It is quite probable that the births of Job Stiles' children are given in Old Style reckoning. This would account for the apparent nearness in age of Grace to her next younger sister, Eunice, who, according to Old Style, would be a little less than a year and three months younger than Grace.—M. S. P. G.) Grace Stiles m. April 26, 1781, John Bancroft (b. at Granville, Mass., Aug. 4, 1750). They removed, in 1809, to Nelson, Portage Co., Ohio. They had 7 children, all b. at Granville, Mass. The names of none are given, but the eldest was

51. i. a son[5], b. Apr. 6, 1782 (from J. M. Bancroft, a descendant of John and Grace [Stiles] Bancroft, to Dr. H. R. Stiles, in 1871).

52. X. Eunice[4], b. Jan. 31, 1756; d. Jan. 31, 1756 (see note above).

53. XI. Samuel[4], b. Jan. 1, 1758; m. Sarah Rose. Family 15.

Child (by 2d marriage):

54. XII. Cynthia[4], b. 17—; m. Launcelot Granger. They lived at Granville, Mass., where Mr. G. died, and where Mrs. G. continued to reside until after her mother's death, when she removed to Hartford, Conn., her two daughters and son, Lester, accompanying her. She died ——, ——, at the home of her daughter, Cynthia Dewey, in Indiana. Issue:

55. i. Elsamana[5]; m. in Ill.; d. many years ago.
56. ii. Cynthia[5]; m. Ezra Dewey; rem. to Wis., near Milwaukee; many years afterward went to Indiana; finally returned to Westfield, where she d. about 1888. Mr. D. is now (1889) living in Milwaukee, Wis. They had 3 sons, of whom one d. in childhood. One son is named Fred.
57. iii. Lester[5]; m. and settled in Ill.; d. years ago, leaving a widow and one son.
58. iv. Orrin[5]; went west in early youth; married.
59. v. Olin[5] (or Owen); went west with his brother; m.

Family 6.

60. Nathan[4] Stiles Jr. [30] (Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn. (probably about 1728); m. (1) Keziah Kilbron [this surname is presumably the same as Kilbourne, Kilbourn and Kilburn] Mch. 1, 1749–50 (Hebron Records). As nearly as we can learn, the last mention of Nathan Stiles Jr. on the Hebron Records is in 1755.

"In the year 1760 two hundred emigrants from Connecticut were invited to remove to Horton, Kings Co., Nova Scotia, and take possession of it, the Acadians having removed from the place 5 years before" (Halliburton's Hist. Nova Scotia, p. 115).

"Cornwallis, N. S. [Kings Co.], was settled at the same time with Horton and by persons who emigrated from the same colony — Connecticut. They sailed together in a fleet of 22 vessels, convoyed by a brig of war mounting 16 guns, commanded by Capt. Pigot. They arrived on the 4th of June, 1760, and took possession of the lands formerly occupied by the Acadians" [ibid., p. 120].

We have a list of 60 persons who were grantees of Cornwallis, N. S., in 1761. Among them was one named Nathan Styles, undoubtedly Nathan Stiles Jr., of Hebron, Conn.

A descendant of Nathan Styles (or Stiles), of Cornwallis (Capt. D. F. Stiles, of Fort Uncompahgre, Col.), has sent us all that he has been able to learn concerning his ancestor. Lieut. Stiles says: "Nathan Stiles was born in the New England States about 1730 or 1741*, probably at Boxford, Mass., or Hebron, Conn.† He married Sarah Rockwell.‡ He served in the British army at the capture of Louisburg in 1758, and at Quebec in 1759. He was one of the New England colonists who moved to Nova Scotia in 1760 or 1761 and settled at the St. John's River in New Brunswick; then called Nova Scotia. After the expulsion of the Acadians from Nova Scotia, 60 of the colonists, Nathan Styles being of the number,§ were each granted a bounty of 500 acres in what is now Kings county, N. S., to which place Nathan moved with his family. He died at Cornwallis in 1808. They had children as follows:" (The names will be found under "children by 2nd marriage.")

Children by 1st marriage (first three from Hebron, Conn., Records):

61. I. Israel[5], b. June 15, 1751 (prob. d. young, as another child rec'd the same name).
62. II. Lois[5], b. Sept. 6, 1853.
63. III. Phebe[5], b. July 5, 1755.
64. IV. Oliver[5], b. before 1760, prob. as early as 1757, as he m. Rebecca Peck in 1776. Family 16.

Children by 2nd marriage (furnished by Lt. D. F. Stiles):

65. V. John[5].
66. VI. David[5].
67. VII. Nathan[5].
68. VIII. Josiah[5].
69. IX. Reuben[5]. Family 17.
70. X. Sarah[5].
71. XI. Keziah[5].
72. XII. Ruth[5].
73. XIII. Israel[5], b. Nov. 14, 1784; m. Elizabeth McKenzie. Family 18.

* Nathan Stiles Jr. must have been born previous to 1730.

† Nathan Stiles Jr. was born at Hebron, Conn.

‡ Sarah Rockwell must have been a 2d wife, and doubtless belonged to one of the Rockwell families that emigrated to Nova Scotia at the same time with Nathan Stiles Jr.

FAMILY 7.

74. Robert[4] Stiles [31] (Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., Jan. 25, 1730–31; m. Patience ——— (Hebron Records).

Children (from Hebron Records):

75. I. Robert[5], b. Mch. 15, 1757. All that we know of this Robert Stiles is comprised in the "allegation" made by him on applying for a pension, and which we discovered among material sent us by the commissioner of pensions at Washington, D. C., and is as follows:

"Robert Stiles, in April, 1818, of Schoharie, N. Y., and states he enlisted in March or April, 1777, for 3 years, with Capt. Fitch, in Col. Durkee's Conn. Regt., serving as corporal and sergeant. He was in the battle at Fort Miller [captured Nov. 10, 1777, and situated on the Delaware river, just below Philadelphia]. His brother, Beriah, of Schoharie, N. Y., served with him in the same company. In Oct., 1820, he states he was in his 64th year of his age, a cripple for many years—that previous to his service, in 1777, he was out between one and two years, first at Roxbury, during the siege of Boston, 4 or 5 months; next he went into Col. Wylly's regt. at N. Y. city, remaining 9 months or a year. His family in 1820 consisted of himself and wife, the latter 67 years old. His name was placed on pension-roll July 29, 1819."

76. II. Patience[5], b. Aug. 6, 1758.

77. III. Beriah[5], b. Sept. 19, 1760. [His own statement—see below—gives Mch., 1761, as the date of his birth.] As in the case of his brother, Robert, we have obtained all we know of his history from the pension office records. It is as follows: Beriah Stiles, in April, 1818, was living in Schoharie, N. Y. He was born March, 1761 (?). He enlisted at Chatham, Conn., in Oct., 1775, with Capt. Blake, in Col. Sage's regt., for 6 months, going to the siege of Boston. In April, 1776, he volunteered for 6 months with Capt. Wetmore, in Col. Sage's Regt., to go to N. Y. city. [During this service he was stationed at Governor's Island to oppose the landing of the British.] In Nov., 1776, he joined, for 4 months, Capt. Hyde's Co., which was stationed at Stamford, Conn., and at White Plains, where he immediately engaged to serve 3 months longer. At Chatham, in the spring of 1777, he volunteered for 3 years with Capt. Fitch in Col. Durkee's Regt., and was in the battle at White Plains (Oct. 28, 1776), and at Germantown (Oct. 4, 1777). His brother Robert was a witness. Before 1830 he removed to Monroe Co. (probably to Mendon). In 1830, he had a wife living, near 60 years old, and also stated he had no children, which may mean none living with him, or none at all living."

78. IV. Martin[5], b. Nov. 20, 1762; m. Candace Cone. Family 19.

79. V. Lotan[5], was living, Nov., 1844, in Mendon, Monroe Co., N. Y., aged 75 years. (From the deposition of his brother, Martin, in the Pension Records, Washington, D. C.)

FAMILY 8.

80. Stephen[4] Stiles [32] (Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., May 22, 1733. "Stephen Stiles, of Hebron, and Rebecca Brown, of Middletown, were joined in marriage Dec. 2, 1756" (Hebron Records). In 1762, Stephen Stiles, of Hebron, was appointed to settle the estate of some party in Ashford [Conn.] (Hoadley's Colonial Hist., vols. xii, xiii). From Lebanon, Conn., Land Records, we learn that Stephen Stiles purchased estate in Lebanon, Mch. 23, 1784, and, also, that he was still living in Hebron in 1791, when he sold land in Lebanon (G. W. Kingsley, Town Clerk of Lebanon, 1885).

Children (only the first 2 are recorded at Hebron, Conn.):

81. I. Stephen[5], b. Nov. 5, 1757; m. Irena Bliss. Family 20.

82. II. Rebecca[5], b. Sept. 23, 1759.

83. III. Reuben[5]. According to a printed U. S. pension list, published in 1840, Reuben Stiles, aged 85, was living at Beekmantown, Clinton Co., Northern N. Y. Now, if it be true that Reuben Stiles was 85 years old in 1840, he was born about 1755, before the marriage of his parents. We have, after a good deal of perplexing study of the situation, decided to place him as the 3d child in order, not because we are satisfied that he was the 3d child, but because there seems to be no better place for him, unless he was a twin with Stephen or Rebecca, which hardly seems likely, as, if he had been, we think the Hebron Records would have so stated. He married (1) —— ——; (2) Mrs. Irena Bliss (Stiles), widow of his brother Stephen.

Reuben Stiles enlisted in the War of 1812, and served in the 6th N. Y. Infantry, under Capt. Clark, of Col. Atkinson's Regt. In the battle of Lundy's Lane, at Bridgewater, Canada (July 25, 1814), he was shot through the neck and shoulder, for which he drew a pension. He died at West Chazy, N. Y., Nov. 27, 1840. He left no children.

(For most of the facts concerning Reuben Stiles we are indebted to Geo. L. Clark, Esq., of Washington, D. C., and Reuben Stiles, of Troy, Bradford Co., Pa.)

84. IV. Elizabeth[5] or Betty, b. in Hebron, Conn.; m. a Mr. Warner, of Cornwall, Vt., who d. at C. many years before his wife. She d. without issue, Oct. 9, 1860, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Orpha Risley, of DeKalb, N. Y. Mrs. Betty Warner's gravestone says she was 103 yrs. 4 months and 17 days old at the time of her death, which shows that she was born the 22d May, 1757, some 6 months before her brother, Stephen. We must confess our utter inability to make straight work of such crooked materials. Apparently there is some mistake somewhere. It seems to us that she must have been younger than Reuben, and so we have given her the place of the 4th child. Her relatives say that they have heard that she was so frail and delicate in her infancy that no one believed she could ever be raised. A nephew of hers writes us that when she was 101 years old she would spin a "day's work" of linen on a little wheel.

85. V. Ellice[5], born at Hebron; m. John Buckland. She d. at Brighton, N. Y. (near Rochester). Issue:
86. i. Abner[6].
87. ii. Warren L.[6]; res. (1885) at Rochester, N. Y.; add. 290 Monroe ave., and 3 other children.
88. VI. Asa[5], b. Mch. 6, 1768; m. Olive Rood. Family 21.
89. VII. Ebenezer[5] b. Oct. 13, 1773; m. Roxy Buckland. Family 22.
90. VIII. Samuel[5], b. May 8, 1777; m. Talitha Pierce. Family 23.
91. IX. Warren[5] (possibly was the 7th child, we cannot tell), is said to have been with the Indians west of the Mississippi, more than half a century ago. (A nephew, living [1885] at Hermon, N. Y., is the authority for this statement.)
92. X. Annis[5], b. at Hebron, 1789; d. 1839, at Fort Covington, N. Y., at the home of her nephew, Col. Ezra W. Stiles, according to one account; another says she d. at Cornwall, Vt.

FAMILY 9.

93. Benjamin[4] Stiles [37] (Lt. Amos[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born in Hebron, Conn., Feb. 8, 1739–40; m. Damaris Brown, June 6, 1765 (Hebron Records). He probably died in the early part of 1791, as the inventory of his estate, amounting to £137–6–3, was admitted to probate, Apr. 16, 1791.

Children (the eldest from Hebron Records, the rest from Lebanon, Pa.):

94. I. Martha[5], b. May 10, 1763 (prob. should be 1765). This child must have died, as there was another of the same name.

95. II. Benjamin[5] Jr.; m. Margery Brewster, of Woodstock, Vt., Feb. 25, 1802. In 1825 Amos and Nabby Stiles were living in Stillwater, Mich., presumably his children, from the connection in which they are alluded to by a relative. Mr. S. was District Clerk at Woodstock, Vt., for a number of years.

96. III. Jonathan[5], b. ——; m. at Lebanon, N. H., Jan. 22, 1804, Olive Willson; he was then of Woodstock, Vt. In 1819 his nephew, Amos Pelton, visited him. It is thought he was then living in the Mohawk Valley.

97. IV. Rachel[5], b. 1773; d. July 19, 1836, æ. 63; m. Paul Brewster, son of Ephraim and Margery, of Woodstock, Vt., and brother of Margery, wife of Benjamin Stiles Jr. Elder Brewster, who came over in the Mayflower, was an ancestor of this family. Paul Brewster served 2 years in the War of 1812. Issue:

98. i. Seth[6], m. Rosamond Densmore; both dead; left (1) John D.[7] (Dr.); (2) J. R.[7], living 1890, at Windsor, Vt.

99. ii. Russell[6], m. Joan Crooker; 2 daus.; all dead.

100. iii. Ephraim[6], m. Almira Dodge; both dead.

101. iv. George[6], m. Frances Richmond; d. ——; Mrs. Brewster was living, 1890, at Woodstock, Vt.

102. v. Lucy[6], m. Aaron Barlow. She survived him many years; lived with her brother, Russell, who owned and occupied for many years the farm which belonged to his father and on which he, the father, always lived.

103. V. Hannah[5], born ——; m. Hatsel Pelton, of Chatham, Conn. In 1802, Mr. P. bought of Ebenezer Dike, of Woodstock, Vt., a large portion of his farm of 137 acres of land, in W., and settled upon it the same year. Some of his descendants still remain in the same neighborhood (1890). Issue:

104. i. Charlotte[6], b. 1796; m. Stephen P. Kingsley, 1814.

105. ii. Sarah[6], b. 1798; m. Josiah Clark.

106. iii. Amos[6], b. Feb. 19, 1799, in Chatham, Conn.; m. (1) Betsey, dau. of Rev. Seth Sterling, who d. 1836; m. (2) Betsey, dau. of James Call, a Rev. soldier; is living (1890) in Woodstock, Vt., æ. 85. Children (by 1st mar.): (1) Fred. A.[7] (Pelton), b. 1821; m. Jane English, of Hartland, Vt.; d. 1873; she d. 1880. Issue: Lewis[8] and Leroy[8], b. at Westford, Mass.; (2) Melvina[7] Pelton), b. 1823; d. 1849; unm.; (3) Huldah Elizabeth[7] (Pelton), b. 1829; m. Henry Clark of Weymouth, Mass.; res. at W.; (4) George S.[7] (Pelton), b. 1832; m. Charlotte Fillmore (relative of ex-Pres. F.); res. Turner, Ill. (By 2d mar.): (5) Erastus Call[7] (Pelton), b. 1839; res. Woodstock, Vt.; unm.; (6) Melinda C.[7] (Pelton), b. 1841; res. Claremont, N. H.; unm.; (7) Betsey C.[7] (Pelton), b. 1844; m. 1867, Samuel W. Soule, an inventor; Mr. S. perfected the Remington typewriting machine invented by ——, insuring its present success. Mr. S. d. 1875. Children: (a) Samuel W.[8] (Soule), b. 1869; (b) dau.[8], b. May 18, 1873; (8) Lucy Ellen[7] (Pelton), b. 1847; m. Fred. A. Holt; res. Woodstock; 8 children.

107. iv. Rachel[6], b. 1801; d. unm.

108. v. Hannah[6], b. in Woodstock, Vt., Apr. 30, 1805; d. in Flushing, Mich., Apr. 13, 1868; m. Seth Samuel Churchill Caldwell, son of Samuel and Soviah (Churchill) Caldwell, who was b. in Pomfret, Vt., July 17, 1802; d. in Flushing, Mich., Mch. 3, 1878. Children: (1) Wallace Ruthven[7] (Caldwell), b. in Woodstock, Vt., Dec. 22, 1828; (2) Sarah J.[7] (Caldwell), b. in W., Feb. 5, 1832; m. —— Allen; removed to Minn.; d. at Willmar, Minn., Apr. 22, 1882; (3) Henry O.[7] (Caldwell),

b. in W., Jan. 8, 1834; (4) John M.[7] (Caldwell), b. in Barre, N. Y., Nov. 22, 1836; (5) Jasper H.[7] (Caldwell), b. in Gaines, N. Y., Mch. 14, 1842; d. June 2, 1848, in Flushing; (6) Mary M.[7] (Caldwell), b. in Flushing, Mich., May 3, 1845.

109. VI. George[5], b. 1777; m. Betsey Lincoln. Family 24.

110. VII. Edmund[5], m. Wealthy Loomis. Family 25.

111. VIII. Patty[5], b. 1782; m. abt. 1803 or 1804 Simeon Jr., son of Simeon and Lydia (Shaw) Dunham, who was b. in Carver, Mass., May 27, 1775; removed with his parents to Vermont in 1888; d. at Woodstock, Vt., Sept. 28, 1839. Mrs. Patty (Stiles) Dunham d. at W. Feb. 20, 1813, æ. 31 yrs.

Children:

112. i. Lucy[6], b. Aug. 28, 1805; m., 1832, Cyrenus (b. in Woodstock, Vt., June 20, 1807), son of Israel T. and Sally (Richmond) Houghton. She d. at W. June 22, 1878. Mr. H. d. at W. [Horace Dunham, of Woodstock, Vt., a son of Simeon Dunham Jr., by his 2d m., is engaged in tracing the genealogy of the D. Family. To him and to Mrs. Betsey (Pelton) Soule the author is indebted for records of the Peltons and Dunhams here given.]

115. IX. Jemima[5], m. Solomon Root.

116. X. Amos[5].

[It seems almost certain that the children of the above family are not given in their proper order, but the author has done the best she could in the absence of dates.]

FAMILY 10.

117. Dr. Aaron[4] Stiles [38] (Lt. Amos[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., May 19, 1742; m. Rebecca Clark, of Lyme [Conn.], Dec. 24, 1767 (Hebron Records).

Children (from Hebron Records):

118. I. Aaron[5], b. Dec. 25, 1768; d. Dec. 28, 1768.

119. II. Aaron[5], b. Feb. 3, 1769 [this is prob. given in "Old Style"].

120. III. Rebecca[5], b. May 26, 1771.

121. IV. Anna[5], b. Mch. 10, 1785.

FAMILY 11.

122. Edmond[4] Stiles [39] (Lt. Amos[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., June 5, 1744; m. Lydia (dau. of John) Porter, July 19, 1762 (Hebron Records). Edmond Stiles and his wife Lydia are mentioned in the Land Records of Lebanon, Conn., as jointly selling land there, Nov. 25, 1766. He died at Hebron, Mch. 6, 1768. Administration was granted to Lydia Stiles 11 Oct., 1768, on estate of Edmond Stiles, late of Hebron, dec'd. Inventory of his estate £149: 13: 7 was dated 10 Oct., 1768 (from Colchester Records, by Dr. D. William Patterson).

Child (from Hebron Records):

123. I. Amos[5], b. Jan. 3, 1765.

Family 12.

124. Job[4] Stiles* Jr. [41] (Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., without doubt. As he must have been the eldest child of Job and Anna (Bliss) Stiles, he was probably born previous to 1740, perhaps as early as 1737. He married (1) at Colchester, Conn., Mch. 30, 1758, Lydia Phelps, of

*The work of tracing the family of Job Stiles Jr. has been particularly difficult on account of blunders in the old records of Granville, Mass.; for instance: Sarah, as "wife of Job Stiles," is found in no less than four places, when it should have been Lydia; and, to prove these mistakes to be such, has required a great deal of time and patience and considerable money. We are satisfied that, with only the town records to assist us, we could never have solved the mystery; but, fortunately, we were able to obtain a transcript from the church records, also inscriptions from tombstones, and by comparing the town records with these we have reached comparatively satisfactory conclusions. We give below the items referred to from the town records of Granville and also the inscriptions from tombstones at East Granville:

1. "Eunice Stiles, daughter of Job Stiles and Ledy his wife was born March 21 Day 1761 (Granville Records). [It will be noticed that this child is accredited to Job and Ledy (or Lydia).]
2. "Birth. Job Stiles sone of Job Stiles and Sarah his wife was born February 21, 1764 (ibid.).
3. "Death. Job Stiles son of Job Stiles Junr and Sarah his wife, died January 27 Day. A. D. 1766 (ibid.).
4. "Birth. Lydia Stiles, Daughter of Job Stiles Junr and Sarah his wife was born November 4th day 1765 (ibid.).
5. "Birth. Job Stiles, son of Job and Sarah Stiles. Born November 4th day 1769" (ibid.).

An inscription still to be seen in the old graveyard at East Granville, Mass., reads as follows:

"Job son of Mr Job and Mrs Lydia Stiles, died January 27, 1766 in the 2nd year of his age, who lies the third on the right hand." This inscription is certainly most conclusive proof that the name Sarah in items No. 2 and 3, Granville town records, ought to have been Lydia, and we shall have no hesitation in substituting Lydia for Sarah in Nos. 4 and 5 also.—M. S. P. G., 1885.

Hebron, Conn. (Colchester Records). From the fact that his first child was born at Colchester in 1759, and his second in Granville, Mass., in 1761, we infer that he removed from Colchester between 1759 and 1761. Mrs. Lydia (Phelps) Stiles died June 18, 1779. Her tombstone is still standing (1885) in the old graveyard at East Granville, Mass., and bears this inscription:

"In memory of Mrs. Lydia, wife of Mr. Job Stiles Jun. who died June 18, A. D. 1779 in the 41st year of her age" (copied and sent by Rev. N. S. Moore, of East Granville, Mass.).

Job Stiles, of Granville, Mass., m. (as 2d wife), July 1, 1781, Dorcas (dau. of Martin and Dorcas [Adams]) Stiles, of Westfield, Mass. (Stiles' Ancient Windsor, p. 789). The ancestry of Mrs. Dorcas (Stiles) Stiles will be found in the line of John[2] Stiles — Conn. Family; her des., of course, belong to the Mass. Family, and will be found in their proper place.

144. I. Almena[5], b. Nov. 22, 1769.

145. II. Abial[5], b. Mch. 17, 1772.

FAMILY 14.

146. John[4] Stiles [47] (Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Colchester, Conn., Oct. 23, 1750, from whence, about 1764, his father removed to Granville, Mass. (From John Stiles' own statement at the time of his application for a pension.) He was married at Pynchon's Hotel, West Granville, Mass., Apr. 2, 1776, to Ruth Roberts, of Middletown, Conn. They resided at East Granville, Mass. He received a certificate of church membership, at E. G., Nov. 19, 1816. In personal appearance Mr. Stiles is said to have been tall and well-proportioned. He was very strong and weighed over 200 lbs. (From a letter of a descendant.) Concerning his service in the War of the Revolution, he gave the following account on applying for a pension:

"In the fall of 1774, enlisted as a minute man for one year with Capt. Ball, equipping himself with a musket, bullet-pouch, powder-horn, knapsack, hatchet and blanket; being thus ready to march forthwith on an alarm, and attended constantly in drilling and exercise which were taught by British deserters. In March of 1775, there was an alarm causing the company to start for Boston, but ascertaining they were not wanted, returned home. He was elected sergeant, and on the alarm of the fight at Lexington, he with the company immediately marched for Boston, and were stationed at the Gore House at Roxbury, where remaining 3 or 4 months before their discharge. In the following Sept. he was called out to go under the command of Lt. Bancroft to Ticonderoga, and was stationed on Mt. Independence under Col. Robinson, and was soon ordered to Bennington on horseback and the horses were sent back. They were after 2 or 3 months discharged. He died Oct. 26, 1835" (Pension Records, Washington, D. C.). [The Church Records at East Granville, Mass., give Oct. 19, 1835, as the date of death of John Stiles, which is doubtless the true date.] Mrs. Ruth (Roberts) Stiles received a pension for her husband's services in the war. During her later years she was known as "Granny Stiles." She died Apr. 14, 1850, aged 94 years (according to the Granville Records, although another authority says 95 years).

Children:

147. I. Electa[5], b. Sept. 1, 1776 (one authority gives 1777); m. John Crocker of Granville,* as 3rd wife, Sept. 20, 1826 (by Rev. Timothy M. Cooley). Mrs. Electa (Stiles) Crocker d. at G. Dec. 16, 1837, aged 81 (Granville Records). They had no children.

Family 15.

162. Samuel[4] Stiles [53] (Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born Jan. 1, 1758, at Colchester, Conn., in that part of the town which is now included in Marlborough; married Sarah Rose, who was born Dec. 20, 1763. In May, 1795, they removed from Granville, Mass., to Canandaigua, N. Y.

"Samuel Stiles was one of the first settlers of Canandaigua, in what was then an unbroken wilderness. He set out the first apple orchard in that section. He served four years and nine months in the Revolutionary Army; was a major, it is said. He had a commission as privateersman to prey on the enemy during the War of 1812. In middle life he somehow lost a leg. He was a man of unflinching courage and fidelity; among the many anecdotes handed down in the family as illustrative of his fearlessness, decision, etc., are the following:

His farm was on the western shore of Canandaigua lake (4 miles from the village of Canandaigua), the country newly and sparsely settled, and wild animals numerous. One morning Mr. Stiles found one of his animals missing, and suspecting that it had been killed by a bear, he set out in pursuit mounted (for he had but one leg) upon a spirited young horse, and in company with a neighbor. Following the trail in the snow to the timber, it led them to a large hollow tree where bruin was found, ready for battle. Shouting to his friend, who was approaching, "Shall I kill the devil, or not?" Mr. Stiles, without waiting for an answer, with the muzzle of his rifle almost in the bear's face, and with his horse frantic with fear, fired and killed the brute.

"Going one morning at daylight, for his suckers, which came up the creek (about half a mile from his house) from the lake, he found a party of Indians already there. Seeing a string of fish which they had caught, lying on the edge of the water, he snatched them up. On seeing this the Indians picked up their rifles (they were so near he could distinctly hear the click of the locks as they were cocked) and pointed them at him. Undaunted by this, Mr. Stiles, still holding the fish, bade his little boy, who was with him, bring his rifle from the house, and kept his position, his eyes steadily bent on the Indians. As soon as the boy appeared again upon the scene with the "old flint-lock" the Indians took to their heels.

"It is related of him that frequently on cold stormy nights he was accustomed to admit these wandering redskins to his cabin after the family had retired. On these occasions the Indians laid down in a semi-circle around the large open fire-place, frequently quarreling for the best places, and to quiet them, Mr. Stiles would get out of bed, and with his trusty crutch would rap the noisy ones on the head until quiet was restored, while his wife, in mortal fear of awakening the ill-will of their troublesome guests, was vainly endeavoring to dissuade him from interfering with them; but fear of man, beast or devil, was not an element of his composition." Samuel Stiles died about the year 1813 it is supposed. [Mrs. Laura (Stiles) Isham, of Pittsford, Mich., says her grandfather (Samuel Stiles) died when her father (Anson R. Stiles) was but 16 years of age. This would be in 1813, as has been stated by others.]

Children (the first 7 were undoubtedly born at East Granville, Mass.):

163. I. Oratha[5], b. Aug. 20, 1780; m. Elizabeth Billings. Family 29.
164. II. Epaphroditus[5], b. Sept. 21, 1782; m. Roxana Lincoln. Family 30.
165. III. Ahiman[5], b. Feb. 15, 1785; m. ——. Family 31.
166. IV. Sally[5], b. Sept. 6, 1787; m. Ephraim (or Henry — both names are given) Lincoln; had 7 children; among whom were:
167. i. Otis[6] was a merchant at Jackson, Mich., in 1849.
168. ii. Ephraim[6], merchant at Canandaigua, N. Y.
169. iii. A. S.[6]
170. V. Faircha[5], b. Apr. 19, 1790; m. Lebbeus Ross; resided at Penn Yan, N. Y. She d. abt. 1823; left 4 chil.
171. VI. Philemon[5], b. July 6, 1792; m. Jane Florence. Family 32.
172. VII. Elijah[5], b. May 27, 1795; m. Levinia Lincoln. Family 33.
173. VIII. Anson Rose[5], b. Sept. 9, 1798; m. Laura Rowley and Ann Taylor. Family 34.
174. IX. Dau.[5], b. Sept. 4, 1799; d. in infancy.
175. X. Roland[5], b. Apr. 19, 1800; m. Eliza Chesebro. Family 35.
176. XI. Catherine[5], b. July 5, 1802; m. Jonathan B.

Walker. Mrs. W. was living at last accounts somewhere in Mich. She had 8 children, but we have the names of 2 only:

177. i. Lafayette[6].

178. ii. Avis Catherine[6]; m. (1) Mr. Nichols; (2) —— ——, from whom she separated. It is said that she and her son Wesley are proprietors of a photograph gallery in New York city.

179. XII. Minerva[5], b. June 2, 1806; m. Hiram Anson, of Jackson, Mich. She died without issue, and Mr. Anson is living in Mich. with a 2d wife.

FAMILY 16.

180. Oliver[5] Stiles [64] (Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was probably born in Hebron, Conn., and not later than 1757, for he married Rebecca (b. at Attleborough, Mass., Aug. 7, 1758), dau. of Abiel (son of John) Peck and wife Ruth Skinner, of Attleborough, in 1776. [Capt. David Stiles, of Hopewell, N. B., a grandson of Oliver Stiles, informs us that his grandfather came from Cumberland, Nova Scotia, to what is now Hopewell, Albert Co., New Brunswick, about the year 1750, but we are convinced that this date is several years too early, because, in the first place we have pretty clear evidence that Nathan Stiles Jr. (the father of Oliver Stiles), was living in Hebron, Conn., several years after 1750, having had a child born there as late as 1755, according to the Hebron Records, and, in the second place, we have reliable evidence that the Connecticut colonists — Nathan Styles being of the number — emigrated to Nova Scotia in 1760, and finally, Oliver Stiles, if he was a son of Nathan Jr. — and we have satisfied ourselves after much patient investigation* that such was the fact

* Almost immediately after commencing our investigation of the matter, we came to the conclusion that Oliver Stiles was a son of Nathan Jr., but for a long time we could obtain no corroborative evidence of the fact. At last, however, we received a letter, which we take the liberty of copying:

"HARVEY (N. B.), Dec. 30, 1885.

"MRS. M. S. P. GUILD:

"Dear Madam — I received a letter to-day from a lady (Mrs. Rebecca Milton, of Middle Coverdale, Albert Co., N. B.), who says that the name of my great grandfather was Nathan. She says she was talking with an old gentleman who knew him. * * *

"Yours respectfully, LUCY E. (STILES) TURNER."

—M. S. P. Guild, Lynn, Mass., Jan. 2, 1886.

— could not have been born until several years after 1750, unless he was the eldest child, which seems altogether improbable; and, if he was not the eldest child, neither could he have been the 2d, nor even the 3d, as will be seen by referring to the record in Family 6 of this line. We feel very confident that he was the 4th child, but have no means of determining whether he was a child of the 1st or 2d marriage of Nathan Stiles Jr.] Although, from the fact that the list of children of Nathan Stiles and Sarah Rockwell (given by Lt. D. F. Stiles) does not include the name of Oliver, we think he must have been a son of Keziah Kilbron.

Oliver Stiles died at Hopewell, N. B., Feb. 23, 1833.

Mrs. Rebecca (Peck) Stiles died at H. in 1850.

[The record of Mrs. Stiles' birth, marriage (excepting year) and death were copied from the Peck Genealogy, p. 143.]

Children (from records furnished by Capt. David Stiles, of Hopewell, N. B.):

181. I. Fanny[6], b. May 6, 1777; m. Roswell Hunt; she d. Mch. 25, 1825; had 1 son (Amos*) and 5 daus.

182. II. Ezra[6], b. Nov. 27, 1779; m. Sarah Hoar. Family 36.

183. III. Lois[6], b. Jan. 15, 1782; m. Leonard Hoar; she d. Jan. 1, 1845; she had sons and daughters.

184. IV. Ruth[6], b. Mch. 14, 1785; m. Thomas Pearson; had 3 sons.

185. V. Elisha[6], b. Aug. 11, 1789; m. Mary Hoar. Family 37.

186. VI. Thomas[6], b. July 6, 1790; m. Eunice Pearson. Family 38.

187. VII. Oliver[6] Jr., b. Jan. 6, 1793; m. Sarah Rogers. Family 39.

188. VIII. Stephen[6], b. Apr. 8, 1796; m. Elizabeth Rogers. Family 40.

[It is stated, in the Peck Genealogy, that Oliver and Rebecca (Peck) Stiles had 5 sons and 5 daughters, but we have received the names of but 3 daughters.]

* Amos Hunt, shoemaker, formerly of Lynn, Mass., died of consumption at the hospital at San Francisco, Cal., June 22, 1889. His age was 52 years. His home was in Anoka, Minn., where his widow resides (1889). He went to California on account of his health.

Family 17.

189. Reuben[5] Stiles [69] (Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Cornwallis, Kings Co., N. B. (it is supposed); m. ——.

Children:

190. I. Robert[6], b. July 29, 1790; m. Charlotte Babcock. Family 41.
191. II. Enoch[6], b. ——. Family 42.
192. III. Rebecca[6]; * m. George Wilson; had 4 sons and 2 daughters.
193. IV. Ruth[6]; m. Charles Steeves; had 5 sons and 5 daughters.
194. V. Rosanna[6]; m. Nathaniel Smith; had 2 sons and 3 daughters.

Family 18.

195. Israel[5] Stiles [73] (Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at St. Johns, N. B., Nov. 14, 1784; m. 1812, Elizabeth McKenzie, who was born at Pictou, N. S., Aug. 15, 1791; she died at the homestead, Pictou, Aug. 25, 1874.

When Israel Stiles was 6 months old his parents removed to Cornwallis, Kings Co., N. S. (From this it will be seen that Nathan Stiles Jr., did not at first occupy the land granted him in 1761, at Cornwallis.) Here he lived until 1811, when he went to Pictou, and there engaged in farming and, also, built a sawmill, one of the first in the country. Israel Stiles, like his father, Nathan, was a strict Baptist, and died in that faith, May 25, 1869. "Israel Stiles while living in the provinces was called by many of his neighbors 'Yankee Stiles.' We find that nearly all his children soon made their way to the 'Hub of the Universe,' and settled in the States, as did many other descendants of the Colonists from New England to the Provinces" (Lt. Daniel F. Stiles).

Children (from records furnished by Lt. D. F. Stiles, all born at Pictou, N. S.):

196. I. John[6], b. May 24, 1813; m. Sarah Frazer. Family 43.

---

* Enoch Stiles, of Salisbury, N. B., gives Anna instead of Rebecca as the name of his father's (Robert) sister. Robert Stiles, of Elgin, N. B., also gives Anna instead of Rebecca.

197. II. Daniel[6], b. Aug. 10, 1815; m. Margaret Hogg. Family 44.
198. III. Nathan[6], b. Jan. 14, 1817; m. Jane Matherson. Family 45.
199. IV. William[6], d. in infancy.
200. V. Sarah[6], b. Feb. 3, 1820; m. Isaac Archibald of Truro, N. S.
201. VI. Charles William[6], b. Feb. 22, 1822; m. Margaret Sutia Robinson. Family 46.
202. VII. George Johnston[6], b. Mch. 23, 1824; m. Josephine Montcrief Street. Family 47.
203. VIII. Reuben[6], b. May 14, 1826; m. Catharine J. S. (dau. of Donald and Nancy) Frazer of Pictou, N. S. He was a member of the firm of Stiles & Gunn, electrotypers, of Boston, Mass., until 1850, when he went to California, where he died in 1856. His widow died in 1862 in Washington, D. C. They had no children.
204. IX. Mary Elizabeth[6], b. Dec. 9, 1828; m. N. K. Dickson at Pictou, N. S., Sept. 25, 1853. Mr. D. was a prosperous farmer at Truro, N. S. Issue:
205. i. Charles W.[7]
206. ii. Jerden[7].
207. iii. Bessie M.[7]
208. iv. Henry Havelock[7].
209. v. Minar Stiles[7].
210. vi. Sadie[7].
211. X. David[6], b. Mch. 12, 1831; d. 1853.

FAMILY 19.

212. Martin[5] Stiles [78] (Robert[4], Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., Nov. 20, 1762 (Hebron Records); married at East Haddam, Conn., Sept., 1782, Candace Cone, who was born Apr. 23, 1761. This we learned from his affidavit on applying for a pension, in the Pension Records at Washington, D. C., and also the following:

"In Aug., 1833, Martin Stiles of East Gillenburg (or 'bury), York Co., Canada, Home District of Upper Canada, aged over 70 yrs., states that he enlisted at Chatham, Conn., for 3 years with Capt. Fitch in Col. Webb's Regt. in March, 1777, and was in the battle of Germantown, Penn. (Oct. 4, 1777), and in the assault and capture of Stony Point (July 16, 1779). In May, 1781, he enlisted in Col. Sheldon's Conn. Regt. of Light Dragoons for 3 years (it is probable he was residing then in Colchester, Conn., or may be he was one of the quota assigned to Colchester, so reported when enlisting) at Middlefield (originally a part of Middletown, Conn.) under Capt. Edgar, but not mounted, and was discharged in the early part of the summer of 1783, at Danbury, Conn. He performed duty along the coast of Conn. and Long Island, and the shore of the Hudson river. After the war he moved to N. H., thence to Vt., then to the western part of New York, and about 30 years prior to 1833 he settled in Canada. [Next follows the account of his marriage and record of his children's births, which will be found elsewhere.] His house was burned, it is stated, about 20 years prior to 1845. Lotan Stiles, a brother of Martin was living, it was stated, in Mendon, Monroe Co., N. Y., aged 75 years." [Martin Stiles gave the date of his birth as Nov. 20, 1761, but it was evidently a slip, as he, himself, says he was over 70 in 1833, while if his birth had occurred on the date he gave, he would have been over 71 at that time.—M. S. P. G.] His name was placed on the Pension Roll Apr. 2, 1834.

Children (from Pension Office Records, given in 1833 by Martin Stiles):

213. I. Elizabeth Cone[6], b. Dec. 29, 1784; m.—— Milne, living in Gillenbury, Can.
214. II. Polly[6], b. Dec. 30, 1785.
215. III. Lydia[6], b. Feb. 12, 1789.
216. IV. Edgar[6], b. Dec. 31, 1793.
217. V. Martin[6], b. Apr. 15, 1793 (this must be intended for 1795).
218. VI. Clary[6], b. May 15, 1798.
219. VII. Henry[6], b. Oct. 27 (year torn off).
220. VIII. Joel[6], b. July 3, 1804.

Family 20.

221. Stephen[5] Stiles [81] (Stephen[4], Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., Nov. 5, 1757 (Hebron Records); m. Irena Bliss, who, after his death, became the 2d wife of his brother Reuben, whom she also survived. We cannot learn where he died, one account stating that he died and was buried at Shoreham, Vt., while another says his death took place at Orwell, Vt. He was, doubtless, comparatively a young man at the time of his death. Mrs. Irena (Bliss) Stiles died at Chazy, Clinton Co., N. Y., and is there buried.

Children:

222. I. Mary[6]; d. at the age of 15 (from record furnished by G. L. Clark, Esq.).

223. II. Dan.[6], b. Feb. 23, 1779; m. Lucinda Hikok. Family 48.

Family 21.

224. Asa[5] Stiles [88] (Stephen[4], Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., Mch. 21, 1768; m. at Lebanon, Conn., Sept. 15, 1785, at the house of her father, Olive (dau. of Jeremiah) Rood. About 1794, Mr. Stiles emigrated from Hebron to Shoreham, Vt.; thence, between 1802–5, the family all removed to Chazy, Clinton Co., N. Y.

Asa Stiles volunteered in the Revolutionary army, at Lebanon, Conn, in June, 1780, in Capt. Day's Co., Col. Wyllys' Regt., for 3 months; again enlisted in June, 1782, in Capt. John Gilbert's Co., Col. G. Gilbert's Regt., for the war. In Feb. 1813, he enlisted in the War of 1812, in Capt. Follett's Co., 11th Infantry, and was injured, for which he drew a pension. He was discharged at Burlington, Vt., Oct., 1813.

He died at West Chazy, N. Y., Aug. 14, 1836. His wife survived him and died at W. C., July 2, 1843, æ. 75 years. [The above account was furnished by Geo. L. Clark, Esq., of Washington, D. C., a grandson of Asa Stiles, to whom we are also indebted for the accompanying records.]

Family 23.

251. Samuel[5] Stiles [90] (Stephen[4], Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Hebron, Conn., May 8, 1777; married (1) Talitha Pierce (b. Mch. 1, 1782), who died at Canton, N. Y., Dec. 3, 1811; m. (2) Susannah Litchfield, who d. abt. 1850. About the year 1806, Samuel Stiles removed from Shoreham, Vt., to Canton, N. Y. He was in the War of 1812, and stationed at Ogdensburg, N. Y. His grandson says: "I have heard him tell many times the names of the landlords of the three taverns he passed in going from Canton to Ogdensburg, the seat of war. They were Foot, Stocking and Leg."

He was a most exemplary man, and was often heard to say that he was never angry enough at any man to call him a liar. He was renowned far and near for his wonderful memory. He could tell of all the remarkable events, big storms, etc., giving the exact dates of each. In his later years he became somewhat deaf, but his mind retained its even balance to the last.

His last words, "I am dying," were calmly spoken to a member of the family, he being just outside the door, and before he could be lifted to the bed, he was, indeed, gone. There were present at his funeral his three children, eight grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. "None knew him but to respect him, and none named him but to praise." [The above sketch of Samuel Stiles was furnished by his grandson, Mr. Levi Stiles, of De Kalb, N. Y.]

Family 26.

296. Job Phelps[5] Stiles [137] (Job[4] Jr., Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Granville, Mass., Nov. 4, 1769 (Granville Records).

[Note.— After much investigation we are satisfied that Job Phelps Stiles was the son born to Job Stiles Jr. and Mrs. Lydia (Phelps) Stiles, Nov. 4, 1769, and whose birth is recorded at Granville, Mass., but without the middle name. A granddaughter of Job Phelps Stiles, Mrs. Lydia H. Hunt, of Montpelier, Vt., informed us that he was born in 1770, but she could not give the month and day; doubtless "about 1770" would answer the purpose, as we presume the year of his birth must have been calculated from his age, in round numbers, at the time of his death, at all events we have no doubt whatever, that he is here properly placed.]

Job P. Stiles married Talitha Cumi Elderkin (b. 1779, in Conn., perhaps Hartford), Nov. 3, 1795. He and his wife accompanied the first surveying party sent to the Western Reserve in 1796 by the Connecticut Land Company. It is recorded in Barber's Historical Collections of Ohio (p. 120) that Job P. Stiles and wife, with a Mr. Edward Paine, were the only persons who passed the winter of 1796–7 within the limits of the town of Cuyahoga (the early name of Cleveland), Ohio. Another authority (Turner's Pioneer History Western New York, p. 388) says: "Stiles was the first white settler at Cleveland. During the first winter Mrs. Stiles was confined, her only female attendants being Indian squaws. The child was the first born on the Reserve, and had a present of land from the proprietors."

In Whittlesey's History of Cleveland (p. 233) we find that at the apportionment of the land to the first proprietors of Cleveland, two lots were drawn by Job P. Stiles; also, p. 317, "Talitha Cumi, wife of Job P. Stiles, received from the directors of the company one city lot, one ten-acre lot and one one hundred-acre lot." "Stiles left Cleveland in 1800" (ibid.). "During the War of 1812 the family removed to Canada and finally brought up at Leicester, Addison Co., Vt. During their residence in L. an agent visited them and purchased their rights in Cleveland for some $500, paid in sheep and cattle.

Mr. Stiles and his wife were both well educated for the times, and both taught school some."

Job P. Stiles died at Brandon, Vt., Oct. 11, 1846, and Mrs. Talitha Cumi (Elderkin) Stiles died at the same place in 1859.

[Many of the above facts were given by the town clerk of Leicester, Vt.]

Children:

297. I. Charles Phelps[6], b. Jan., 1797 (according to some accounts, but his dau. gives the date July 12,

Family 30.

348. Epaphroditus[5] Stiles [164] (Samuel[4], Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Granville, Mass. (undoubtedly), Sept. 21 (one account gives June 18), 1782; married Roxana Lincoln in 1811. He was for a time a merchant at Naples, N. Y. He was accustomed to write his name "Editus" for short. His daughter describes her first recollection of her father's dress as follows: "He wore a ruffled shirt, white satin vest, a gold ring on his little finger, white silk stockings and pumps." An old gentleman now (1885) in his 81st year who knew Mr. Stiles, furnished materials for a sketch of him which has been sent us by Mr. J. B. Sherrett, a grandson of Mr. Stiles — it is entitled:

"Early Days."

"If a person had chanced to stroll along the eastern shore of the lake (Canandaigua) in the summer of 1815, near where is now Gage's Landing, he would have beheld a sight very strange even for those days. There in the forest all alone, without even a dog to keep him company, is a tall muscular man in the prime of life. He is hard at work, now felling trees, now hewing them into timbers, often making the woods ring with the sound of his blows. He is so absorbed in his work that he would hardly notice you approach. This man is Epaphroditus Stiles, and he is building a sailing vessel, but under almost insuperable difficulties, for he is obliged to do it all with his own hands. The design even is his own. He obtains timber from the forest, and planks from a neighboring sawmill. As no tar can be bought west of Albany, he makes what he needs by burning pine knots in a kiln of his own construction. Thus he works day after day and week after week, until at last a craft of 15 tons burden is completed to his satisfaction, and on the appointed day she is launched, amid the cheers of those who have come to witness the novel spectacle, and glides out into the lake. At the time that Mr. Stiles built his boat Canandaigua was a small village, and the country bordering on the lake thinly inhabited, affording but little business for Stiles and his boat; he, therefore, finally resolved to take it to Lake Ontario, believing he could do better there. Accordingly it was hauled out of the water and placed on trucks and drawn by 15 yokes of oxen to Geneva, N. Y., where it was launched into the Seneca river. After many days of tedious sailing he finally reached the dark waters of the great lake. For six months he was engaged in carrying salt from the United States to Canada. His business proved quite profitable and he soon found himself in possession of quite a little fortune. He purchased a cargo of apples and started down the St. Lawrence river; reaching the ocean he steered his vessel toward the south, and after a voyage of several weeks, reached Charleston, S. C. In those days apples were in great demand at the south, and Stiles, upon his arrival, sold his boatload at a very large profit. The money he received he invested in oranges and lemons. With his vessel freighted with them he returned to New York city. Selling boat and cargo he bought large quantities of dry goods. These were brought up the river to Albany, and thence in a wagon to Naples, Ontario Co., N. Y. Upon reaching here he began business as a dry goods merchant. His store was the first of the kind in the place, and he was 5 years selling the stock he purchased in New York. During this time he studied law, and was soon busy "pettifogging" under Judge Parish. An instance is given of his manner of settling difficulties. Some boys had stolen some honey and were expecting to be sent to jail, but Mr. Stiles told them he would clear them if they would take some honey and find him a "bee tree," which they did. Mr. Stiles cut down the tree and drew it home, and was doubtless well satisfied with his share of the bargain. He died in 1834, aged 52 years."

490. Enoch[6] Stiles [191] (Reuben[5], Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born in Coverdale, now Albert Co., N. B.; it is to be presumed; m. ——, and died since 1852.

He had 6 children; some of them are still (1886) living. [We had reason to expect that the names and ages of Enoch Stiles' children, as well as other facts, would be furnished.]

Family 43.

491. John[6] Stiles [196] (Israel[5], Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Pictou, N. S., May 24, 1813; m. June 22, 1840, Sarah (dau. of Donald and Nancy) Fraser, born at West River, Pictou Co., N. S., June 15, 1815.

Young John Stiles was an earnest scholar. When a boy he had to walk four miles to attend school. At the age of 14 he left his father's farm to learn the printer's trade in the office of the Colonial Patriot, the first newspaper published in Pictou. The name was afterward changed to the Bee. Young Stiles was continued in the office, and he also continued his studies. Upon attaining his majority he bought out the paper, and on becoming editor and proprietor of the establishment he changed the name of his paper to the Mechanic and Farmer. This he published for four years, when he sold out and moved to Boston, Mass., June 1, 1844. Here he was engaged in printing and commercial pursuits until 1852, when he started the International Journal, which paper he edited and published for several years mainly in the interest of reciprocity, and had much to do with the passage of the "Reciprocity Treaty."

He went to Washington, D. C., in 1861, and was the first editor of the Washington Chronicle, John W. Forney, Secretary of the United States Senate, being proprietor of the paper. In addition to his writings he took an active part in the trying times of the Civil War as a member of the sanitary commission, and on many occasions rendered valuable service in the field with Gen. Grant's army, and at other points. At City Point, Va., he narrowly escaped with his life on one occasion, and at the battle of Winchester, Va., under Gen. Milroy, in 1864, he was captured by the Confederates and taken to Richmond, where he was confined in Libby Prison. He had the good fortune, however, to be released in a month, and returned to his family in Washington. He was an ardent Republican, and for several years edited the Republic of Washington, published in the interests of the Republican party. He was an intimate friend of Senator Zachariah Chandler, afterward Secretary of the Interior, under whom he was chief of the Appointment Division.

He was an able and earnest writer on political economy, the tariff, and many of the important topics of the day, and contributed largely with his pen to several of the principal papers of the country, and had a large and commanding acquaintance with many of the prominent men of his day. He died March 1, 1880, at Washington, D. C., an honored member of the 4th Presbyterian Church of that city. [The foregoing sketch of John Stiles was furnished by his son, Lt. D. F. Stiles, who also collected the records of the descendants of Israel Stiles that are given in this work.]

Family 51.

580. Warren[6] Stiles [231] (Asa[5], Stephen[4], Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born 1800 at West Chazy, Clinton Co., N. Y.; m. Clarissa Dutcher, who was born in Washington Co., N. Y., Mch. 12, 1800. Mr. Stiles was a merchant at Plattsburgh, N. Y., during the years immediately preceding 1835, when he removed from P. [to what place has not been stated with certainty, though it is thought he went to the "Black River Country," N. Y.]. In 1837 he removed to Iowa, and in 1838 bought a large tract of land 10 miles from Iowa City and 2 miles from Solon and followed farming until the breaking out of the gold fever, when he went to California. He had started for home when it was discovered that there was a case of cholera on board the vessel [it was in the cholera season of 1849] in which he had taken passage. The report caused a panic. The vessel was run into a bog in San Francisco, and it is generally supposed that all on board died of cholera, although it is thought by some that Mr. Stiles was murdered for his money, as he was known to have had considerable with him when he started for home. [The above facts were reported to the family of Mr. Stiles by a friend who saw him just before his departure for home.]

After her husband's death Mrs. Stiles managed the farm and cared for her six children, gave them all a good common school education, and saw them all comfortably settled in homes of their own. She lived to the advanced age of 80 years, which is, perhaps, remarkable, considering her life of hardship and severe toil, for it was a new country to which she and her husband brought their young family, and the Indians were for years their near neighbors; but Mrs. Stiles belonged to a long-lived family, her mother having reached nearly 100 years at the time of her death. Mrs. Clarissa (Dutcher) Stiles died at Solon, Iowa, Dec. 23, 1880.

Stiles, the foremost worker here, is still suffering greatly from his old complaint, rheumatism, which has incapacitated him for our labor for several years, and deprived him of the use of his limbs."]

FAMILY 58.

627. Ezra[6] Stiles [269] (George[5], Benjamin[4], Lt. Amos[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at South Coventry, Conn., March 4, 1817; married, March 24, 1839, his cousin, Cynthia Ann, dau. of Edmund and Wealthy (Loomis) Stiles. She was born at Herkimer, Herkimer Co., N. Y., Jan. 22, 1812. She died at Willimantic, Conn., Jan. 4, 1886, of typhoid fever. Ezra Stiles was a dentist by profession, and was generally called "Dr. Stiles." "While in his infancy his parents removed to Pennsylvania, where he remained until he was twenty years of age, when he returned to Conn. and took up the profession of dentistry and opened an office in Danielsonville. He resided there some eight or nine years and then removed to Norwich, a larger field for the practice of his profession, in which he had become quite skilled, and had achieved a fine reputation. During his residence in Norwich he became connected with the Central Baptist Church, and was one of its most valued members. He took a deep interest in the welfare of this church, and served as a member of the society's committee, and filled also the office of treasurer. In 1865, he gave up the practice of his profession and removed to South Windham, and engaged in the grocery business with his son George E. Stiles. In 1870 they came to Willimantic and opened a wholesale and retail grocery, flour and provision store in the building now occupied by Durkee, Stiles & Co. The firm transacted a large and successful business until Jan., 1879, when they sold out to Buck & Durkee. Since that time Dr. Stiles has not been an idler, his real estate interests in Willimantic, Norwich and elsewhere requiring a good share of his time and attention. He united with the Baptist Church in Willimantic, in March, 1876, and since that time he has been an active, useful and highly-respected member, willing at any and all times with counsel and purse to aid in any department of church work, and ever on the alert to promote the interests of the church and society.

"The Baptist denomination in the State has probably no firmer adherent to its tenets than was Dr. Stiles, and no one who would uphold its creed with more resoluteness of purpose. Morally he was above reproach. He professed to be a Christian, and so far as he was able he lived up to his profession. A man of intelligence and well-balanced mind, he was slow in forming an opinion, but when once formed he held to it with tenacity. As a business man he was the soul of honor and integrity, and combining with these good judgment and shrewd business tact, he achieved success and accumulated a handsome property. Politically he was a Whig, in the days of that party, and naturally became a Republican when the party was organized, and has since remained a firm supporter of its principles. He was not, however, a seeker of political preferment, and while never hesitating to express his sentiments through the ballot, shrank from the turmoil, strife and annoyance incident to public office. Dr. Stiles was pre-eminently a home man, and spent all his leisure hours with his family. Home was the most attractive spot for him, and here is where his loss will be most keenly felt. Truly in this family circle a chain of love whose links have been steadily growing stronger and stronger as the years rolled by, has been suddenly broken, and a light which grew brighter and brighter with the lapse of time, has gone out forever. On Sunday, Feb. 22, he attended church as usual, but complained during the day of feeling chilly. On Monday he was about the house, but was hoarse, and retired at an early hour in the evening apparently suffering from a bad cold. Tuesday morning there being no improvement manifest in his condition, a physician was called, and in this connection it is worthy of note, that so far as is known this was the first time a physician had ever been called in his behalf.

"His disease speedily developed into bronchial pneumonia, and resisted all efforts for its removal. The insidious malady slowly but surely sapped the vital energies of the naturally vigorous constitution, but the change came so gradually that his family and friends had no fear for his ultimate recovery until within two or three days of his death. Dr. Stiles, however, evidently realized his critical condition, and on Friday morning, ten days from the time the physician was summoned, he called the several members of the family to his bedside and talked with each one separately and for the last time. A few hours later the beating pulse was hushed, and the eyes were closed in the long dreamless sleep of death.

"His mind remained clear up to the hour of his dissolution, and death came to him peaceful and painless, on Friday, Jan. 6, 1885.— From The Willimantic Chronicle, Jan. 13, 1885.

FAMILY 61.

636. Charles Phelps[6] Stiles [297] (Job Phelps[5], Job[4] Jr., Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born July 12, 1797, according to the record furnished by his daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Hunt, of Montpelier, Vt.; but this conflicts with the various historical accounts which state that the first white child born in what is now Cleveland, Ohio, was born during the winter, and as there is no question about Charles P. Stiles being that child, we will leave the matter of dates to be settled by the descendants of Charles P. Stiles and the historians. He m. at Castleton, Vt., Mrs. Susan (Irish) Wetmore (or Whitmore, as spelt on the Castleton Records). She was born in 1804, in Ira, Vt., and m. (1) Samuel Wetmore, who died in a little over a year after their marriage, and by whom she had one son. She died at Beaver, Iroquois Co., Ill., Apr., 1862. Mr. Stiles died at the same place, July, 1882.

Children (from records furnished by Mrs. L. Henrietta [Stiles] Hunt):

637. I. Wesley[7], born and died 1824. (Probably this child was by Mrs. Stiles' first marriage, although the fact was not mentioned by the sender of the record.)

Family 62.

648. Rev. William Melvin[6] Stiles [307] (Bliss[5], Job[4] Jr., Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born in Chester, Warren Co., N. Y., July 4, 1815. He was left an orphan at the age of 8 years, his father's death occurring at this time, his mother having died when he was but 2 years old. After the death of his father, he was taken into the family of his grandfather Mills, where he remained and worked on the farm until he was 18, when he went to learn the tanner's trade of a Mr. Robinson, who, with his wife, were very devoted members of the Methodist Church. While with them young Stiles experienced religion and united with the Methodists. In the spring of 1834 (this date probably should be 1837) he left N. Y., and went to Ohio, and hired himself to a man named Boland, working at his trade for a short time; but feeling that his heavenly Father had other work for him to do, and being urged by his brethren, he decided to enter the ministry.

In Ohio he became acquainted with a very humble and devoted people called "United Brethren in Christ," and feeling that with these people he could do the most good for the cause of his Master, he united with them, and, receiving a license to preach, entered the itinerancy. For sixteen years he labored as a circuit preacher. On Dec. 23, 1841, he was married to Hannah M. Stauffer. In 1851 he removed from Ohio to a small village in Iowa, named Vinton, the county seat of Benton county. At the time there were no churches, and meetings were held in cabins and small school-houses, people coming eight and ten miles through the mud and snow to hear the preaching. Large societies were soon formed, and churches were built, proving the success of his ministry. In 1857 he was elected presiding elder, and in 1864 was chosen delegate to the general conference. After traveling many years as presiding elder his health failed, and in 1866 he was obliged to locate, since which time he has been unable to travel. In 1885 he removed to Ainsworth, Brown county, Neb., where he is at present (1886) residing.

663. Dr. John Alsop[6] Stiles [317] (Roger[5], John[4], Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at East Granville, Mass., May 3, 1809. He attended the Medical College at Pittsfield, Mass., and possibly one of the medical schools of Vermont. He m. (1) Feb. 18, 1836, at Benson, Vt. (when of Springfield, Mass.), Maryett (dau. of Dr. Rowland) Cooley of Benson. She was born July 16, 1807, at Granville, Mass.; died at Mishawaka, Ind., Mch. 1, 1839. He m. (2) Jan. 22, 1841, Mary Ann (dau. of Luman) Keyes of St. Joseph Co., Ind.; she was born in Monroe Co., N. Y., Dec. 27, 1816; died at Mishawaka, Ind., July 3, 1850.

Dr. Stiles died at Mishawaka, Nov. 19, 1850, of organic disease of the brain, æ. 41 yrs. 6 mos. 15 days. "His funeral was attended at the Presbyterian church by a large concourse of his fellow-citizens."

The following sketch was published in a local paper soon after Dr. Stiles' death:

"Dr. Stiles located in this place fourteen years ago with the view of practicing his profession, which he has done with eminent success and ability.

"It will be but paying a feeble tribute to his memory to say that the community mourns his loss as a worthy citizen, an esteemed friend and a faithful and well-tried physician. For years, in many families, Dr. Stiles has been the mainstay and hope in the gloomiest hours of sickness and suffering, fear and anxiety, for which his memory will long be cherished. Truly it may be said of him: Where disease was, there he was with his science and his art, ever ready to administer to frail mortality the balm of the last earthly hope. In Dr. Stiles we may recognize one who loved his profession as a high and honorable calling, worthy of better motives than those of sordid gain. He dispensed his remedies, and gave his counsel alike to the rich and poor. He dispensed them to do good. While his profession was used as a means of obtaining a livelihood, he ever spurned him who recklessly practiced medicine as a trade, but never knew it as a science. He was uncompromising in his hostility to quackery in medicine, and instead of pandering to the prejudices nursed in the community by unprincipled pretenders in the healing art, he ever sought to correct them by an appeal to reason, and the light of science."

Resolutions of respect to the memory of Dr. Stiles were passed by the physicians of South Bend and Mishawaka.

680. Col. John Wesley[6] Stiles [345] (Oratha[5], Samuel[4], Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born in New York city, Jan. 31, 1811; m. Aug. 20, 1836, Elizabeth F. Taylor, who died on her 60th birthday, Aug. 2, 1879.

Col. Stiles was educated in New York, and entered the shipping business there. He soon formed a partnership with the late Marshall O. Roberts, but later engaged in business for himself. An account of him in 1856 states that he was then a dealer in dye woods. At the outbreak of the war he closed up all business affairs, and set out for Washington May 27, 1861, at the head of the 9th Regt. of the State National Guard. Their first duty was to relieve the 7th Regt., then stationed at the Capitol, in order that the latter might return to protect New York. Shortly afterward the 9th, then the 83d New York Vols., went into active service. While under the command of Col. Stiles the regiment participated in the following battles: Harper's Ferry, July 4, 1861; Cedar Mountain, Aug. 9, 1862; Rappahannock Station, Aug. 20, 1862; Thoroughfare Gap, Aug. 28, 1862; Bull Run, Va., Aug. 30, 1862; Chantilly, Sept. 1, 1862; South Mountain, Md., Sept. 14, 1862; Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862; Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862. (From a printed memorial sheet of Co. G, 9th N. Y. Regt.) Col. Stiles retired from the command of the regiment Jan. 18, 1863, and returned to New York with his health entirely shattered.

He was unable, in this condition, to re-enter business; but having a natural taste for mechanics he turned his attention in that direction, and became an inventor. His hydrostatic gauge won the gold medal in 1884 at the American Institute. His daughter says: "If my father had made science the business of his life, there would have been more heard of him than will now be the case; he was a real student all his life." Col. Stiles died at No. 281 Fourth avenue, New York city, Sept. 16, 1885.

In 1884, was living at Los Angeles, Cal., where he was engaged in the stationery business; rem. in 1885 to Norwalk, Los Angeles Co., Cal., where he still (1891) resides.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Henry Lincoln Roland Stiles, born at Springwater, Livingston Co., N. Y., Aug. 11, 1830, enjoyed the educational advantages usually attainable in a rural district, and improved them well, being a boy of good parts and active intelligence.

When he was about 14 years of age his father met with reverses in the lumber business, so that the boy was obliged to commence his own life-work. In the following May he accompanied two families of friends in emigrating to Wisconsin, then only to be reached by a tedious journey by canal and lake boats. A year was spent at Milwaukee, mostly in enjoying "the shakes" (i. e., fever and ague), and at Elkhorn, Wis. He then went to Concord, Mich., where, for eighteen months, he occupied himself in learning the trade of cabinet-making, and in attending school. He next accepted a clerkship in the store of his cousin, Otis Lincoln, of Jackson, Mich., with whom he remained until the discovery (in 1849) of the California gold mines. Fired with the excitement which then pervaded the country, and under an arrangement with his cousin, Mr. Lincoln, by which the latter was to furnish his outfit, young Stiles started for the "Land of Gold." Meeting in New York city with his cousins, Hiram (son of Anson) Stiles and Samuel H. (son of Epaphroditus) Stiles, who were bound on the same errand, they joined what was known, and extensively advertised, as "French's Overland California Express," which held out the delusive hope of putting its passengers "Through in Sixty Days." This expedition, the proposed route of which was from New York to New Orleans by steamer, thence by mule and horse-train to Galveston, Indianola, Port Lavaca, San Antonio de Bexar, De Castroville, El Paso, Relief and Comanche Springs to the Rio Grande at Franklin, was devised and managed with a degree of crookedness which disclosed itself before the steamer (which carried the "first division") fairly left the harbor of New York, on the 4th of March, 1850. At New Orleans this division, to which the three Stiles' boys belonged, was joined by the "second division," under command of Capt. French himself. From that point, as the "true inwardness" of Capt. French's intentions gradually disclosed themselves to the already suspicious emigrants, their confidence gradually waned, until, at Franklin, on the Rio Grande, and on the verge of the Mexican border, they appointed a committee to confer with the captain; and, if the conference was not satisfactory, to seize, hold and sell the property of the expedition for the behoof of the emigrants themselves. As Capt. French would not yield, this was done, and the expedition broke up into several companies, or trains, each of which took its own share of the property, as arranged by the committee, and each took measures to find its way across Mexican territory to California.

The party to which Henry L. R. Stiles and his cousins attached themselves numbered about 40, under command of A. F. Corse as captain, and selected a route via Carolitas, Lower Gila river, to strike the California coast about seventy-five miles above the Gulf of California. When fairly entered upon the Great Dry lake (a desert of forty miles in width) their supply of water gave out and, though they pushed bravely on, the sufferings of the men and beasts became terrible. In the midst of this trouble they found themselves under the lead of a guide who was a pretender, and who did not know the route. They now became thoroughly demoralized and sought to retrace their steps. The sufferings caused by the lack of water were now intense. One man found a land turtle which he ate alive; others cut the throat of a half-famished mule and eagerly drank his blood; medicines, and even urine, was drank by others, and thus, under a scorching sun and in deep sand, they struggled on in desperate haste, but with enfeebled frames. They finally reached the mountain of El Paso, and there found the springs which to them was salvation from the most horrible of deaths. Reorganizing here, they again took up the route to California, via Chihuahua and Durango to Mazatlan, on the Pacific coast, said to be a distance of 1200 miles. Shortly after this, Henry L. R. Stiles' horse was taken from him, on some pretext, by Mexican officials, and those belonging to Hiram and Samuel Stiles were stolen. Being horseless, they took passage with an empty train going south, and after a fatiguing journey of 150 miles, on foot and in Mexican carts (the most diabolical vehicles ever invented), they reached Durango. Here the three Stiles and a companion purchased a horse, for $400, which ultimately turned out to be blind, though of great sagacity and sure of foot. Upon him they packed their bedding and traps, and all went tolerably well, until, in crossing the mountains, the animal lost his footing and fell over a precipice, after which they had to convey their luggage on poles — a la palanquin. They reached Mazatlan, Dec. 4, 1850, eight months' time from Jackson, Mich., and forty-eight hours too late to catch the transient steamer touching at this point. January 8, 1851, after many vexations and delays, they embarked on an Italian brig chartered for San Francisco. She was filthy beyond endurance, and proved to be rotten; being caught in a gale, she sprung a leak and was with difficulty kept from foundering. February 16, they reached San Francisco, Cal., after eleven and a half months of terrible experience.

When Henry L. R. Stiles landed he had but two Mexican dollars in his pocket, one of which he incontinently expended in the purchase of a very poor dried-apple pie! The first night he camped in a sand-bank; the next day got work as dishwasher in a restaurant at $50 per month, from which in three weeks' time he was promoted to be waiter at $75 per month. His cousins, Hiram and Samuel Stiles, went up the Feather river to the mines, where in about three months Henry joined them. In the following October, Hiram and Samuel returned to the east. Henry afterward spent three months traveling in the interest of The Golden Era, a literary paper, as correspondent, and in extending its circulation; and his subsequent California experiences comprise an attack of small-pox and one of measles (both of which he passed through without a nurse), one large fire at Sonora, another at Nevada, involving losses to him, and a mining enterprise failure to the tune of $13,000.

May 10, 1856, he left California, via the Nicaragua route, and arrived at New York on the 22nd. He shortly after went into business in Ohio, married, and settled at Sharon, Noble Co., in that State. In June, 1862, he sold out and on the 11th of the following August volunteered for three years in Co. F, 82d Regt. Indiana Vols. Inf., Col. Morton C. Hunter, at Louisville, Ky. Here he was detailed to act as clerk to the A. Adj. Gen. of Gen. S. G. Burbridge's command at Headquarters. After that general was relieved from duty, Oct. 2d, Henry L. R. Stiles was (in fact) A. A. G. until Nov. 6, 1862. In all the movements preliminary to and leading to the capture of Vicksburg, the command to which Stiles was attached, he was concerned, and, though much of his daily duty was of a clerical nature he enjoyed some active participation in those scenes (especially at the terrible, but disastrous charge of the Union forces on the enemy's fire of March 22, 1863), terminating in the final surrender of the city, July 4, 1863. Mr. Stiles, during the siege, was twice slightly wounded, once by a fragment of shell, and again by a conical ball which struck a tree, glanced, and fell close at his side, and he still retains both the fragment of shell and the bullet as mementoes. He was furloughed July 5, 1863, and afterward was obliged to go to hospital at Columbus, Ohio, from thence was transferred to hospital at Camp Denison, where he was honorably discharged from service Mar. 25, 1864.

Family 70.

705. Loren Clark[6] Stiles [398] (Roland[5], Samuel[4], Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Springwater, Livingston

Co., N. Y., Apr. 24, 1832. By the time he was 12 years old the boy had come to the conclusion that a farmer's life was not to his taste, so one day (election day, Nov., 1844) he took a sudden resolution to forsake farming then and there. He left home on foot and alone, and without a single penny in his pocket. His intention was to go to an uncle's, in Potter Co., Penn., 75 miles distant from Springwater, and by nightfall of the first day he had accomplished one-third of the distance (25 miles). It was 6 years before he saw home again.

In 1845 he went to his grandfather Cheesebro's, in Michigan. After this he attended school two winters at Pulaski, Mich., and in 1847 he commenced his career as a printer. He thus describes his experience: "In June, 1847, I went to Jonesville, Hillsdale Co., and while standing on the street in that place I heard a gentleman, Mr. ——, inquiring for a boy to learn the printer's trade. As soon as he had left the person with whom he had been conversing, I approached him and asked how he thought I would answer. He had me read and spell, and then said I would do, and engaged me on the spot to go to Adrian, Lenawee Co., Mich., 42 miles distant. He had a cow he wished me to drive over, and I agreed to the arrangement. He gave me two Spanish quarters to pay my expenses. I started on Saturday morning, June 4, expecting my employer to overtake me on Sunday and let me ride a part of the way in his buggy, but I saw nothing of him until I reached Adrian. By pinching and scrimping my own rations I managed to save one of my quarters. I arrived at Adrian with the cow, about 8 o'clock, P. M., on Sunday, and the next morning my employer asked me if I had had money enough to meet my expenses, and when I showed him the quarter I had saved he reached and took it from me. My first impulse was to return the way I had come, but I finally concluded to stay and go to work. At the end of six months I left, being unable to stand it any longer, for, in addition to my office duties, at which I was kept every day until dark, I had to take care of a horse and cow, plant and take care of half an acre of garden, besides doing various house chores which kept me busy until 9 o'clock at night.

"My second place was also in Adrian, and somewhat easier. Here I remained until 1850, when I went to Jackson, Mich., where I worked for seven years."

Mr. Stiles resides (1885) at Plattsmouth, Cass Co., Neb., is employed as compositor on the Plattsmouth Daily Herald. He says: "The proprietors depend upon me to set from 60,000 to 65,000 ems per week, which task I rarely fail to accomplish."

He was married Apr. 24, 1865, to Miss Lelia S. Summers, who was born at Malden, Kanawha Co., W. Va., Sept. 8, 1845.

FAMILY 84.

806. Capt. Daniel Frazer[7] Stiles [492] (John[6], Israel[5], Nathan[4] Jr., Nathan[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born at Pictou, N. S., June 5, 1841; m. at Austin, Tex., Nov. 4, 1875, by Rev. Edward B. Wright of the First Presbyterian Church, Maggie (born at Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 18, 1852), youngest dau. of Thomas Bell and Margaret (Andrews) Webb of Cincinnati.

At the age of 2 years Daniel F. Stiles came with his parents to Boston, Mass., where he attended the public schools. In 1859 he entered the office of the Boston Daily Ledger. Upon the firing on Fort Sumter in 1861 he went to Washington, and was present at the first battle of Bull Run, July 21, with the 1st Mass. Vols. On Aug. 5, 1861, he was mustered into the 1st Regt. Dist. Columbia Vols., and was appointed Quartermaster Sergeant. Dec. 1, 1863, he was commissioned a Lieutenant, and in 1863, when 21 years of age, he organized and commanded the 1st Regt. U. S. Colored Troops, being the first regiment of colored soldiers raised by direct orders from the War Department. He served in the volunteers during the entire War of the Rebellion, and was mustered out Sept. 12, 1865. On the recommendation of Gen. Grant he entered the regular army as a 2d Lieut. in the 26th Regt. of Infy., and joined his regiment in Texas, May, 1867, where he served for 12 years, and was then ordered north, in May, 1879, and stationed at Fort Porter, Buffalo, N. Y., for 5 years as Quartermaster. In June, 1884, he was ordered to Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and afterward to Uncompahgre, Col., in the Ute country, where he was in 1885, stationed in command of his company, G, 10th Infy.

He was promoted 1st Lieut., Nov. 2, 1875, while in Texas, and when stationed at Fort Porter, N. Y., President Cleveland, then Governor of the State of New York, appointed him Lieutenant-Colonel and Inspector in the National Guard of the State of New York.

After the close of the war he studied law, and was admitted to practice in State and United States courts.

The following is from the Kansas City (Mo.) Times of July 15, 1889:

"Captain D. F. Stiles.

"Of the officers of the army stationed in Oklahoma, to whom has been confided the duty of preserving peace and order in the new territory without laws to govern the people, Captain Daniel F. Stiles, 10th Infantry, Provost Marshal at Oklahoma City, deserves special mention. The performance of the duties required of this civil-military position has always been marked, on his part, by the most prudent action. He always recognized the civil law as superior to the military, and the fact that in no instance has he overstepped the boundaries of either, thus preventing a clash between the two, is deserving of the highest commendation. Whenever aid or assistance was needed by the new settlers he was always at the front doing that which would meet with the approval of the people. The day following the accident at Oklahoma City, when a number of people were killed and injured by the falling of a grand stand, the Times' dispatches said: 'Almost as soon as the accident occurred the militia, under command of Captain Stiles, were ordered to the scene, and rendered valuable services in preventing unnecessary confusion.' Again, last week, he comes to the front by taking determined action against the turbulent element in that city, threatening them with arrest and confinement if their illegal actions would not cease. This had the desired effect, and trouble ceased.

"The performance of such duties on the part of the army officers are not only difficult, but fraught with the greatest danger. Common sense and sound judgment are the qualities required for such a task, and of these Captain Stiles has his full share.

"Captain Stiles is a native of Massachusetts, and entered the army in August, 1861, as Quartermaster and Commissary Sergeant of the First District of Columbia Infantry. In 1862 he was promoted 2d Lieut., and in 1865 1st Lieut., being honorably mustered out in September of that year. In 1867 he was appointed 2d Lieut. of the 26th Infantry, and transferred to the 10th in 1869, where he has since served, being promoted Captain in March, 1888."

Doty, who was born in Westfield, Tioga Co., Pa., Oct. 27, 1840. [The grandfather of Miss Doty, a descendant of Edward Doty, one of the passengers in the Mayflower, removed to Iowa from the Black River country, N. Y., in company with Warren Stiles, her husband's father; Mr. Doty was a farmer.] Mrs. Stiles was a school-teacher before her marriage, and has followed the same occupation more or less since. After a short residence in Solon, Iowa, they removed to Cherokee, Cherokee county, Iowa, where Mr. S. carried on a small farm, and also built a flour-mill; but finding the dust from the mill injurious to his lungs, he sold his place at Cherokee after living there about eight years, and removed to Webster Co., Neb., where he purchased a handsome farm; but the northern climate proving unfavorable to his health, he finally removed to Texas, and now resides at Bluffton, Llano Co., where he has turned his attention to the raising of swine of the best grade, taking San Antonio for a market.

While this business has proved a financial success, he has found the sunny climate of Texas beneficial to his health.

915. William H.[7] Stiles [649] (Rev. William M.[6], Bliss[5], Job[4] Jr., Job[3], Robert[2] Jr., Robert[1]), was born in Tuscarawas Co., Ohio, Jan. 18, 1843; m. Maria M. Squiers, a native of Illinois, July 22, 1868.

In the year 1853, the parents of Mr. Stiles removed, with their family, from Ohio to Vinton, Iowa, where his father, who was a minister in the United Brethren Church, had a charge. Here they remained until 1857, when they removed to Western College, Linn Co., Iowa, where Wm. H. entered and remained in college until the breaking out of the late war. On Aug. 5, 1862, he enlisted in Company H, 22d Regt. Iowa Vol. Infantry, and served under Grant at Vicksburg, and Phil Sheridan in Virginia. He was mustered out July, 1865, at Savannah, Ga., and discharged at Davenport, Iowa, Aug. 5, 1865. He then returned to Linn Co., where for six months he taught school. He then located in Iowa City, where he began medical studies, and, after six months' study of the mysteries of that profession, he became dissatisfied with it and turned his attention to the law, which he studied under Russell & Tolliver, of Jefferson Co., Iowa. He was admitted to the bar in 1878, and immediately removed to Guthrie Centre, Guthrie Co., Iowa, where he began the practice of his profession and has ever since then resided. He is now the oldest attorney in the city of Guthrie Centre, and one of the best at the bar. He was elected justice of the peace in 1877, which office he held four years. He was elected mayor in 1885. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and the family are members of the M. E. church (Hist. Guthrie County, Iowa).

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT STILES, THE EMIGRANT, IN THE LINE OF HIS SON TIMOTHY.

FAMILY 2.

17. Timothy Stiles [15] (Robert), was born at Boxford, Mass., Oct. 1, 1678; m. Mch. 5, 1701–2, Hannah (b. May 15, 1684), dau. of Ephraim and Hannah (Eames) Foster,* of And-

*Pedigree of Mrs. Hannah[4] (Foster) Stiles (Ephraim[3], Abraham[2], Reginald[1]):

"Reginald Foster (the great grandfather of Hannah [Foster] Stiles), as is generally accredited, was born in Exeter, County of Devon, England, and a descendant of an ancient and respectable family of that city, which was identified with those families in the northern counties of England who are known by the name of Forster, and had distinguished themselves in their successful achievements against their Scottish foes, and are mentioned in 'The Lay of the Last Minstrel' and 'Marmion.'

"He (Reginald) came to America in one of the vessels embargoed by King Charles I, accompanied by his wife Judith, five sons and two daughters, and settled in Ipswich, Mass., about 1638, and was one of the earliest inhabitants of that town" (from a partial Foster Genealogy by Perley Derby of Salem, Mass.).

Mary Foster, the eldest child of Reginald, married Lieut. Francis Peabody, an English emigrant, who settled in Topsfield, Mass. They were the over, Mass. (N. E. Gen. Reg. L., 353, 354). June 27, 1703, Timothy Stiles and his wife were both admitted to full com-ancestors of the New England Peabodys, who include in their ranks many distinguished persons.

Sarah Foster, the other dau. of Reginald, married as her 2d husband William Story, and we find among her descendants Rev. Mr. Story, of Marblehead, Mass., Dr. Story (who was of Boston at the time of the outbreaking of the Revolution), and the late Chief Justice Joseph Story of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Abraham Foster, the eldest son of Reginald, was b. in Eng. in 1622, and d. at Ipswich, Mass., Jan. 15, 1711; was a yeoman. He m. Lydia (dau. of Caleb and Martha) Burbank, of Rowley, Mass.; had 9 childreu, of whom Ephraim (the 2d child) was born Oct. 9, 1657, lived in Andover, Mass., and died there Sept. 21, 1746. He m. abt. 1678 Hannah (dau. of Robert and Rebecca [Blake] Eames). Robert Eames [this surname is now spelled Ames] was one of the early settlers of Boxford. In the witchcraft excitement of 1692 Mrs. Rebecca Eames was accused, tried and condemned to death, but after being imprisoned for 7 months in Salem jail she was released and lived some 20 years thereafter.

Mr. Sidney Perley, in a late work entitled "Dwellings in Boxford," makes the following allusion: "Across the street, south-west from the residence of the late Enoch Wood, is the Ames cellar. This was the original Ames settlement in the town, being occupied as early as 1661 by Robert Ames. His wife was Rebecca, the witch of 1692. Robert died in 1693 (during his wife's imprisonment), but his widow survived all her persecutions and died in 1721 at the age of more than 80 years. The family were in those times poor, but in the course of three-quarters of a century had become affluent."

Of Ephraim Foster, Miss Bailey, in "Historical Sketches of Andover," tells us: "He seemed, judging from the numerous documents in his handwriting [he held the office of town clerk], to have excelled as a scribe and to have been versed in the art of punctuation, then little known to the majority of our town officials." She again says: "His favorite point was the color with which his papers are plentifully besprinkled without regard to the grammatical or rhetorical construction" [judged by this sign Ephraim Foster must have recorded the proceedings at the trial of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rebecca Eames, a copy of which is given in Perley's History of Boxford.]

Ephraim Foster had 12 children. Of these, Hannah m. Timothy Stiles; and Ephraim, Jr., m. Abigail Poor, of Newbury, Mass., by whom he had 6 children, of whom only one lived to maturity, Jedediah, b. Oct. 10, 1726; grad. at Harvard College, 1744; established himself as a lawyer at Brookfield, Mass.; m. Dorothy (dau. of Brig-Gen. Joseph) Dwight of B. "His talents and integrity gained him the esteem and confidence of the people, and procured for him several offices, military and civil." He was Judge of Probate and C. C. P.; was also counsellor previous to the Revolution. In 1776 he was appointed Justice of the Superior Court, retaining the office until his death. He was an active member of the convention for framing the Constitution of the Commonwealth. He engaged with ardor in the defense of the liberty and rights of his country, and contributed much by his influence and efforts to their establishment. He was early a professor of religion, and adorned his profession by a uniformly virtuous and exem-munion in the church of Boxford (Boxford Records). He was selectman of Boxford in 1724, 1728, 1734 and 1735 (Hist. Boxford, pp. 376–7). He died Dec. 7, 1751.

Children (from Boxford Records):

18. I. Jacob[3], b. Feb. 6, 1702–3; m. Sarah Hartwell. Family 3.

19. II. Hannah[3], b. Apr. 12, 1704; bapt. July 2, 1704; adm. to 1st church, Feb. 18, 1727–8; m. Abial Barker, of Andover, Mass., Sept. 28, 1732 (Boxford Records). Abial[3] Barker (William[2], Richard[1]), was b. at Andover, Mass., July 15, 1697; d. before 1768. Mrs. Hannah (Stiles) Barker died previous to 1748, as Abial married a 2d wife, Jane Lunegar, July 2, 1748, by whom he had no children. (Abial Barker's record is copied from Morrison's Hist. of Windham, N. H., pp. 329–330.)

Children (by Hannah):

20. i. Hannah[4], b. Oct. 5, 1733.

21. ii. Abial[4], b. May 14, 1736; pub. to Sarah Hovey, of Boxford, Mass., Nov. 16, 1759; Oct. 15, 1770, he bought 126 acres of land of Jeremiah Parsons, now the Carlton farm, near the stone quarry, one mile south of Pelham church. He was succeeded by his son Solomon. Issue, see foot-note*.

plary life" (Abbott's Hist. Andover). He d. Oct. 17, 1779, æ. 53 years. His sons were conspicuous in the government of the country. Theodore, the elder, was Member of Congress, and U. S. Senator from Rhode Island for 13 years. He d. at Providence, R. I., Jan., 1828, æ. 76 years. Dwight, the younger son, was Chief Justice of C. C. P. of Worcester Co., Mass.; counsellor, aad Rep. in Congress 8 years; also U. S. Senator. He d. Apr. 29, 1823; æ. 65 years. His son, Alfred Dwight (who m. Lydia Stiles, a descendant of Timothy and Hannah [Foster] Stiles), kept alive the honor and integrity of the Foster name, and transmitted it untarnished to his only son, the late Judge Dwight Foster of Boston.

It will be seen that the Foster and Stiles families, who were first linked together by the marriage of Timothy Stiles and Hannah Foster, were again united in the persons of Alfred Dwight Foster and Lydia Stiles, both of whom were descendants of Ephraim Foster, of Andover.

31. Jacob[3] Stiles [18] (Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., Feb. 6, 1702–3; bapt. Feb. 28, 1702–3, (Boxford Records); m. May 14, 1728, Sarah (b. June, 1712), dau. of Judge Edward and Sarah (dau. of Thomas and Mary [Houghton] Wilder) Hartwell* of Lunenburg, Mass. Jacob Stiles was among the early settlers of Lunenburg; was evidently a modest sort of person, for we find him mentioned only once in connection with the

*Edward Hartwell (John William) was b. in Concord, Mass., in 1688; was of Lancaster, Mass., previous to 1724, at which time he is said to have owned the second house that was built at Lunenburg, Mass, and was after that date identified with that town. He m. Sarah (dau. of Thomas Jr.) Wilder, of Lancaster, and Mary (dau. of Ralph and Jane) Houghton. (Ralph Houghton was an emigrant, and first of Watertown, Mass., but afterward rem. to Lancaster, where he was town clerk for many years.)

The following account of Edward Hartwell is a condensed extract from Young's Hist. of Lunenburg, pub. in 1836.

"Edward Hartwell exercised a great influence on the rising fortunes of the new township. For a long period he was deservedly one of the most influential persons of the place. He possessed a strong mind, and an education superior to that of most of his fellow citizens. His sound judgment and energy qualified him to take the lead in the affairs of the new settlement; therefore, whenever any important or extraordinary business was to be accomplished, Edward Hartwell was called upon to take charge of it. After passing through several grades of office in the militia, he attained the dignity of Major, a position at that time of more importance than that of Major-General at the present day. He was Justice of the Peace, and in 1750 was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, holding the office for some years; was Rep. to the Gen. Court for a great number of years, even until he was upwards of 80 years of age, and finally died, as Whitney's Hist. says, 'in the 97th year of his age, as full of piety as of years.' His death occurred Feb. 17, 1785; that of his wife, Sarah, Aug. 7, 1764, at the age of 80 years.

"It is said that the Hartwell family used to be remarkable for its tall men, Judge Edward H. being an immense man, weighing about 300 lbs."

affairs of the town. This was when he petitioned with others, Dec. 31, 1746, for protection of "Township No. 4," as Lunenburg was then called. NOTE.—In his 1st edition of the "Genealogy of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles (p. 28), Dr. Stiles mentions having received from his friend Royal Paine, Esq., of Brooklyn, N. Y., a memoranda of the will of one Joseph Stiles, of Lunenburg, Worcester Co., Mass., which he casually found in the 3d vol. Worcester Probate Records." This will, dated Apr. 1, 1750, recites the names of the family, viz.: Wife, Sarah; sons, Levi, Joel, Nahum, Jeremiah, John; daus., Lucy (Foster), Sarah, Hannah, Prudence. Asahel Hartwell, Administrator." Now, as this family is identical with that of Jacob Stiles (with the exception of the second son, which should be Jacob instead of Joel), we must consider that Joseph was put in by mistake of some one for Jacob.—M. S. P. G.

Jacob Stiles died at Lunenburg, Apr. 21, 1750 (Lunenburg Rec.). A copy of his will was once owned by a great great grandson, the late Judge Dwight Foster, of Boston. Wid. Sarah (Hartwell) Stiles m. (2) Nov. 9, 1772, Stephen Boynton.

an important commission from Gen. Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the army, "to repair with one other person, to Nova Scotia, to inquire into the condition of that colony, the disposition of the inhabitants toward the American cause, the condition of the fortifications and dock-yards, the quantity of artillery and warlike stores, and the number of soldiers, sailors and ships of war there, and transmit the earliest intelligence to General Washington." The above is from the History of Temple, N. H., and the writer adds: "This was about the same as a spy's commission, the very giving of which implied the utmost confidence on the part of Gen. Washington in the patriotism and fidelity of the recipient thereof."

Family 4.

58. Ephraim[3] Stiles [25] [Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., Dec. 27, 1708; bapt. Oct. 30, 1709 (Boxford Records); m. Elizabeth Lanksford, Nov. 26, 1741 (Andover Records), and she was admitted to the 1st Ch. of Boxford Jan., 1742–3.

[We think Ephraim Stiles must have lived in Boxford, although it is hard to decide from the records of these towns which one was entitled to the honor. We suspect, however, that his place was in Boxford near the Andover line.—M.S.P.G.]

Children (from Boxford Records):

59. I. Hannah[4]; bapt. Apr. 17, 1743. She was probably the one who was published to Elijah Hutchinson at Andover, May 17, 1765.

Issue (by 1st marriage):
i. Stiles[7]; now (1884) in South America.
Issue (by 2d marriage):
ii. Charles[7].

XII. Rhoda[6], b. March 10, 1814; res. in Lowell, Mass.; unm.

XIII. Lavinia[6], b. Nov. 6, 1815; m. Sept. 4, 1845, Aretos Blood (b. at Windsor, Vt., Oct. 8, 1816). Mr. Blood is (1883) agent of the Manchester (N. H.) Locomotive and Steam Fire Engine Co.; a man of wealth and influence. Issue:
i. Child[7]; died young.
ii. Child[7]; died young.
iii. Nora R.[7] (Blood), b. at Lawrence, Mass., Mch. 14, 1849; m. Sept., 1871, F. B. Carpenter of Concord, N. H., now (1883) wholesale flour and grain dealer at Manchester, N. H. Issue: (1) Aretos[8] (Carpenter), b. Feb. 14, 1879; (2) Mary[8] (Carpenter), b. May 11, 1882.
iv. Emma[7] (Blood), b. at Manchester, N. H., Oct. 15, 1853.

XIV. Andrew Temple[6], b. July 21, 1818; d. Dec. 21, 1818.

60. II. Enoch[4]; bapt. Mar. 10, 1745; m. Abigail Kimball. Family 11.
61. III. Noah[4]; bapt. Mch. 10, 1745; m. Lydia Curtis. Family 12.
62. IV. Mary[4]; bapt. Oct. 18, 1747.
63. V. Ephraim[4]; bapt. Nov. 12, 1749. [Ephraim Stiles was adm'd to the 1st Ch. of Boxford, June 10, 1764 — whether it was the father or son, we have no means of knowing.]
64. VI. Thomas[4]; bapt. (of Andover) July 26, 1752.
65. VII. Martha[4]; bapt. Aug. 18, 1754 (was prob. the one m. to John Towne, May 15, 1771, acc. to the Andover Records).
66. VIII. Mercy[4]; bapt. "of ye old parish," Nov. 14, 1756.
67. IX. Jeremy[4]; bapt. "of Andover," July 8, 1759.
68. X. Elizabeth[4]; bapt. "of Andover" Aug. 23, 1761.

FAMILY 5.

69. Gideon[3] Stiles [26] (Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was b. at Boxford, Mass., Feb. 26, 1711–12; bapt. Apr. 13, 1712; m. Sarah Falkner, of Andover, Mass., Nov. 30, 1736 (pub. Sept. 12, 1736). Boxford Records, which give the dates of his birth, baptism and publishment, also say that Sarah Falkner Stiles was adm'd to the 1st Ch., Mch., 1737–8. They resided at Boxford, and the spot on which their house (which also appears to have been the same occupied by his father before him) stood, is described in Perley's "Dwellings in Boxford," as follows: "About a quarter of a mile northwest of the old Foster house, near the match factory, is an old cellar. The house that stood over it has probably been gone more than seventy-five years. It was the house of Gideon Stiles, an uncle of Mrs. Nathaniel Long. Gideon was a son of Timothy Stiles, and was born here, probably, at this place, in 1711." He d. Nov. 15, 1799, æ. 88. (1st ed., Mass. Stiles Fam., p. 29).

Children (from Boxford Records):

70. I. David[4]; bapt. Apr. 2, 1738; m. Hannah Norton, and Tabitha Oak. Family 13.
71. II. Jesse[4]; bapt. April 2, 1738.

72. III. Sarah[4]; bapt. Aug. 12, 1744; m. Benjamin Edwards. Their descendants were living (1857) near Lebanon, N. H. (1st ed., Mass. Stiles Fam., p. 29).

FAMILY 6.

73. Ezra[3] Stiles [28] (Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., July 2, 1715; bapt. 1st Sab., July, 1715; m. (1) Mary Warren, Nov. 20, 1740; adm'd to 1st Ch., May 1, 1743. She Sept., 1744. He was pub. Mch. 22, 1760, to widow Sarah Johnson,* of Andover (Boxford Records). He was m. to Mrs. Sarah Johnson, Apr. 29, 1760, by Rev. William Symmes (Andover Records). He lived in Boxford "Near where Jere. Holmes built his diminutive residence, near the match factory, is an old cellar, over which, in 1765, lived Ezra Stiles — thus old plans tell us, but people living know nothing about it" (Dwellings in Boxford, No. cxlvii). Ezra Stiles must have died in 1768, according to an item found in the MSS. of Pres. Stiles, of Yale Coll., which reads as follows: "I find in the Prints an Advertisement Dated at Boxford, Dec. 8, 1768, by Sarah Stiles, Admin. on the Estate of 'Ezra Stiles, late of Boxford, deceased.'" Mrs. Sarah Stiles, d. July 3, 1790, æ. 60.

Children (from Boxford Records):

74. I. Elizabeth[4], b. May 19, 1742; bapt. May 9, 1743 [evidently d. young].

*Widow Sarah Johnson was a dau. of Nathan Bowen, Esq., of Marblehead, and we find in Roads' "History and Traditions of Marblehead" (p. 346) some interesting facts about Nathan Bowen's house, and himself, and we have ourselves seen in one of the old graveyards at Marblehead, a row of tombstones erected to the memory of different members of the Bowen family, and among them is that of Sarah Stiles, widow of Ezra.—M. S. P. G.

"North of the town house, situated on the corner of Mugford St., is the quaint old homestead of the Bowen Family. Nathan Bowen, and three of his descendants, placed their signs over the door of this house and the store adjoining, as Justice of the Peace, and Notary Public. Each of these dignitaries in turn held important local offices, and all were men of marked intelligence and ability."

"In Nathan Bowen's time a Justice of the Peace had all the authority now vested in a Trial Justice. There are many traditions related of the severity of his sentences. He was the dread of evil-doers, and since few escaped punishment who were brought before him for trial, he was called 'the condemner of all flesh.'" He died at Marblehead, Dec. 23, 1776, æ. 79.

75. II. Timothy[4], b. July 24, 1743; m. Phebe Kimball and Naomi McMillion. Family 14.

Jacob Stiles was a soldier of the Revolution, and we are indebted to the Pension Office Reports at Washington, D. C., for his war record, and all we know of his personal history.

On presenting his claim for a pension, Jacob Stiles, cooper, made the following statement in June, 1837, being then of Portsmouth, N. H.: "Was born in Boxford, Essex Co., Mass., June 14, 1757 [Bedford is the name given in the copy from the Pension Office Reports, but there is no such town as Bedford in Essex Co., Mass., besides it is known that the birth of Jacob Stiles is recorded at Boxford.—M. S. P. G.], and turned out with others on the alarm that British troops were marching from Boston to Concord; arrived in Lexington immediately after the fight and joined in the pursuit of the retreating army to Cambridge, when he returned home. He enlisted in May, 1775, at Boxford, with Capt. Prince, in Col. Mansfield's Regt., which marched to Boston, and he was in the battle of Bunker Hill (June 17, 1775), being stationed to cover the cannon of Gridley, on Cobble Hill, which were on the extreme left wing of the Americans; discharged in Dec., 1775, and the same month he engaged for 3 months with Capt. Varnum [Farnum], in Col. Herrick's Regt., going to Boston, which was evacuated March 17, 1776, and he returned home. About July 1, 1776, he enlisted with Capt. Johnson, Col. Wigglesworth's Regt. for 5 months, going to Ticonderoga, N. Y. Early in March, 1777, he engaged for 3 years as an artificer in the Co. of Capt. Parker (who was at the time an ensign, but afterward promoted to Capt.), in Col. Baldwin's Regt., remaining as foreman of the coopers until discharged at Morristown, N. J. In the spring of 1780 he shipped at Beverly, Mass., on board the private armed ship Pilgrim, Capt. Robinson, for a cruise which lasted eleven months, besides engaging for a year's cruise, in the same vessel, with the same commander.

In 1784 he went to Hudson, N. Y., where he shipped as a cooper on the brigantine Industry, Capt. Clark, for a whaling voyage off the coast of Brazil, which lasted a year, getting 3 cargoes of oil into Halifax, Nova Scotia. In 1786 he went from Halifax on another whaling voyage, to Table Bay and Good Hope, on the coast of Africa, returning to Halifax in 1787; and the same year he went to Guysboro, on Chedebucto Bay, in said Province of N. S., where he married and resided until June 10, 1837, when he arrived in Portsmouth, N. H., for the purpose of spending his remaining days. He was apprenticed to Jedediah Holt to learn the trade of cooper, in Andover, Mass., a town adjoining Boxford, and was identified after 50 years of unbroken absence. The town clerk of Boxford certifies that Jacob Stiles is on record as one of the eleven children of Ezra Stiles by his first wife Mary Warren." [We have the names of but 10 children of Ezra Stiles and first wife, Mary Warren. Was there another, named Richard?—M. S. P. G.]

87. IX. Keziah[4], b. Mch. 12, 1759; bapt. Mch. 18, 1759; m. Abraham Smith, Dec. 18, 1777.

Children (by 2d wife):

88. X. Elizabeth[4], b. Jan. 23, 1761; bapt. Jan. 25, 1761; m. Nathaniel Long, of Boxford, June 20, 1776; "A house that Mr. Long built [in Boxford] and owned is still standing" (Perley's "Dwellings in Boxford"). He died 1819, æ. 58. Widow "Betty" Long died 1849, æ. 88. Issue:

† Copy of the Lieut. Commission of Jacob Stiles:

"Province of Massachusetts Bay,

Thomas Pownal, Esq., Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, and Vice Admiral of the same, &c.,

To JACOB STILES, Gent., Greeting.

By virtue of the Power and Authority in and by His Majesty's Royal Commission to me granted to be Captain-General, &c., over this His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay aforesaid, I do by these Presents (reposing especial Trust and Confidence in your Loyalty, Courage, and good Conduct) constitute and appoint you, the said JACOB STILES to be first Lieutenant of a Company of Foot whereof Aaron Willard, Esq., is Captain.

You are, therefore, carefully and diligently to discharge the Duty of a first Lieutenant in leading, ordering and exercising said Company && in Arms, both inferior Officers and Soldiers, and to keep them in good Order and Discipline, and they are hereby commanded to obey you as their first Lieutenant, and you are yourself to observe and follow such Orders and Instructions as you shall from time to time receive from the General Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in North America, your Colonel or other your Superior Officers according to the Rules and Discipline of War in pursuance of the Trust hereby reposed in you.&

Given under my Hand and Seal at Arms at Boston, the Twentieth Day of February, in the thirty-third Year of the Reign of His Majesty King George the Second. Anno Domini 1760.

POWNAL.

By His Excellency's command,
A. OLIVER, Sec'y.

124. V. Sarah[5], b. Nov. 2, 1774.

125. VI. Content[5], b. Jan. 10, 1777.

126. VII. James[5], b. July 13, 1779. We think there can be no doubt that an account of one Alonzo B. Stiles, given in "Memorials of a Century," (p. 124), published 1863, by Jennings, at Bennington, Vt., refers to a son of this James Stiles. We give the account entire: "In the fall of 1830 came the news that Alonzo B. Stiles was dead. Men stood appalled at the suddenness of such an event; and one would say to another: 'Is Stiles dead? it is impossible.' He was a young man of singular beauty, very much admired, and had many friends. The grave of Stiles is in the church-yard. On the slab is this inscription: 'In memory of Alonzo B. Stiles, son of James and Abigail Stiles. Born at Cavendish, Vermont, Sept. 9, 1805; d. in this town (in consequence of being thrown from a wagon), Oct. 14, 1830, æ. 25 yrs. 1 month and 5 days.'"

127. VIII. Tirzah[5]; b. June 28, 1782.

128. IX. Sophia Caroline[5], b. Aug. 26, 1784; m. Medad Kellogg, who d. abt. 1826. She d. at Claremont, N. H., Aug. 20, 1872, aged 88 years, lacking one week. Issue:

130. ii. Roswell D.[6], b. Apr. 13, 1823. When nearly 6 years old he was given by his mother to Mr. David Ordway of Cavendish, Vt., in whose family he lived until he became of age. Mr. K. res. (1884) at Claremont, N. H.; unm.; he d. at C. soon after the above record was received.

FAMILY 9.

131. Capt. Jeremiah[4] Stiles [50] (Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Lunenburg, Mass., Feb. 23, 1744; m. Mary (born at Lambstown, afterward called Hardwick, Mass., May 3, 1741), dau. of Eleazer[3] (Nathaniel[2], Richard[1]) and Mary (Jackson) Sanger of Keene, N. H.* Mrs. Mary (Sanger) Stiles died at Keene, March 22, 1810, æ. 68 yrs. 9 mos. 8 days.

Jeremiah Stiles was a land surveyor. "In 1771 Jeremiah Stiles, surveyor, was employed to measure the town of Gilsum

*It was erroneously stated in the first edition of "The Massachusetts Family of Stiles," that Mary Sanger, who married Jeremiah Stiles, was the dau. of Abner Sanger. Mrs. Stiles had a brother named Abner, but her father's name was Eleazer. Some 30 years ago (about 1854) a monument was erected in one of the old cemeteries of Keene, N. H., to the memory of Abner Sanger and his maiden sister Rhoda, both of whom had been dead for many years, and it would seem that, from the wording of the inscriptions on this monument, no hint can be gathered that Abner and Rhoda Sanger were not husband and wife, instead of brother and sister. This strange oversight on the part of the persons who erected the monument doubtless occasioned the mistake printed in the first edition of "The Massachusetts Stiles Family."

Eleazer Sanger was the youngest child of Nathaniel[2], the eldest child of Richard[1] Sanger, an English emigrant, who, in 1636, had land granted to him in Hingham, Mass., and in 1638 sailed from Southampton, Eng., for America. Richard S. was a blacksmith. In 1649 was living in Sudbury, Mass.; soon removed to Watertown, and died there Aug. 20, 1691. During King Philip's War he and his two adult sons (one of whom was Nathaniel[2]), held important trusts. His wife was Mary, dau. of Robert Reynolds (also spelled Rannals), an English emigrant of Watertown, then of Weathersfield, Conn., and finally of Boston, where he died April 27, 1659. Eleazer Sanger died at Keene, N. H., March 24, 1765, in his 67th year. His widow, Mrs. Mary (Jackson) Sanger, also died at Keene, March 31, 1783, in her 81st year.

exclusive of what Westmoreland takes off" (Hayward's Hist. Gilsum, N. H., p. 26).

Family tradition says "he was skillful at drawing and painting." A descendant (Wm. S. Briggs, Esq., of Keene, N. H.), says: "I used to see in my father's house a portrait that was said to have been painted by our great-grandfather, Jeremiah Stiles." "He painted a portrait of David Nims, the first town clerk of Keene. This portrait is still in existence" (Letter of W. S. Briggs to Boston Journal, 1887).

Samuel Jennison, Esq., president and cashier of the Worcester (Mass.) Institution for Savings, asserts that Jeremiah Stiles commanded a company of N. H. militia at Bunker Hill and wrote the only official report to the Continental Congress, then sitting at New York, of the death of Gen. Warren. (From an address delivered Dec. 23, 1884, before the Worcester Society of Antiquity by Major F. G. Stiles of W., on the occasion of the presentation to the Soc. of a portrait painted by him of his grandfather Jeremiah Stiles, Jr.)

The late Judge Dwight Foster of Boston, a great grandson of Capt. Stiles, wrote in 1883: "I have seen his original discharge signed by Gen. Stark, a few days after the battle, recommending him and his company to any corps they might join."

In June, 1889, on the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, four tablets commemorating the soldiers who fell in the battle, were erected in Winthrop Square, Boston. Among those thus commemorated is found the name of Asahel Nims of Keene, N. H., who was a member of Stiles' company, which was of Gen. Stark's Regt.—M. S. P. G.

In Hale's "Annals of Keene" (pub. 1826) the name of Jeremiah Stiles is given as one of a foot company in 1773.

He was chosen, Dec., 1776, member of the Committee of Safety in place of Eliphalet Briggs, deceased, and his name with some two hundred others is signed to the following declaration: "We, the subscribers, do hereby solemnly engage and promise that we will, to the utmost of our power, at the risque of our lives and fortunes, with arms, oppose the hostile proceedings of the British Fleets and Armies against the American Colonies."

Jan. 14, 1777, he was nominated by the town as a justice of the peace, and in Dec. of the same year, in town meeting, Capt. Stiles, Capt. Howlet and Jabez Fisher, were successively chosen representaives, but each declined.

At a meeting held Jan. 17, 1778, the people of Keene, after reading and conferring upon the articles of confederation of the Continental Congress, voted "that it is the mind of the town that they be established by this State." Capt. Stiles, Maj. Ellis, and Capt. Griswold, were chosen delegates to meet at Surry, to consult with the delegates of other towns.

April 27, 1778, Jeremiah Stiles was chosen a delegate to the convention at Concord, held for the purpose of forming a constitution and Plan of Agreement for the State.

In Sept., 1779, the town passed the following preamble and vote: "Whereas the Selectmen of Portsmouth sent an address to this and the rest of the towns of this State, desiring their presence and assistance, by their delegates, to meet at Concord in Convention, to see if they can come into some agreement to state the price of several articles bought and sold in this State; therefore, voted that Capt. Jeremiah Stiles attend said Convention as a delegate from this town."

He was subsequently much engaged in town business, holding from 1786 to 1791, the office of Town Clerk, a position of more importance then than now.

It is said that he was the first Grand Juryman chosen from Keene.

He died Dec. 6, 1800, aged 56 years; "a large concourse of fellow-townsmen attended his funeral at which a discourse was delivered by the Rev. Laban Ainsworth."

(The foregoing extracts are from Hale's Annals of Keene, pub. 1826, with an Appendix, pub. 1851.)

III. Mary Stiles[7] (Paul), was b. at Hanover, N. H., Jan. 26, 1830, her parents having shortly before removed to H. from Norwich, Vt. (on the opposite bank of the Conn. river), after having lost by fire all their worldly possessions. In 1831 they removed to Woodstock Green, Vt., and remained there until 1840, when they went to Barnard, Vt., where in May, 1841, the mother died. Up to this time Mary had attended school constantly, her parents feeling that a good education was all that they could hope to bestow on their children; but on her mother's death the home was broken up, the state of her father's health making it impossible for him to keep his family together, and the two younger children, Mary and her brother Henry, were "put out" to earn their board. During the next four years Mary received more or less schooling, but in the fall of 1845 she was sent to Lowell to work in a cotton mill. She remained there about three years, when she went to Claremont, N. H., and attended a private school for three terms. After this she learned the trade of vest-maker at Claremont, having found factory life too hard and confining. She worked at vest-making several years, but was finally obliged to give up sewing altogether on account of failing health. In the spring of 1854 she was persuaded to join some friends who were about to try the experiment of living at the North American Phalanx, a joint-stock association in Monmouth Co., N. J., then in a prosperous condition. She remained there until Oct., 1855, when the association was dissolved, after 13 years or more of successful existence.

Miss P. was in full sympathy with the objects of the association, and shared the regret and disappointment of the members and friends at its extinction. She will ever look back on the 18 months spent at the "N. A. P." as one of the most delightful periods of her life. In Oct., 1855, she returned to New Eng.; was m. Oct. 7, 1857, to Isaac Orr (b. at Francestown, N. H., June 19, 1831), son of Isaac and Betsey (Tracy) Guild of Lowell, Mass. Mr. Guild was then and for many years subsequently, a manufacturer of monuments and gravestones at Lynn, Mass., where they have since resided; he is now (1890) in the employ of the Tiffany Glass Co., No. 8 Beacon st., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Guild has always been warmly interested in the various reforms of the day. She was an abolitionist when the name was con-

FAMILY 12.

218. Noah[4] Stiles [61] (Ephraim[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was probably born at Boxford, Mass., March 4, 1745; bapt. March 10, 1745; m. "when of Andover" Lydia Curtis, June 16, 1772; they received the church covenant July 18, 1773 (Boxford Records).

In Ridlon's "Early Settlers of Harrison, Me.," page 117, we find the following: "Enoch and Noah Stiles came from Andover, Mass., and settled in Bridgeton in 1771. [This was before his marriage, and it is hardly probable that he settled at B. permanently until after 1773.] Noah sold his farm in Bridgeton in 1800, and moved to that part of Otisfield that is now Harrison. His farm was on No. 12, in Range 8, in the north end of the town. His son Stephen settled on lot No. 11 adjoining his father's land. Noah had 5 children — 3 sons and 2 daus. in 1794. * * * Descendants live on the homestead farm in Harrison."

Children:

219. I. Stephen[5], b. Dec. 28, 1772 [at Boxford, so say his descendants]; bapt. July 18, 1773 (Boxford Records). Family 32.

220. II. Jeremiah[5], b. at Bridgeton, Me.; m. Mary Sawyer. Family 33.

221. III. Jacob[5], b. March 31, 1786; m. Betsey Harmon and Olive W. Bryant. Family 34.
222. IV. Betsey[5]; m. Samuel Baker; no children.
223. V. Lydia B.[5]; m. Ephraim Packard. Issue:
224. i. Almond[6], and other children.

FAMILY 13.

225. David[4] Stiles [70] (Gideon[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was bapt. at Boxford, Mass., April 16, 1738; m. (1) Hannah Norton of Andover, Mass., Aug. 7, 1760; m. (2) Tabitha Oak, who died March 22, 1811, aged 80. He removed in 1784 from Bolton, Mass., to Putney, Vt.; thence, after a short stay, to Westminster, Vt.

Children (by 1st marriage, from 1st edition Mass. Stiles Family, p. 31):

226. I. Hannah[5], b. about 1760; m. Coffin Chapin; had a family, and formerly lived in Bolton, Mass.
227. II. Judith[5], b. about 1765; was a cripple; never married.

230. V. Eunice[5]; single.
231. VI. David[5], b. 1770 or '71; m. widow Wyman (according to one account, but another says Elizabeth Lippenwell; the latter name may, perhaps, have been the maiden name of the widow Wyman), of Westminster, Vt. Family 35.
232. VII. Gideon[5], b. 1773 (prob.); m. Lydia Wyman. Family 36.
233. VIII. Keziah[5], b. 1775; m. (1) Oct. 28, 1798, Wm. Brooks (History of Charlestown, N. H.); 2 chil.; m. (2) in 1804, David Bemis; had 5 children.
234. IX. Nathaniel[5], b. abt. 1777; m. Lucy Crosby, and Mary Taft. Family 37.

FAMILY 14.

235. Timothy[4] Stiles [75] (Ezra[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was bapt. at Boxford, Mass., July 24, 1743; m. (1) Phebe Kimball, of Andover, to whom he was published, July 27, 1764. He received the 1st Church covenant, Apr. 20, 1766; m. (2) Naomi McMillion, Dec. 22, 1774 (Boxford Records).

He was a soldier of the Revolution, and his name is on several lists of soldiers who went from the neighborhood of Boxford. He was a citizen of B. as late as 1791, his name being among those who are mentioned as "heads of families" that year (Hist. Boxford, p. 256), but he subsequently removed to Greenfield, N. H. When or where he died has not been ascertained. A grandson — Mr. Mark Saunders Stiles, of Jackson, Me., now (1886) nearly 89 years old — remembers seeing Timothy Stiles, whom he describes as "a large, stout man, and very hard of hearing," having been rendered deaf by the bursting of a cannon near him, while in the army. His business, when living at Boxford, was smelting iron, and it is said that his eldest son, Phineas, took his father's place at the smelting works, while the latter was absent in the army, there being at that time a great demand for iron for making arms for the soldiers.

Children (by 1st marriage — from Boxford Records):

236. I. Phineas[5], b. Oct. 21, 1764; bapt. May 4, 1766; m. Betsey Saunders. Family 38.

237. II. Jacob[5], b. Dec. 10, 1773; bapt. Dec. 12, 1773; m. Polly Butler. Family 39.

(By 2d marriage):

238. III. Nahum[5], b. Nov. 7, 1775; bapt. Nov. 12, 1775; must have d. young.

239. IV. Phebe[5], b. Apr. 9, 1779; bapt. Apr. 11, 1779; m. Abel Butler, bro. to her bro. Jacob's wife; lived at Topsham, Vt., where some of her descendants now reside. Issue:

240. i. Giles[6].

241. ii. Apphia[6]; d. unm.

242. iii. Mahala[6]; m. Mr. Avery, of Topsham, Vt.

243. iv. Amy[6]; m. Mr. Libbey, of Lowell, Mass.

245. VI. Oliver[5], b. Jan. 25, 1784; bapt. Feb. 1, 1784. The name of Oliver Stiles is found on the tax-list of Francestown, N. H. (adjoining Greenfield, N. H.), for 1812. This was probably the son of Timothy.*
246. VII. Jedediah[5], b. Feb. 15, 1786; bapt. Feb. 26, 1786.
247. VIII. Jeremiah[5], b. Apr. 5, 1788; bapt. Apr. 9, 1788.
248. IX. Naomi[5], bapt. June 13, 1790.
249. X. Nahum[5], bapt. May 18, 1794; m. ——. Family 40.
250. XI. Charles[5], bapt. Sept. 30, 1798; m. Lucinda Tenney, Susan P. Kendall, and Beulah Keyes. Family 41.

Family 15.

251. Ezra[4] Stiles Jr. [78] (Ezra[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., Dec. 18, 1749; bapt. Dec. 31, 1749 (Boxford Records); m. Hannah Cutter, who was probably born at Watertown, Mass., about 1756 (see allusion to her age in her husband's statement at the time of his application for a pension). "The name of Ezra Stiles appears on the muster-roll of the 'minute-men' under the command of Capt. William Pearly in Col. James Fry's Regiment from the 19th of April, 1775, to the 25th of said April" (Mass. Archives, Lexington Alarm, vol. xiii, p. 44).

"When his term [above referred to] expired, he engaged for 4 months additional service, and was employed in building forts. At the end of the last service he re-enlisted for one year with Capt. Craft, in Col. Greaton's Mass. Regt., which marched to Northern New York and Canada. In June, 1820, his wife, Hannah, was living, aged 64 years, and a Richard Stiles, aged 15, was living in his family, but [Mr. Stiles] does not call him a son or a relative" (Pension Office Reports).

It is recorded that the town of Denmark, Me., had among the first proprietors, a number of families from Boxford, Middleton and Andover, Mass., and the name of Ezra Stiles is mentioned among others, but we do not find any reference to him in the Records of Denmark, and so it is likely that he soon removed from Denmark—if he ever lived there—to the neighboring town of Gilead, remaining there until his death, which probably occurred about 1826, although no positive information as to the date can be obtained.

* Sophia, wife of Oliver C. Stiles, and dau. of James and Mary Stevens, d. Aug. 13, 1803 or 1863 (date undecipherable), æ. 41 yrs. and 10 mos.; b. in Sandwich, N. H. It is quite probable that she was the wife of Oliver (son of Timothy).

Children (from a record furnished by a descendant; the order as here given of births is probably incorrect):

252. I. Luther[5], b. Dec., 1790; m. Sally Woodbury and Mrs. Abigail Millet. Family 42.

253. II. Nathan[5], b. July, 1794; m. Betsey S. Mason. Family 43.

FAMILY 18.

285. Peleg Stearns[5] Stiles [104] (Lieut. Levi[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was b. at Lunenburg, Mass., Mch. 25, 1766; m. (1) Rebecca Wyman (b. Apr. 21, 1767), of L., Dec. 15, 1787, who d. Mch. 8, 1806; m. (2) Sept. 3, 1806, Mrs. Sally (Buck) McElroy of Sutton, Mass.; she b. Aug. 17, 1784. Mrs. McElroy had 2 children by her first marriage.

Peleg S. Stiles was one of the first settlers of Moretown, Vt. His son says: "My father cleared some 200 acres of primeval forest at Moretown. He raised wheat, corn, potatoes and apples in great abundance. He gathered hundreds of bushels of apples every year, and made from 20 to 30 barrels of cider in a season. On the hill large flocks of sheep and many cattle found pasture. He became quite famous for raising fine horses (Morgan).

"Of his large family of 19 children (besides 2 which my mother had by her 1st marriage), 11 grew up.

"Once more, by memory's light, I see the forms and faces of those who were wont to gather about my father's plentifully-spread table.

"My mother, with the help of my sisters, spun and wove the clothing for our large family. All had plenty to do."

Mr. Stiles held the office of justice of the peace, and was a man of considerable importance in Moretown.

He died at M., Dec. 6, 1834. Mrs. Sally (McElroy) Stiles died Jan. 1, 1858.

Children (by 1st marriage—It is said that Peleg Stiles' children were all born at Moretown, but this is improbable, as the town was first settled in 1790, and not incorporated for 3 or 4 years afterward.—M. S. P. G.):

354. Lincoln[5] Stiles [121] (Capt. Jacob[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Keene, N. H., 1765; m. (1) Patience Johnson (b. at Leominster, Mass., Jan. 5, 1768), who d. at Cavendish, Vt., Apr. 10, 1820, æ. 48 yrs. 3 mos. 5 days. He was a carpenter by occupation. He received a pension for his services in the Revolutionary War, and we learn from the Pension Office Reports, that in June, 1831, he was living at Hartford, Windsor Co., Vt.; had wife named Ruth, aged 59 years.

He served as waiter to his father, Capt. Jacob Stiles; was at the battle at Hubbardton (July 7, 1777), and was present at the surrender of Burgoyne (Oct. 17, 1777). It will be noticed that Lincoln Stiles was under thirteen years of age at this time. The Pension Office Report says he died Oct. 31, 1857, but his grandson, J. F. Stiles, of Fitchburg, Mass., says he died (at Londonderry, Vt.), Oct. 27, 1857.

Children (by 1st marriage):

Family 23.

362. Jeremiah[5] Stiles Jr. [143] (Capt. Jeremiah[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was b. at Keene, N. H., May 21, 1771; m. at Keene, Sept. 20, 1793, Abigail Bridge of Gilsum, N. H., who d. at Worcester, Mass., Sept. 24, 1869, at the advanced age of 95 years. "She always enjoyed remarkably good health, and was never bent by age. A few years before her death she 'received second sight,' so that she could see to read without spectacles, and to do beautiful hemming. In her dress she was a model of neatness; the immaculate white cap which she invariably wore, was made after the 'Martha Washington' pattern." (Extract from a letter of her granddau., Mrs. Lydia [Stiles] Taft.)

At the age of 18, Jeremiah Stiles Jr., was teaching school in his native town. About three years later (or about 1791) he took up his residence, as a surveyor, at Worcester, Mass. Here his first place of business was in one of the chambers of the old Centre school-house on Main st. Many years afterward, his dau. Sarah [Mrs. Wood, who is now (1884) living at the age of 81, his only surviving child] taught school in the same room, and found many traces of her father's "handwriting on the wall." He afterward removed to the building which occupied the site of the present city hall, and remained there until that structure was removed to give place to the town hall built in 1825. At this time he established himself in a room of the house in which he was then living, on Mechanic st.

Mr. Stiles was a man of varied acquirements; besides being a practical surveyor, he was a civil engineer; a conveyancer, making and recording deeds. He made drawings of machinery, and procured letters-patent from Washington; was an excellent sign painter and a skillful engraver. Among other work of his in the engraving line was the heading to the Massachusetts Spy, used from 1822 to 1825. He made clocks which were put into tall cases that reached nearly to the ceiling, and were finished as beautifully as sewing machines are now-a-days. Some of these clocks had an ingenious arrangement of the music-box order, by which a bird was made to fly out each morning, and at the same time a tune would be played, that for Sunday being "Old Hundred."

He was an adept at cutting the old-fashioned "profile likenesses." He painted portraits on canvas, and miniatures on ivory. [The foregoing has been gleaned in part from a letter of Mr. Stiles' granddau., Mrs. Lydia (Stiles) Taft, and in part from a biographical sketch prepared by his grandson, Major F. G. Stiles of Worcester, and read before the Worcester Society of Antiquity, at the presentation (Dec., 1884) of a portrait painted by him of his grandfather.]

Jeremiah Stiles Jr., seems to have refuted in his own case the old adage, "Jack at all trades, good at none," for we hear that he did well whatever he undertook. His educational advantages must have been rather limited, and yet he appears to have been an excellent scholar. Taken all in all, the Mass. Stiles family may well be proud of its most gifted son.

The Worcester Daily Times (issue of Aug. 13, 1884) refers to Jeremiah Stiles Jr., in the following words: "It may not be amiss amid our pride in the success of one branch of instruction in our Worcester schools — the art department — to glance back to the first, and perhaps the only genuine artist who ever took up his residence in Worcester. This was one Jeremiah Stiles. He came here nearly a century ago from Keene, N. H., to follow the modest occupation of surveyor, in which he had had some experience in his native town. He found enough to do, but it was not in his line. He was an artist and a genius." [His inherited talent—his father was "skillful at drawing and painting," so tradition says—was developed at an early age. The story runs, that when he was 18 years of age he painted a picture of a tiger which was "so natural it frightened the neighbors."]

"At one time he made arrangements to go to England to study art, but the French War of 1798 compelled him to give up the project; but he painted, not because he had been taught, but because he had the genuine artist eye and touch; there was no alternative; he must so express himself. One of his pictures is preserved at Antiquarian Hall, and another, a portrait of a noted colored genius, is in the possession of the Worcester Society of Antiquity."

[Other specimens of his work are still to be found in neighboring towns, proving that his fame extended beyond Worcester. One of his paintings, still to be seen, was made for a Masonic society at Sutton, Mass., and is referred to in the History of Sutton (p. 192) in the following words: "Those beautiful figures of Faith, Hope and Charity were painted by the noted artist, Jeremiah Styles."]

"With his unequaled, though untaught, enthusiasm for art, he possessed, in no inferior degree, the sister gift of poetry. ['He was a man of varied talents; a portrait painter of more than ordinary ability, and a poet of no mean pretensions. His familiarity with the English classics was wonderful.' — Worcester Book, p. 75.] His epigrams thrown off, always pat and to the point, when in congenial society, were among the 'rich things' of old Worcester. A friend might open Shakespeare or Milton at random, and read a line, he would take it up and recite, with unerring accuracy, on and on — perhaps whole pages.

"His death by drowning, at Lake Quinsigamond, occurred July 2, 1826, when in company with Alexander Vottier, a Frenchman who served under Napoleon I, and several others bathing, he going down while trying to pass under the floating bridge.

"After three days' fruitless searching for his body — a large bounty having been offered by his brother, John W. Stiles — as a last resort a cannon belonging to the Worcester Artillery Company was taken down and fired on the bridge near where the fatal plunge was made; the surface of the water was watched closely; some bubbles were seen to rise, and a man named Arthur Adlington lowered the grappling-irons at that spot, and the body was brought to the surface. He was buried at Mechanic Street Cemetery, but his remains were afterward removed to Rural Cemetery" (from Biographical Sketch by Maj. F. G. Stiles).

In his religious belief Mr. Stiles was a Unitarian.

Children (all born at Worcester, Mass.):

363. I. Tristram[6], b. Oct. 6, 1794. He shipped in 1812 on the U. S. ship of war Essex, Capt. Porter commanding, and during that cruise the British ship Alert was captured, the first prize taken in the war. For his services he was offered a midshipman's commission, but refused to accept it.

It is related of him that after his return from this cruise, while one day sitting reading, he fell asleep and dreamed:

"Twenty-seven years shalt thou live and no more. The dream awakened him. He afterward dreamed the same thing, and mentioned it to some of his friends, who paid no especial attention to it at the time, but recalled it vividly when the dream was verified" (from Address of Major F. G. Stiles). He was drowned at sea Nov. 6, 1821, on a voyage from Falmouth to Savannah, at the age of 27.

364. II. Charles[6], b. Jan. 16, 1798; m. Lucy M. Williams. Family 64.

365. III. Henry[6], b. Nov. 12, 1800; m. Avis Williams and Betsey Read. Family 65.

366. IV. Sarah Bridge[6], b. Nov. 3, 1803; m. 1831, Jonathan Wood of Lunenburg, Mass.; res. at Worcester, Mass., until the death of Mr. Wood in 1881; after that time she lived until her death with her daughter, Mrs. Derby, in Chicago. Mrs. Wood was quite remarkable in her way. The closing sentence of the article on her father, published in the Worcester Daily Times, the most of which we have already quoted, relates to Mrs. Wood. It reads as follows: "His dainty gift of reproducing form, and his instinct of symmetry, live in his daughter now (1883) a woman of 80. Every thing she does is marked by the same unstudied habit of elegance."

"The handwriting is a marvel to every one who sees it. Look through whole quires of her manuscript, and you never see a blot or an erasure." A specimen of her artistic skill in penmanship executed at the age of eighty-one, was presented Dec., 1884, by Maj. F. G. Stiles, a nephew of Mrs. Wood, to the Worcester Society of Antiquity. It is a copy of a speech made by her in 1821, at the presentation of a banner painted by her father — to a military company at W. Mrs. Wood taught a select school for young ladies, in Worcester, for more than 20 years. She was a favorite and successful teacher. In her religious belief she was an old school Unitarian. She died Mch. 31, 1890, at the home of her daughter, who writes of her mother: "She lived for others. Of all that I remember, hers was the loveliest life, and the calmest death." Her remains were brought to Worcester, where funeral services were held in the First Unitarian Church, Apr. 4, Rev. Mr. Garver officiating. She was buried by the side of her husband, in the family lot in Rural Cemetery. Issue:

372. Joseph[5] Stiles [144] (Capt. Jeremiah[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Keene, N. H., July 5, 1773. He is believed to have been twice married, (1) to Sarah Jane Pierce,* who probably died soon after the birth of a son; (2) to Nancy Dutton, of Hebron, Conn. He was doubtless the same Joseph Stiles who was living at Northfield, Mass., in 1793 (Temple & Sheldon's Hist. Northfield, Mass., p. 545).

His children by Nancy Dutton were all born at Keene, N. H., between 1798 and 1807. In 1800 he was the owner of a house at Keene. He lived for a short time at Dummerstown, Vt., after 1807. In 1809, he emigrated to Cazenovia, N. Y., where he spent the remainder of his life. Mr. Stiles was a wood-turner by trade. He was exceedingly fond of music,

* Mrs. Sarah Pierce (Stiles) Ridlon of Norwood, Ohio, states that she was named for her grandmother Stiles (whose maiden name was Sarah Jane Pierce). Mrs. Ridlon is a sister of the late Francis Stiles Jr., of Rochdale, Mass., who claimed, as we learn from Major F. G. Stiles, of Worcester, Mass., that his grandfather, Joseph Stiles, was a brother of Jeremiah Stiles Jr., formerly of Worcester, Mass.

These statements of Mrs. Ridlon, and her brother, Francis Stiles Jr., leave us no choice except to give Sarah Jane Pierce as the maiden name of Joseph Stiles' first wife.

We shall be glad of any additional information on the subject.—M. S. P. G.

and played the violin. In figure he was large and stout. He and his wife both died at Cazenovia, about 1843, probably.

Child (by 1st marriage):

373. I. Francis[6], b. at Northfield, Mass., June 29, 1794; m. Maria Antoinette Russell and Eliza Stevens. Family 66.

Children (by 2d marriage, all born at Keene, N. H.):

374. II. Joseph Dutton[6], b. abt. 1798; m. Emily Dunbar and Desdamona Wadsworth. Family 67.

375. III. Tench Coxe[6], b. Jan. 21, 1801; m. Lydia Jones and Mrs. C. E. Young. Family 68.

376. IV. Nancy[6], b. 1803; m. Philo Fairchild. Issue:

377. i. Harrison[7]; res. (1885) at Rochester, N. Y.

378. ii. Tench Coxe[7]; went to Cal., and there died not far from 40 years ago; he was buried in a cemetery at Sacramento City. He was an actor.

379. V. Mary[6], b. 1807; m. Sept. 5, 1849, as 2d wife, Oliver Jewell, Esq., of Cazenovia, N. Y. Before her marriage she kept a millinery establishment. She died at Cazenovia, Feb. 29, 1872, aged 65 years; no children. Mr. Jewell survived his wife 2 years.

The following is an extract from an obituary, which appeared in the Cazenovia Republican: "We are unwilling to publish this sad notice without saying a few words in behalf of this whole community, concerning the high esteem and affectionate admiration with which Mrs. Jewell's excellent character is universally regarded here. She has been for more than forty years an active and useful woman in this place, and every year has seemed to add to the high estimation in which she has been held by all who have known her. She exhibited a rare combination and balancing of such qualities as kindness and discretion, gentleness and energy, delicacy and efficiency, promptness and patience, generosity and prudence, charity and judiciousness, familiarity and refinement. In her home, in the church, in the social circles in which she moved, in the whole community, and among the 'strangers within the gates' she exercised these qualities for the good of all she could reach. It was the law of her life to live for others rather than for herself.

* * * * * * * *

"Especially was she remarkable for the delicate kindness, combined with active and thorough efficiency with which she ministered to the sick, the distressed and the sorrowing, whether in homes of poverty or affluence, as willingly in the one as in the other, making herself equally useful and welcome in both.

"Many who have had experience of her Christian charity in years past, and who are now scattered to distant parts of the land, will unite with us in honoring and blessing her memory, and we will rejoice in the confidence that she will hear the Saviour in whom she believed, and in whose spirit she aimed to live — say to her, 'Inasmuch as you have done it to the least of these, you have done it unto Me.'

"She whom we love has passed away
As sinks a lovely day to rest; —
The brightest when the golden clouds
Of evening gem the west.

"As calm as midnight's jewelled dome,
The dreary vale she fearless trod,
Trusting in Him who sweetly said,
'Be not dismayed, I am thy God.'

"Passed is the tide, the surging tide,
Gained is the mansion up on high;
Where all is rest and joy supreme,
She lives! the good can never die.

"Oh ye bereaved ones look up; —
The while ye bow beneath the rod,
Hear now a voice divine, which says —
'Be still, and know that I am God.'"

380. John William[5] Stiles [145] (Capt. Jeremiah[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was b. at Keene, N. H., Feb. 22, 1777; m. Nov., 1801, Mary (only dau. of Dr. Thaddeus and Experience [dau. of Capt. Thomas Cowdin]) Maccarty* of Keene.

*Dr. Thaddeus Maccarty was the son of Rev. Thaddeus Maccarty, a clergyman of some note in his day. In the Mass. Hist. Colls., 2nd Series, Vol. 3, pp. 207–8, we find the following notice of him: "Rev. Thaddeus

She was b. at Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 8, 1775, and d. at Worcester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1838.

In the year 1809, Mr. Stiles was living at Templeton, Mass., according to the following advertisements from the Worcester Spy: "May 1, 1809, John W. Stiles and Ripley of Templeton, Worcester Co., Mass., dissolved partnership." "June 1, 1801, John W. Stiles and Lyman dissolved partnership."

In the appendix to "An Historical Discourse on the commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the formation of the First Cong. Church, at Templeton, Mass.," we find that John W. Stiles was Town Treas., 1808–12; Representative to the Gen. Court, 1810–13; Selectman and Town Clerk, 1814–15. In 1811, the town, at the request of Rev. Mr. Wellington, chose a committee to assist him in examining school-

Maccarty was b. in Boston; grad. at Cambridge, 1739. He was a follower and admirer of Whitefield. He was tall of stature, slender of habit, had a black and piercing eye, loud, sonorous voice, solemn and rousing in manner of address, Calvinistic in opinion and doctrine. He d. at Worcester, where he had long been settled, July 18, 1785."

His son, Dr. Thaddeus, was the first resident physician of Fitchburg, Mass., settling there in 1772 or '73. He was a man of good education, and reported to have been skillful in his profession. In 1776, during the prevalence of the small-pox at Fitchburg, Dr. Maccarty, in connection with Dr. Israel Atherton, a distinguished physician of Lancaster, Mass., established a hospital for those who had been inoculated for the small-pox, then the only means known of checking the terrible ravages of the dread disease. It appears that he labored incessantly to alleviate the pains of those who were suffering under the loathsome disorder, and to allay the fears of those who were well.

For his exertions in this praiseworthy cause, the good people of the town showed their gratitude by propagating a report that either he or his friends introduced the disease into the place for the purpose of giving him a good business.

He removed to Worcester in 1781; after remaining there a short time, went to Kane, N. H., and commenced business as a trader, and in a few years died. He m. Experience, dau. of Captain Thomas Cowdin, who was b. at Stow, Mass., in 1720. Learned the blacksmith's trade at Marlborough, Mass., and set up in business at Worcester, Mass. He removed to Fitchburg in 1764. Torrey, in his History of Fitchburg, represents Capt. Cowdin as a remarkably brave and fearless man, who was often intrusted with military commissions of great importance. Torrey says: "He appears to have been one of those persons who, without the advantages of birth, education or fortune, unaided by the influence of patronage or favor, but relying solely on the energies of a sound intellect and an active mind, frequently elevate themselves to a rank above their neighbors." "From the time when he first made Fitchburg his home until his death in 1792, he took the lead in public affairs" (Torrey). [Accounts of several of his daring exploits during the years immediately preceding the Revolution are given in Toney's Hist. of Fitchburg.] Mrs. John William Stiles was his only child.

teachers; John W. Stiles and Josiah Howe were chosen. "When the war was declared in 1812, the town voted to present a memorial to the President against the war, and for the restoration of peace. A committee consisting of Rev. Elisha Andrews, Rev. Charles Wellington, Lovell Walker Esq., Samuel Cutting Esq., John W. Stiles, Leonard Stone and Deacon Paul Kendall, reported a very elaborate memorial, entering largely into argument on the subject. It covers twelve pages of the Town Records, and was adopted by a vote of eighty-six to twenty-two. The memorial was the composition of Mr. Stiles, who was a merchant in this town; "a man of great vigor and mental activity."

He removed from Templeton to Worcester, where he continued business as a trader. He d. at Worcester, Sept. 14, 1836, having been an invalid for several years. A relative who visited him after he was confined to his house, writes concerning him: "He was very fond of music, had formerly played the violin. One day he roused himself and ordered his man to go for some one who could put his violin in order. Aunt remonstrated, telling him he would not be able to use it if it were in order, but no, he was not to be denied. The man came and the instrument was put in order. He took it in his hand, and drew the bow across the strings a few times, and then laid it back upon the sideboard, and never touched it again. He was fond of hearing me sing to him, which I did whenever the fit came over him, as it often did many times a day. He greatly enjoyed hearing about his native town; I believe he remembered every street, house and tree in the place. He once had his niece write to us to know if a certain tree on West st. had been cut down. He would often send his man in the night to ascertain some fact, being unwilling to wait until morning for the information.

"He was a very generous and kind-hearted man. Uncle John Briggs very nearly resembled him." [Extract from a letter of Mrs. Juliette (Briggs) Hunt.]

Children (b. at Templeton, Mass.):

381. I. Lydia[6], b. Jan. 27, 1806; m. Feb., 1828, Alfred Dwight Foster (Hon. Dwight[6], Hon. Jedediah[5], Ephraim[4] Jr., Ephraim[3], Abraham[2], Reginald[1]), of Worcester, who was b. at Brookfield, Mass., in 1800. Mr. and Mrs. Foster were distantly related, both being descendants of Reginald Foster, the emigrant, through his grandson, Ephraim Foster of Ipswich, Mass. They res. at Worcester, where Mr. Foster d., Aug., 1852. He grad. at Harvard Coll., class of 1819; he was by profession a lawyer, and occupied a leading place as such. One who knew him well, says of him: "He was the best man I ever knew." Mrs. Lydia (Stiles) Foster d. at Worcester, Aug. 2, 1887. Issue (b. at Worcester, Mass.):

382. i. Dwight[7], b. Dec. 13, 1828; m. at New Haven, Conn., Aug. 20, 1850, Henrietta Perkins Baldwin, dau. of Hon. Roger Sherman Baldwin, State and United States Senator, Governor of Connecticut, etc. Mrs. Foster survives her husband, together with 7 of their 8 children — 4 sons and 3 daus. One of the latter is the wife of Prof. Thacher of Yale College (d. 1886). One of the sons is a member (1884) of the Boston city government; was his father's business associate; another son, Roger, is a prominent lawyer in New York city.

"Dwight Foster was fitted for college at Newport, R. I., by Rev. Dr. Thayer, entering Yale University in Sept., 1844, and graduating Aug., 1848. In 1851 he entered the Harvard Law School. In 1858 went into the office of Hon. Peter Bacon at Worcester; was admitted to the bar in 1859, and for many years enjoyed a large and lucrative practice in the county. He was elected Attorney-General of Massachusetts in 1861. After serving four years, resumed his general practice. During his incumbency of the above office, he greatly distinguished himself in the management of the government's case in the trial of George C. Hersey, at Dedham, in April, 1861, for the murder of Betsey Frances Tirrell. Aug. 31, 1866, Mr. Foster was appointed by Gov. Bullock Associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, which position he resigned Jan. 12, 1869, to again resume practice, and became counsel of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company" (Boston paper). Judge Foster died at his residence 18 Chestnut street, Boston, Mass., April 18, 1884, of valvular disease of the heart.

From "Tributes of the Bench and Bar" we copy a few extracts: "By this event the Commonwealth has lost a distinguished citizen, the bar an accomplished leader and associate, and the community an adviser of eminent learning and ability. Called to the Supreme Bench at an early age, he exhibited the highest qualities as a jurist. He gave clear expressions to the doctrines of the law with a terseness and facility which showed his perfect comprehension of the principles of the science, especially in the great department of equity and commercial law; his thorough knowledge of men and affairs, gained by extensive practice; his sound legal instinct and strong sense of justice enabled him to give direction to the course of jurisprudence, and to form the law in those branches in which it is the most susceptible of growth, and therein to do the highest work and best service of a good judge. By his early retirement from the bench, this court lost a most valuable associate and distinguished ornament. In personal character he was remarkable for independence and courage. He was above the reach of prejudice, and his opinions, broadly formed and strongly held, were forcibly and fearlessly expressed. * * *

His originality of view and independence of the social or provincial bias by which we are surrounded, made his conversation always instructing and interesting. He lived almost entirely in his family, and I need not say how much he was idolized there, or how much he deserved it" (Resolutions and Remarks of Mr. Robert D. Smith).

Attorney-General Sherman closed his remarks by saying:

"Judge Foster had no struggles with poverty while climbing the rugged path of learning, but in home, ancestry, wealth and social position he had all that heart could desire, and he appreciated and improved these advantages, graduating with the highest honors of his class. He was thoroughly equipped and qualified for the duties of his chosen profession. * * *

"He has left an example worthy of imitation, and we may be consoled by his peaceful death. At night he closed his eyes and went quietly to sleep.

"'And then the dark-browed mother, Death, bent down her face to his, and he was borne to Him.'"

Mr. George Shattuck said: "Judge Foster brought to Boston a splendid civil courage and self-reliance. He maintained a sturdy independence, and formed and expressed his opinions without regard to those around him."

Chief Justice Morton said in conclusion: "It is not necessary that we should multiply words of praise; the achievements of his life are his highest praise; the record which he left is his highest monument.

"He died in the full maturity of his powers, before age had dimmed his mental faculties, transmitting to his children, with added lustre, a name which has been held in high honor since the birth of our Commonwealth. The death of such a man, upright, able, learned, independent, fearless, hospitable and generous, is a public calamity." * * *

About the year 1800 he removed from Keene, N. H., to the western part of Vermont, thence in 1801, to Waterford, Vt. He was a carpenter by trade and built, the year he removed to W., a sawmill, for a man named Lord. The following year he bought the mill, and 160 acres of pine land, built himself a frame house, and married Annie Hill. The same year he commenced clearing his land; converting his pine lumber into boards, with which, in a short time, at six and eight dollars per thousand, he paid for his land.

He was one of the first settlers of Waterford, and his farm has continued in the possession of his descendants, being occupied at the present time (1884) by his grandson, George W. FAMILY 34.

480. Jacob[5] Stiles [221] (Noah[4], Ephraim[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Bridgeton, Me., March 31, 1786; m. (1) Betsey Harmon; (2) Olive W. Bryant, of Saco, Me., who was born at Saco, Feb. 26, 1797, and died at Stoneham, Me., Aug. 5, 1847.

Before the death of his 1st wife, while living at Harrison, Me., Mr. Stiles made a journey to Ohio, walking nearly the whole distance from Harrison, Me., and back again. Being favorably impressed with the western country, he resolved to remove his family to Ohio, and there make his home. He accordingly prepared a wagon suitable for the long journey, and secured a pair of horses; but he was obliged at the last to give up the undertaking in consequence of the failing health of his wife, who soon died. After his second marriage, he found a place nearer home, at Bacheller's Grant (now Stoneham), Me., and in March, 1821, removed to that place, of which he was one of the earliest settlers.

By summer he had made an opening in the deep forest, and had built a log-house. While their new home was being prepared, he and his family had found a temporary home with a neighbor, Mr. John McAllister. The log-house was occupied for 11 years; at the end of which time Mr. Stiles put up a small frame house, in which the family lived for a short time. In 1834 he built a more commodious dwelling. He encountered the usual hardships of pioneer life. He was obliged for several years to take his grist to mill — in winter on a hand-sled, and in summer on the back of a horse. His daughter, Mrs. H. P. Walker, who sends the account, says:

"My sister Elizabeth used to go with it (the grist) when she was quite a little girl. She had to be put into the saddle or climb upon the fence, in order to reach the back of the horse."

The nearest store was at Harrison, 18 miles away, and the shopping expeditions were performed by Mrs. Stiles on horseback. Besides performing the labor devolving on the mother of a large family (the latter included the spinning and weaving of wool and flax into cloth for garments and various other purposes), Mrs. Stiles was a professional midwife, and, as such, was obliged to take many a perilous ride in the darkness of night through the lonely forest, over rough ways (for roads they could not be called), urging her faithful horse to his utmost speed, while all about her could be heard the cries of the wild beasts that inhabited the forest.

She practiced her profession as long as she lived, many people preferring her to any doctor that could be obtained. She appears to have been equal to any emergency. This is illustrated by the following anecdote: One day she wanted a leg of mutton for dinner, and called on her husband to have a sheep killed. She was told that she must wait until the next day, as the men were all too busy to do the butchering. She replied: "I can't wait — I must have it to-day. If no one else can do it, I can do it myself." And she did, and was able to place on her dinner table that day, a huge quarter of roast mutton.

About 1854, Mr. Stiles disposed of his place at Stoneham, Me., and removed with his sons, Kimball H. and Luther, to Penn., to engage in the shook and cooperage business. They located at Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Penn., in the neighborhood of Bethel Church, and there Jacob Stiles d. Sept 23, 1855.

When a young man he was left in charge of the smelting works (at Boxford) belonging to his father, during the latter's absence in the country's service, at the time of the Revolutionary War, as it was necessary that the works should be kept in operation, in order to supply iron for the manufacture of arms for the soldiers. It is said that young Phineas was himself obliged to furnish a substitute to serve in the army, while he was engaged in smelting iron.

At a later period he rented a farm of the Kitfield heirs at Manchester, Mass., where he lived until 1809, when he took up a wild lot in the town of Jackson, Me., being one of the earliest settlers of that place. During the early years of his residence in Maine he suffered much from poverty and deprivation. He d. at Jackon, Dec. 16, 1843. [The foregoing account was furnished by Mark Saunders Stiles Esq., of Jackson, a son of Phineas Stiles, now (1884) nearly 86 years old.]

Children* (from records furnished by M. S. Stiles Esq., of Jackson, Me.):

NOTE.— We have received a transcript of Phineas Stiles' family record from the Manchester, Mass., town records, and find, on comparing it with the record sent by M. S. Stiles, that none of the dates correspond with those given by him (see footnote* for a copy of the Manchester record). Mr. Stiles gives Elizabeth as the name of his eldest sister, while the Manchester record has Betsey; but this variation is of no importance, as Betsey and Elizabeth were in early days considered to be the same name.

* Obituary of Rev. Peter Stiles. [It will be seen that he is here mentioned as both Capt. and Rev.]

"Died in Kirby, Vt., Oct. 17, 1835, Capt. Peter Stiles, aged 52 years. Mr. Stiles emigrated from Lunenburg, Mass., to this State about 30 years since, and resided in Kirby that length of time.

"Few of the early settlers of this section have been more generally respected and beloved. For 26 years he has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church; a large share of the time he held an official station in the church, and for several of the last years had been a local preacher.

"In the town of which he was so long an inhabitant, where he also held different offices—he lived respected not only for the liberal and generous feeling he uniformly exhibited to those who may have differed from him in sentiment, but for his strict integrity of Christian walk. He died sincerely lamented.

"For two years prior to his death he had gradually declined with a cancerous tumor, and for the last four months his sufferings were such as seldom have a parallel, but his patience and submission bespoke clearly his confidence in the providence of God, and showed with brightest evidence that "'The chamber where a good man meets his fate,

Is privileged beyond the common walks of life.'

"After he had arranged his temporal interests, a few days before his decease, expressing the utmost confidence in the goodness of God, and the correctness of the religious sentiments he had so long maintained, he arranged the exercises for his funeral services, and composed himself for the solemn moment of his departure, exclaiming, 'I long to be gone!' and when the cold grasp was fixed upon him he affectionately bade his companion and children farewell, and sweetly fell asleep."

*Obituary of Mrs. Lucy (Johnson) Stiles:

"Sister Stiles embraced the Saviour when 25 years of age, and joined the Cong. church, but subsequently joined the Methodist Episcopal church, in which she remained a worthy spiritual member until summoned to join the church triumphant. She and her departed husband were emphatically laborers in the vineyard of their Divine Master. They early shared the toils and deprivations of the first settlers of this section of our country, but while preparing the solitary wilderness for culture, they were also zealous in preparing the hearts of neighbors and friends to receive the good seed of the kingdom. Their united efforts were not in vain, the Lord was with them. As might have expected, this mother in Israel left the world in triumph, thereby evidencing the reality of our holy religion. Peace to her memory! Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord!"

* William Henry Ayer enlisted May, 1862, as a private in the 10th R. I. Regt. (3 mos). After his return in Sept., '62, he re-enlisted in the 11th R. I. Regt. (9 mos.); was app'd Lieut., and soon promoted to Capt. of Co. A. They were associated with the 14th N. Y., 22d Conn., and 40th Mass. Regts., afterward with the 16th Virginia, and 1st Virginia Battery, under Gen. Robert Cowdin. For the first three mos. they did picket duty on the front, which lay between Lewinsville and Falls Church. The middle of April, 1863, they were ordered to Suffolk to join Gen. Terry's Brigade. Here they were engaged in building earthworks, supporting batteries, and in the trenches; performed their part in two expeditions to the Blackwater, and in one of these made a march of six days in the intensest heat of a summer's sun, with the fortitude of soldier's long in service. They showed their fighting qualities in their skirmishing with the enemy in the Blackwater raids. At the close of their last march to Williamsburg, William was taken with typhoid malarial fever, and for eight days was delirious. When reason returned there was no hope of his recovery, and orders were given that he should be carried to the hospital at Fortress Monroe, as his regiment was to start immediately for home; but the men of his company begged for the privilege of carrying him on a stretcher to the transport in which they were to leave. The request was granted, and on a hot July day they carried him two miles, and laid him in his berth, where he remained until they landed in Providence. The hope of reaching home kept him alive, but for weeks after his return we had no hope of his recovery, and it was more than a year before he was able to do any thing. The seeds of malaria laid the foundation for the disease which finally cost him his life, though many years afterward, as he d. in '77. (From a letter of his mother.) have the following account of him: "He had the misfortune, when a little child, to be pushed into the 'fire-place' by some playmates, in consequence of which his eyes were disfigured and the sight impaired, rendering vision very imperfect. No spectacles that he could use could ever be found for him, and he could read only coarse print, and that with great difficulty.

"He was always eager to know the news of the day, both foreign and domestic, and it was read to him either by his good wife or some other member of the family. Of course he had no trade, yet he was very industrious, busying himself with small jobs, such as tending gardens and the like.

"He was blessed with excellent health, never having been confined to his bed by sickness until a short time before his death. He possessed a very retentive memory, and would repeat a large portion of a speech or discourse to which he had listened, imitating precisely the tones and manner of the speaker.

"He was a constant attendant at, though not a member of the Unitarian church, missing in thirty years but one Sunday, and that only because — on account of the burning of the church, no place for service could be had." He d. May 21, 1879, æ. 81. Mrs. Lucy A. (Williams) Stiles d. Sept. 5, 1880, æ. 81. "In sickness she was a kind and willing nurse, and was much beloved by her many friends and neighbors."

* Mrs. Lydia (Jones) Stiles was always an active worker in every good cause; a thorough advocate of the equal rights of her own sex to all the advantages for education that men enjoy, in order to make them useful as well as ornamental members of society. She believed that they should be allowed to study medicine and practice it, especially among their own sex. [She held, in 1870, the position of corresponding secretary and trustee of the Cleveland Homeœpathic College and Hospital for Women.] She also believed that women should have a voice in making the laws which govern women as well as men (from a Letter of Tench Coxe Stiles).

† The present Mrs. Stiles, though not what would be considered an advocate of women's rights, is most actively and heartily engaged in almost every cause that is calculated to improve the condition of the destitute, such as giving employment to those who are willing to earn a living for themselves and families, and are unable to find work (from a Letter of T. C. Stiles to M. S. P. G., received July 6, 1885).

1017. Luther[6] Stiles [502] (Jacob[5], Noah[4], Ephraim[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Stoneham, Oxford Co., Me., Sept. 25, 1836; m. (1) Oct. 21, 1857, Maria Jane (dau. of John and Maria) Crum of Summer Hill, Cambria Co., Pa.; she born July 16, 1833; died Sept. 6, 1875, at Bethel Church, Pa.; m. (2) Feb. 22, 1878, Mary (dau. of Richard and Elizabeth) Davis of Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Pa.

When Luther Stiles was about 18 or 19 years of age, his father sold his place at Stoneham, Me. (his wife having previously died), and, with 2 of his sons, Kimball H. and Luther, went to Pennsylvania. They located about 6 miles west of Ebensburg, Cambria Co., at a place now known as Bethel. Here Kimball H. Stiles started the shook business, and Luther commenced learning the cooper's trade, at which he worked until 1859, and with the business of which he was connected as long as he lived. After his marriage in 1857 to Miss Maria Jane Crum, he settled on the farm at Bethel, Pa., which had been his wife's father's. Here he worked at farming during summer, and carried on shook-making winters. After the death of his wife he sold his farm and removed to the neighborhood of Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., and went into the shook and lumber business, residing at R. In 1880 he was stricken with the disease which, after eight months of suffering, ended his life. He died Jan. 22, 1881, at the house of his brother, Kimball H. Stiles, in New York city, whither he had gone for medical treatment. His remains were conveyed by his friends to his old home in Pennsylvania, and buried near his first wife in Bethel Church Cemetery.

Mr. Stiles was greatly esteemed by all who knew him. He was strictly honest in all his business transactions, always giving, rather than taking an advantage. During his last sickness he bore his sufferings with patience, and died at peace with his God.

Just before his death, Mr. Stiles lost all his property through a business partnership; thus his family were left dependent on their own exertions for support. His widow and children still (1884) reside at Reynoldsville, Pa. [The above sketch was sent by Miss Laura E. Stiles, dau. of Luther Stiles.]

FAMILY 90.

1071. Mark Saunders[6] Stiles [541] (Phineas[5], Timothy[4], Ezra[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Manchester, Mass., Sept. 18, 1797 (according to his own family record; Sept. 22, according to the Manchester records); m. (1) April 24, 1832, Betsey Goodhue of Dixmont, Me., who died of consumption Nov. 19, 1836; m. (2) Lydia Kingsbury of Frankfort, Me., Oct. 31, 1838. [In 1883 Mr. Stiles informed us that notwithstanding his wife's great age and total blindness, she had that season spun a quantity of "rolls" into yarn, out of which she had knit a good many pairs of stockings, which she sold for fifty cents per pair. — M. S. P. G.]

"Mrs. Lydia, wife of Mark S. Stiles, died last Sunday night (Nov. 3, 1889), after a brief illness of little more than one week, aged 84 yrs. 6 mos. Funeral from her late residence Wednesday afternoon. Discourse by Rev. D. Brackett. Mrs. S. had been entirely blind for nearly twenty years, the result of an accident to one of her eyes several years previous to her total blindness. Ever since the accident her suffering from these members has been most severe a great portion of the time; all of which she has borne with a patience and fortitude rarely witnessed. Her whole life was an example of love, purity and devotion. Where best known she was the most loved. Her husband and two children survive her" (Belfast [Me.] paper, Nov. 7, 1889).

The following is an extract from a letter by Mark S. Stiles Jr., Oct. 12, 1890: "I have lately received a picture of the house in which my honored old father was born, at 'Manchester by the Sea;' presented by Dea. A. E. Low, a resident of that neighborhood, and for several years a correspondent of my father. He writes me regarding this house: 'The north end was built about 1690, and the other end about 1735. It stands in front of a rock-bound hill about 200 feet high and 40 feet from the road.' He further says: 'Some time since a house was built on the north end of this land, which, with the old and new house and about 2 acres of land across the road, was sold last spring for $10,000. I suppose the old house will now give place to a new building.' The picture shows a very comfortable-looking, two-story, double tenement-house. At the time of my father's occupancy of one part of this old house, the other part was occupied by a family by the name of Kinsman, as I have heard father say. I wish I might visit the old homestead before it is removed. Though father was but 12 years of age when he came to Maine, his reminiscences of those few years of 'sweet childhood,' and of a subsequent visit to the old homestead, were always of interest to me, let him recount them as often as he might. If I could but visit this old spot, and climb the old 'hill' where he used to pick the 'bay-berries' from which to get the tallow for the year's stock of candles; or go down to the 'cove' where he gathered shells and caught the eel and cunner; or, perhaps, see the house of Jacob Kitfield, where, he so often used to tell me, he committed his first (and last) theft — an old brass faucet, which he proposed to transform into a cannon, but which his mother (unfeelingly no doubt) caused him to return to its rightful owner, 'all burdened with guilt and shame.'"

At the age of 18, Mark Saunders Stiles (whose parents were then living at Jackson, Me.), "shouldered his pack" and started for the great lumber region of Mirimiche, in the Province of New Brunswick, walking the whole distance, about 400 miles. Here he worked for 6 years cutting "ton timber" (which in those days was shipped to England and manufactured by whip saws). At the end of this time he returned to Jackson and redeemed his father's farm, which was incumbered by a heavy mortgage. On this farm Mr. Stiles lived until his death.

He held the office of selectman for many years, and represented his party in the State Legislature; served 2 terms (6 years) as county commissioner, and never, with all his public business, neglected the interests of his farm.

Although his educational privileges were very limited, good natural abilities made him a very useful man for the local public, and he ever maintained the respect and confidence of all with whom he had dealings.

His religious sentiments were Universalist. In 1883 his son wrote as follows:

"Although he is now nearly 86 years old, he is as erect and fresh of countenance as many men of 65, and seems to be in the full enjoyment of an honest, temperate and well-ordered life." [The foregoing sketch of Mr. Stiles was furnished by his son, M. S. Stiles Jr.]

"Mark S. Stiles Esq., an old and much-respected citizen of Jackson, died on Sunday morning last (Dec. 29, 1889), at the advanced age of 92 yrs. and 3 mos. * * * He retained his faculties and his active interest in affairs until the last, and his death closed a long and useful life" (Belfast [Me.] Republican Journal).

Mr. Stiles evinced the greatest interest in the progress of the Stiles Genealogy, and a strong desire that it might be completed during his life-time. We have been greatly cheered by his letters of cordial and appreciative encouragement.

Children (by 2d marriage):

1073. II. Mark Saunders[7] Jr., b. Mch. 26, 1845; m. Lizzie J. Hanson. Family 148.

Family 91.

1074. Dr. Augustus C.[6] Stiles [557] (Phineas[5], Timothy[4], Ezra[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Jackson, Me., Sept. 28, 1813; m. (1) Nov. 26, 1843, at Brooks, Me., Julia Edwards of that town; m. (2) Aug. 30, 1859, Mrs. Georgie Norman, of New York city, who d. about 2 years later at Hammondton, N. J., æ. 30; m. (3) Aug. 2, 1862, Jane E. Wilcoxson, who d. at Hammondton Oct. 6, 1865; m. (4) Oct. 21, 1867, at Hammondton, Ardell Butterfield, born at Sidney, Me., Sept. 28, 1849. This lady, born on the 37th anniversary of her husband's birth, is the dau. of Joseph and Nancy Lowell (Ward) Butterfield, the father being a brother of Fanny (Butterfield) Newell, the well-known Methodist exhorter, who travelled through Maine and Vermont and preached with her husband, the Rev. E. F. Newell; the mother being a sister of the Rev. William Ward. Mrs. Ardell Stiles' P. O. address (1884) is Belgrade, Me.

Dr. Stiles grad. from an eclectic coll. in the State of N. Y. In 1857–58 was in practice in Bridgeport, Conn., was then for a while in New York city, whence, soon after his second marriage, in 1859, he removed to Hammondton, N. J.

In the spring of 1868 he removed to Wilmington, Del., where he entered upon a very lucrative practice. His close application to his professional duties, however, seriously aggravated an organic disease of the heart, from which he had suffered since youth, and death came to him suddenly June 23, 1868, in his 55th year. His remains were interred at Hammondton, N. J., but were afterward removed to Bridgeport, Conn.

Dr. Stiles possessed great nobility of character, and was generous to a fault, especially in his charities, though in an unobtrusive way. His features were plain, but his presence was commanding.

He availed himself of clairvoyance in his practice, which is described as having been very successful. With his patients he was social and sympathetic, winning their confidence, but at the same time very positive, and exacting implicit obedience to his directions. In his domestic relations he was very affectionate, tender and true; fond of the society of the young, and always alive to every opportunity of helping others.

Child (by 1st marriage):

He was a builder by trade, and for the last 20 years of his life resided at Gorham, N. H., during which time he was first and foremost in every enterprise that meant advancement and improvement to the town. He always retained the confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens as may be seen from the fact of his having held all the important offices of trust within the gift of his townsmen. He was for many years one of the selectmen and Representative to the Gen. Court. In 1870, in consideration of his labors, he was appointed Postmaster which office he held to general satisfaction until his death, which occurred Jan. 1, 1875. [The above biog. sketch was furnished by Mr. Stiles' dau., Mrs. Helen E. Bellows of Boston, Mass.] His widow res. (1883) at Gorham, N. H.

Children (from a record given by Mrs. Helen E. Bellows):

1206. Wyman D.[7] Stiles [726] (Levi[6], Peleg S.[5], Lt. Levi[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at Moretown, Vt. Before he became of age he left home and went to New Bedford, Mass., and there shipped on board a whaling vessel. On arriving at California he was obliged to leave the vessel on account of ill-health. After a while he proceeded to the Sandwich Islands and settled at Waipio, Hamakua, Hawaii. Here he married a native woman, who bore him 4 children, all of whom with the mother died previous to 1866. He afterward married another Hawaiian woman named "Ha-Wa-He," by whom he had 3 sons and 2 daus. In July, 1872, Mr. Stiles very mysteriously disappeared, and it is believed he was lost in a quagmire. He left home on business in the morning, and as his way led for a long distance through the forest and over a rough road, it is supposed that he missed the way. Although the most diligent search was made, no trace of him nor of the horse he rode, was ever discovered.

His eldest son was given to the Bishop of the Island College and received a good education. He graduated not long since from the Hawaiian schools, and is now (1884) filling an important position, with a good salary. [The above history of Wyman D. Stiles and his family was gleaned from facts which were furnished by his sister, Mrs. Mary A. Cook of Springfield, Vt.]

ter; Major Stiles follows the occupation of ornamental painting in its various branches, although he inherits, in no small degree, the talent for portraiture, being a grandson of Jeremiah Stiles Jr., a well-known portrait painter of Worcester 60 to 70 years ago (1883).

At the breaking out of the Rebellion Mr. Stiles raised a company of volunteers, and was made Capt. of the same. On joining the Regt., he was promoted to Major in the 19th Army Corps, Department of the Gulf, and was afterward of the 22d Army Corps in Virginia. [This is Major Stiles' very modest account of himself. We think a third person would have made rather more of the matter.] Maj. Stiles says, "I have no wish to magnify what at the time I considered and still consider, simply duty." He has long been an earnest worker in the temperance cause. At the recent memorial services at Worcester, to the famous temperance lecturer John B. Gough, Major Stiles was chosen by the reformed men to make the address, which was a truly eloquent tribute to the great apostle of temperance.

H.; was living there in 1887–8; later at Norway Lake, Me.

Child:

1330. I. Meredith H.[8], b. May 16, 1880, at New Bedford, Mass.

FAMILY 145.

1331. Elbridge[7] Stiles [989] (Samuel[6], Jacob[5], Noah[4], Ephraim[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at East Stoneham, Oxford Co., Me., Sept. 12, 1842. In 1857 removed with his parents to Pennsylvania. He graduated at Eastman's College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was at one time a clerk in a wholesale house in Philadelphia.

He married Maggie Fulmer, at Carroll township, Cambria Co., Pa., June 27, 1864, and about this time was for awhile employed as clerk in the store of A. A. Parker, at Ebensburg, Pa.

In 1862 he enlisted in the 133d Regt. Pa. Vols.; served 9 months as Corporal; was honorably discharged at the expiration of his term of service. He re-enlisted in Co. C, 209th Regt. Pa. Inf'y, as Color-Sergeant. His company was recruited at Ebensburg, Pa.; organized at Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 15, 1864; mustered into the U. S. service for one year; served until the close of the war. His regiment belonged to the 1st Brigade, 3d Division, 3d Army Corps.

At the battle of Petersburg, April 2, 1865, he was run over and trampled upon, receiving injuries from which he never recovered — was in active service all the time.

After his return from the army he engaged in the cooper's trade at Ebensburg, but his health failing he tried farming for several years with his father, at Jackson, Pa. In 1873 he removed to Macon Co., Mo., where he continued farming, making a brave struggle to keep his family above want. In 1876 he removed to Shelby Co., Mo. (near Hager's Grove); but from this time until his death, which took place July 7, 1881, his broken health prevented his performing much active labor, and it was only through the liberality of friends that he and his family were kept from actual want.

He had applied for a pension years before, but the commissioner of pensions was so long in deciding that Mr. Stiles was a "deserving subject," that he never received any benefit from it. Since his death his widow has been allowed $8, and each child under 16 years of age $2, per month. Mr. Stiles was an earnest Christian. In early life he became a member of the Meth. Epis. church. He was superintendent of the Sunday-school at Jackson, for some time. Through all his adversity he trusted in God, and died in the full assurance of hope of eternal life beyond the grave. His death took place at Hager's Grove, Mo., and there his family still reside (1884).

Children:

1332. I. Linford S.[8], b. Apr. 3, 1865, at Ebensburg, Pa.

1362. Capt. Henry G.[8] Stiles [1129] (Dr. Joseph N.[7], Joseph[6], Nahum[6], Lt. Levi[4], Jacob[3], Timothy[2], Robert[1]), was born at South Strafford, Vt., Feb. 27, 1842, his father being at that time a practicing physician at that place. When Henry was about 10 years old his parents rem. to New York city, remaining there until 1855, when they rem. to Windsor, Vt. At W. Henry graduated at the High School, and afterward spent 2 years at the Academy at Meriden, N. H. In the winter of 1859–60, he taught a district school at Cornish, N. H., and at its close he commenced work at the Armory at Windsor, Vt., which was at that time manufacturing guns for the British Government. He continued at this business until Aug., 1862, when he enlisted for 3 years as a private in Co. H, 10th Vermont Vols. On the organization of the Company he was at once chosen 1st Sergt., and subsequently received other promotions, as follows:—

Sergt. Major, March 24, 1864; 2nd Lieut. Co. G, June 6, 1864; 1st Lieut. Co. E, Feb. 9, 1865; Capt. Co. E, May 11, 1865.

The Adjutant of the Regt. having been wounded the day the lines were broken before Petersburg, Va., Lieut. Stiles became acting Adjutant until he was promoted to Capt. On the 1st day of June, 1864, he was taken prisoner at Cold Harbor, Va. He was first carried to Libby Prison at Richmond, Va.; kept there until June 8, and then removed to Andersonville, Ga., arriving June 16. Here he remained until the following Sept., when he was temporarily removed to Savannah, while the new "prison pen" was being built at A. It was completed about the last of Oct., and he was then returned to Andersonville, and there kept until exchanged, Nov. 19, 1864. Capt. Stiles says of his condition when released from Andersonville, "I was much reduced in flesh from exposure and sickness; weighing but 87 lbs. four weeks after I was let out of prison." He never missed an engagement while with his Regt. He was mustered out of service June 29, 1865, at Burlington, Vt.

Capt. Stiles was appointed Asst. Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives at Montpelier, Vt., for the session of 1865, after that he was employed by the Vt. Central R. R. Co., at Bellows Falls until Feb., 1866, when he went to Cincinnati, Ohio, to engage in business for himself, but the venture proving a failure he again took to "railroading," this time with the O. & M. R. R., remaining until Sept., 1868, when he took the position of agent of the Cin., Hamilton & Dayton R. R. Co., at Indianapolis, which he still holds (Dec., 1884). Capt. Stiles m. Sept. 19, 1867, Susan A. (b. at Windsor, Vt., Oct. 31, 1843) (dau. of Thomas A. and Adeline) Ensworth, of Windsor, Vt.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT STILES THE EMIGRANT IN THE LINE OF HIS SON SAMUEL.

FAMILY 2.

17. Samuel[2] Stiles [16] (Robert[1]), was born at Rowley village [afterward called Boxford], Mass., May 21, 1682; m. Elizabeth Cary, May 2, 1703* (Boxford Records; also, Perley's Hist. of Boxford, p. 28).

---

* Perley, in his History of Boxford, says that Elizabeth Cary, who m. Samuel Stiles, was probably the dau. of Arthur, who was living at Boxford, before 1677. Nothing is known of his previous history.

By his wife Sarah (from Ipswich) he had several children, of whom the following are on the Boxford Town Records: I. Dau., b. Jan., 1702–3; II. John, b. Oct., 1705; III. Keziah, b. Apr. 7, 17—; IV. Stephen, b. Oct. 6, 171–.

[If Elizabeth Cary was of this family, she must have been many years older than her brothers and sisters.

Elizabeth Cary was bapt. in the First Church of Boxford, July 19, 1703, over two months after the date of the m. of Samuel Stiles. Here is a discrepancy which we cannot explain, though it may be due to some mistake in copying.—M. S. P. G.]

"Goodwife Cary was baptized in the First Ch., Mch. 31, 1706. In 1691 the town voted not to tax him [Arthur Cary]. In 1703 his wife asked alms of the selectmen, who immediately warned her to depart out of the town to the place of her former residence [Ipswich], the selectmen not allowing her to reside in our town.

"Moses Taylor, the constable at the time, Oct. 22, 1703, warned her to leave the town, but it seems she still remained here for some years afterward; perhaps, Ipswich assisted her where she was. In the warrant she is called a 'poor body.'" It is said she was a widow in 1725 (Perley's Hist. of Boxford, Mass.).

After May 14, 1714, the date of the baptism of the 6th child of Samuel and Elizabeth (Cary) Stiles, Samuel Stiles does not appear to be again referred to in the Boxford Records — we, therefore, conclude that he as well as his brother, Robert Jr., must have joined the tide of emigrants from Massachusetts, who settled in Connecticut early in the last century.

The Land Records of Lebanon, Conn., show that Robert Stiles of Boxford, Mass., purchased land in Lebanon in 1718, and the Records at Windham, Conn., prove that Moses and Samuel Stiles — undoubtedly sons of Samuel and Elizabeth (Cary) Stiles, were — the one in 1730, and the other in 1739, owners of land in that place. There is also in Windham, the record of the marriage in 1735 of Samuel Stiles and Huldah Durkee [or Durgey], and the births of their 10 children, the record covering a period of more than 20 years. Isaac Stiles, another son of Samuel (we feel very sure), is also mentioned in the Windham Records, and, altogether, there is ample evidence that the descendants of Samuel Stiles had their headquarters at Windham for a number of years. He appears to have had a 2nd wife named Abigail Pendleton, and to have lived for a time in Rhode Island,* where his sons William, John and Israel may have been born. The time and place of his death are not known.

Children (dates of birth from Boxford, Mass., Town Records):

18. I. Moses[3], b. Feb. 10, 1704–5; bapt. May, 1705. Family 3.

* Ely (or Eli) Stiles of Wilton, N. Y., wrote Dr. H. R. Stiles, about 1857, that his (Eli's) ancestor married Abigail Pendleton; lived for a time in Rhode Island, and had 3 sons, viz.: (1) William, who died in Conn. during the Revolutionary War; (2) John (who was the grandfather of Eli Stiles, who furnished a record of John's descendants); (3) Israel.

We have long been convinced that the ancestor of Eli Stiles was Samuel[2] of Boxford, but, until within a very short time, it has not seemed possible that Samuel[2] could have been the father of William and Israel, mentioned by Eli. After much study of the subject, however, we have at last become satisfied that late in life Samuel married Abigail Pendleton, and by her had these 3 sons: William, John and Israel.—M. S. P. G., Lynn, Feb. 22, 1887.

Later Note.—We have learned from Mr. Chas. H. Pendleton of Westerly, R. I., that Caleb Pendleton of Stonington, Conn. (which town is situated next to Windham Co., Conn.), had a dau. named Abigail, born Dec. 9, 1717.

To be sure this Abigail was younger than the youngest child of Samuel[2] Stiles by Elizabeth Cary, but as it is our theory that he married the 2nd time late in life, we see no reason why he may not have married this dau. of Caleb Pendleton of Stonington.—M. S. P. G., Aug., 1887.

19. II. Tabitha[3], b. July 4, 1706; bapt. Aug., 1706.
20. III. Isaac[3], b. May 26, 1708; bapt. May 30, 1708; m. Mary Bradley. Family 4.
21. IV. Elizabeth[3], b. June 8, 1710; bapt. 1st Sabbath, July, 1710.
22. V. Samuel[3], b. Mch. 19, 1712; bapt. June 18, 1712; m. Huldah Durkee (or Durgey). Family 5.
23. VI. Robert[3], b. Apr. 6, 1714; bapt. May 14, 1714. "Robert Styles m. 1743, Hannah Bradley, who was b. 1718, in Tolland, Conn." [This item was found by Royal Paine Esq., in one of the Vols. of the N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., but which one we could not make out from his mem.—M. S. P. G.] Family 6.

Children of —— and Abigail (Pendelton) Stiles (from record of Eli Stiles):

24. VII. William[3], d. in Conn. during the Revolutionary War.
25. VIII. John[3]; m. Lucy Johnson. Family 7.
26. IX. Israel[3]; m. Anna Johnson or Johnston. Family 8.

Family 3.

27. Moses[3] Stiles [18] (Samuel[2], Robert[1]), was born in Boxford, Mass., Feb. 10, 1704–5; m. Phebe ——. [Our authority for giving Phebe as the name of Moses Stiles' wife, will be found in the account of Reuben Stiles of this family, see page 464.]

The following transcripts of deeds from the Land Records of Windham, Conn., were furnished by John D. Wheeler, Esq., Town Clerk of Willimantic (a district of Windham):

"Moses Stiles of Windham, County of Windham and Colony of Connecticut in New England, Deeded to John Ayers of Stonington for thirty-five pounds 'all that my farm lying and being in the township of Windham, and is the second hundred acre lot, &c.'

"'Sold all the above excepting twenty acres of the West End which I formerly sold to John Frame.'

There is nothing that we can find to show when Moses Stiles came into possession of his land at Windham, but it is probable that he removed to Ashford, in the same county, after disposing of it, for the Land Records of Ashford show that Moses Stiles had land deeded to him there, in 1735.

We conclude that he was living in 1767, as the record of a land transaction at Lyndborough, N. H., in 1767, mentions his son Moses as "Moses Stiles the younger," which would seem to indicate that Moses the elder was then living.

No record of his family has been discovered, but from information gathered from various sources we have constructed a record in accordance with the probabilities of the case, both as to the persons themselves and the order in which they should be placed.

Children (probably all born in Conn.):

28. I. Moses[4]* Jr., m. Sarah. Family 9.
29. II. John[4], b. about 1736; m. Susannah Chamberlain. Family 10.
30. III. Samuel[4]; in 1778 Samuel Stiles was collector of taxes at Bennington, N. H.
31. IV. Asahel[4]; m. Sarah Dutton. Family 11.
32. V. Reuben[4]. "Reuben Stiles, son of Moses Stiles and Pheoby, his wife, born June 13, 1749; died Sept. 7, 1773" (Lyndeborough, N. H., Town Records).

Farmers and Moore's Historical Colls. (vol. 1, p. 67) contains the following:

"Reuben Stiles was one of those killed Sept. 7, 1773, by the breaking of a beam, and falling of the frame of the second meeting-house in Wilton, N. H. The killed and wounded numbered 53; 2 died the next day."

---

* Before the publication of the first edition of "The Massachusetts Family of Stiles," the author of it (Dr. H. R. Stiles) received from Esq. David Stiles, of Temple, N. H., the following statement: "I had knowledge [Esq. S. was born in 1779, and doubtless knew what he was telling*] of 3 brothers who came from some part of Connecticut to Lyndeborough, N. H., namely: Moses, John and Samuel Stiles. Moses had Moses Jr., Aaron and Sarah." Fortunately Lyndeborough records give the births of the children of Moses Stiles Jr. and Sarah his wife, and among them are Sarah, Moses and Aaron. Thus we are enabled to identify the Moses who came with his brothers John and Samuel from Conn. as the Moses Jr. of the Lyndeborough Records. There can be no reasonable question in the matter. —M. S. P. G.

*Esq. S. had lived at some time in his life at Lyndeborough we believe.

A. B. Stiles of East Randolph, Vt., furnished (in 1857) the following additional particulars: "A Stiles was the first man killed. He jumped and struck the ground upon his feet, and was walking away unhurt, when a falling stick of timber struck him on the head and killed him instantly. There were several more killed and wounded, and crying for water, when my grandfather (John Stiles), running to a spring about 20 rods distant where there was a barrel filled with water, caught it up, carried it to the spot, and, having set it down, smote the head in with his fist. I mention this merely to show that the old Stileses were stout; but every generation grows weaker and wiser." [The above story was repeated by Mr. Stiles in 1887.]

It may seem too bad to spoil a good story, but we have it from another grandson of John Stiles, that John Stiles was at home in Lyndeborough at the time of the accident. "He had a presentiment," says Mr. Stiles, "that something had happened to his brother. He got up and opened the door about the time the horse (of the messenger who brought the news) stopped, and said: 'Is my brother dead?'"

33. VI. Aaron[4]. This name is given on the authority of Mr. Horace A. Stiles of Augusta, Wis., who includes Aaron in the list of brothers of John Stiles, his grandfather. We have found no account of him.

Remarks. — After long and patient investigation, we submit the foregoing arrangement of the family record of Moses[3] Stiles, feeling confident that it is correct in its most important features. As we have already said, we are not sure as to the order of births, but that is immaterial.

We found our greatest difficulty in endeavoring to harmonize conflicting statements; or, rather, to bring family tradition into agreement with public records and other authenticated facts. In a number of instances this proved impossible. For example: We are told by one gentleman that his grandfather, John Stiles, an early settler at Lyndeborough, N. H., who had brothers named Moses, Samuel, Asahel, Aaron and Reuben (the latter killed at the Wilton disaster Sept. 7, 1773), was the son of Aaron and Sarah (Cram) Stiles. He says he has known this for a fact ever since he was a child, when he was a great deal with his grandfather. He is very positive in his assertions, and says he cannot be mistaken, although his grandfather died when he himself was about 9 years old. In vain we quote to him from public records that "Moses Stiles Jr." was of Lyndeborough in 1763; that "Moses Stiles the younger" was of the same place in 1767; that "Moses Stiles Jr." and Sarah, his wife, had Sarah, Moses and Aaron (and other younger children), as Esquire David Stiles stated that the Moses he knew of had; and finally, that Reuben, whose death occurred Sept. 7, 1773, was the son of Moses and Pheoby, his wife, if the record can be trusted. He refuses to yield the point, although his own statements relative to his grandfather's brother Moses prove very conclusively that he was really the Moses Jr. of the records.

Mr. ——— has evidently got facts and traditions confused in his recollections of his youthful days.

We think we could explain how it happens that he has fixed upon Aaron as the name of his great-grandfather Stiles, but this is hardly the place to do so. We must, therefore, leave the matter, hoping that he and those who, seeing with his eyes, share his belief, may yet accept our conclusions. — M. S. P. Guild.

Family 4.

34. Isaac[3] Stiles [20] (Samuel[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., May 26, 1708; bapt. May 30, 1708 (Boxford Church and Town Records); m. Mary Bradley,* April 17, 1751 (Windham, Conn., Records). In Miss Ellen D. Larned's "History of Windham County, Conn." (vol. i, p. 552), there is an allusion to Isaac Stiles, as follows: "Jonathan Burnap, Isaac Stiles, Seth Meacham, and Jonathan Rogers, all of Windham, were also allowed to join Canada Society in 1753."

* George Bradley, whose mar. to Hannah Brown, May 7, 1717, is recorded at Tolland, Conn., had a dau. Mary, b. April 11, 1721. She, undoubtedly, was the same who mar. Isaac Stiles. She had a sister, Hannah, probably the same who mar. Isaac Stiles' bro. Robert. It will be seen that the two daus. of Isaac and Mary Stiles bear the names Mary and Hannah.

Children (from Windham Records):
35. I. Mary[4], b. June 9, 1752.
36. II. Hannah[4], b. Nov. 23, 1754.

FAMILY 5.

37. Samuel[3] Stiles [22] (Samuel[2], Robert[1]), was born at Boxford, Mass., March 19, 1712; bapt. June 18, 1712 (Boxford Church and Town Records); m. Huldah Durgey,* Oct. 7, 1735 (Windham, Conn., Records).

---

*About 1857, Dr. H. R. Stiles was furnished by William Weaver Esq., of Willimantic, Conn., with a copy of the record of mar. of Samuel Stiles and Huldah Durkee, with the births of their children, from the records of Windham, Conn. In 1885, the author of this work received a copy of the same records from the town clerk of Willimantic, who spelled the name Durgey. There is no doubt that the name was the same as that now known as Durkee.

Copy of record sent by John D. Wheeler, town clerk of Willimantic, Conn., August 24, 1885:

"The marriage of Samuel Stiles with Huldah Durgey, his wife, was on October the 7th, A. D., 1735.

"Huldah Stiles, the daughter of Samuel Stiles, by Huldah, his wife, was born September 18th, 1738." [In the 1738, the birth of the daughter, there was some scratch or blur over the 8, but carried out 1738 in the record, undoubtedly a mistake.]

Samuel Stiles, the son of, etc. [the form of words is repeated in every instance, and may be omitted], was born November 6, 1738.

William, b. July 31, 1755."
Lucy, b. Oct. 22, 1758.

Account by Seth Stiles of Willington, Conn., from The 1st Ed. Mass. Fam. of Stiles:

"William Stiles was born at Rehoboth, R. I.; rem. to Hampton, Conn., and there married Rachel Dugay; from thence he moved to Willington, Conn., where he died. His wife died at Wales, Vt., æ. 104 years.

"Children: Gould, Asaph, Huldah, Rachel, Mehitable, Isaac." On comparing this list of the children of William Stiles and Rachel Dugay, with the record of the children of Samuel Stiles and Huldah Durgey, in the Windham, Conn., Records (at Willimantic, Conn.), there can be no doubt that both refer to the same family. It is quite likely that Seth Stiles' account was, as Dr. Stiles suggested in his first edition of the Massachusetts Family of Stiles — "to some extent traditional;" and so, whenever any part of his account conflicts with the records, we must accept the latter, as being more authentic. We have means of knowing that Samuel Stiles' son Gould lived for years at Wells, Vt.; also, that he died there. In all probability his mother died at his house. At all events, we find no such place as Wales in Vermont.—M. S. P. G.

FAMILY 7.

53. John[3] Stiles [25] (Samuel[2], Robert[1]).

It has been claimed by some of the descendants of John Stiles, that he was born in Rhode Island, which may be true, for his parents probably lived there for a time.

He married Lucy Johnson, perhaps in Conn. His grandson, Eli Stiles, of Wilton, N. Y., stated (in 1857) that John Stiles emigrated to N. Y. about the close of the Revolutionary War, but French's Gazetteer of N. Y., says "John Stiles settled in Wilton, Saratoga Co., N. Y., in 1775." William Stiles, of

* Exact copy of Tolland, Conn., Record:

"Robert Stiles [The author has several copies of this item and every one excepting this, has given 'Styles.'—M. S. P. G., July 27, 1888] & Hannah Bradley were married the 30th day of June A D. 1743

"Tabitha the Daughter of Robert Stiles was born July the 13th 1745

"John the Son of Robert Stiles and Hannah his wife was born September the 15th Day A. D. 1749."

† According to the town records of Tolland, Conn. [this item was obtained by Wm. H. Upton Esq., of Walla Walla, Wash.], George Bradley and Hannah Brown were married May 7, 1717. They had several children, including:

Hannah, b. Dec. 8, 1719.
Mary, b. April 11, 1721.

The same records also have the marriage of Hannah Bradley to Robert Styles June 30, 1743. These latter persons were undoubtedly Robert[3] Stiles (Samuel[2], Robert[1]), and Hannah, dau. of George Bradley and Hannah Brown.

‡ The descendants of John Stiles state that he had a sister Deborah who married an Eaton, that John and Deborah were the only children of their parents. If this is true, Tabitha must have died young, or, may it not be possible that the sister's name was Tabitha instead of Deborah?

New York city, also a descendant, says that he has read that a Perry family was the first to preempt and settle in Wilton, Saratoga Co., N. Y., then called Northumberland, and John Stiles was the second man to stop among the wild beasts and savages of that region.

He was killed by the fall of a tree, 1785.

Children (the order in which they are given is probably incorrect):

55. II. John[4] Jr., b. 1770. [A nephew of John Stiles Jr. says he visited at the home of his cousin (a son of John Jr.) in Ill. in 1844, and there met his uncle John, and remembers hearing him say that he was 74 years old at that time, which showed that he was born in 1770. The nephew is positive too, that one or two sisters of John Jr. were older than himself.] He m. Phebe Norton. Family 16.

FAMILY 9.

85. Moses[4] Stiles Jr. [28] (Moses[3], Samuel[2], Robert[1]), on the 28th of June, 1763, signed a petition for a charter for the town of Lyndeborough, N. H. (N. H. Provincial and State Papers, vol. 9, p. 541). Moses Stiles, the younger, of Lyndeborough, N. H., bought land in L. of John Kidder in 1767 (from Records of the Register of Deeds, Exeter, N. H.).

Moses Stiles, with others of Lyndeborough, petitioned Aug., 1786, for the appointment of Nehemiah Rand as magistrate (N. H. Town Papers, vol. xii, p. 524).

At the time Dr. H. R. Stiles was collecting the material for the 1st edition of the Mass. Family of Stiles, Esq. David Stiles of Temple (which joins Lyndeborough), N. H., wrote him that he "had knowledge that 3 brothers named Moses, John and Samuel Stiles from some part of Connecticut, came to Lyndeborough. Moses had Moses Jr., Aaron and Sarah." It is from the names of these children of Moses Stiles the settler, from Conn., that we are able to identify him with the Moses Stiles Jr. of Lyndeborough, N. H., who had a wife named Sarah, and the following Children (recorded at Lyndeborough, N. H.):

92. VII. Samuel[5], b. Apr. 19, 1779; m. Betsey Cram at Tunbridge, Vt., it is said. He removed from Tunbridge to Warren, Vt., in 1827, where he had the year before leased a small farm of Theophilus Hanks. He d. at Warren at the age of 75 or thereabouts. His widow survived him several years. They never had any children, but adopted a boy who was known as William Stiles, and is said to have married a lady of Randolph, Vt. He is now (1883) dead, and his widow probably is living in Lowell, Mass.

Family 10.

93. John[4] Stiles [29] (Moses[3], Samuel[2], Robert[1]), was born in the State of Conn. about 1736.* He was one of the early settlers of Lyndeborough, N. H.; m. Susannah Chamberlain when he was between 30 and 40 years of age. His wife was 12 years younger than himself. In 1753, John Stiles of Lyndeborough, N. H., signed a petition remonstrating against the division of the town (N. H. Prov. Papers, vol. xii, p. 313).

John Stiles died about 1820, æ. 84, either at Greenfield, N. H., or Winhall, Vt.

*Although the author considers that the ancestry of John Stiles is well established, it is only fair to state that some of his descendants—among them Mr. H. A. Stiles, of Augusta, Wis.—believe that the names of the parents of John Stiles were Aaron and Sarah (Cram) Stiles. Mr. H. A. Stiles says he has known this fact from childhood, and cannot be mistaken; but he gives no data to support his statement, while on the other hand, various public records furnish evidence that he is mistaken.—M. We are indebted for the record of the families of the children of Asahel[4] Stiles to the late Abram Stiles of Pendleton,

* Since the above was received we have been informed that Mrs. Rhoda Martin died at Pleasant township, but was buried at Miami.

Ore., a grandson of Asahel[4]. He wrote: "The posterity of Asahel Stiles were all farmers. They were what were called the 'second-class settlers' of a new country. Nearly every one of his children and grandchildren, and some of the younger generation, settled on a farm. Some who married into the family had trades, at which they worked, while at the same time they cared for their farms. Probably all of the older generation, at least, owned land."

FAMILY 13.

169. Gould[4] Stiles [46] (Samuel[3], Samuel[2], Robert[1]), was born Mch. 12, 1750 (his birth is recorded at Windham, Conn.); m. (1) Delight Boughton, Feb. 7, 1770; (2) Delia Clarke of Ashford, Conn.; (3) Anna ——.

"Gould Stiles enlisted at Willington, Conn. for 6 mos., in June, 1776, with Capt. Parker in Col. Sage's Conn. Regt., going to N. Y. city, where landing from vessels July 8, 1776, and where remaining until the Americans commenced their retreat to White Plains, and after the battle at that place (Oct. 28, 1776) he was ordered to Crum Pond and discharged. In May, 1777, he was drafted for a tour of service at New London, in Capt. Amidon's Co., in Col. Chapman's Regt., as guard to the coast. In order that one-half of the Regt. might be dismissed, a ballot was had, and on the ballots were inscribed the words 'go' and 'stay' equally divided in number, and those drawing 'go' were discharged, of which Stiles was one to go, after an absence of one month" (Pension Office Records, Washington, D. C.).

He was living April, 1832, at Middletown, Rutland Co., Vt., as appears from his application for a pension, which seems to have been granted.

He died at Wells, Vt., and it is said that some years previous to his death, he weighed a little over 350 pounds (letter to the editor of the 1st edition of the Mass. Fam. of Stiles). Feb. 10, 1840 (or 1846), Gould Stiles Jr. was administrator on estate of Gould Stiles of Wells, Vt., which was valued at $257.48; total claims, $850.00; Bacchus Stiles claims $1.50 (Prob. Rec., Rutland, Vt., vol. 18.)

The town clerk of Wells, Vt., furnished the following account: "The first record of any Stiles [in Wells] is of Gould Stiles, appearing as grantee in a deed of land bearing date of July 24, 1804, and by Phillip Allen, grantor of Middletown, Vt., reading thus: 'For the consideration of Two Thousand Dollars received to my full satisfaction, of Gould Stiles of Cambridge in the County of Washington State of New York, have given, granted &c &c certain lands situated in Wells.'"

"Jan. 25, 1806, Gould Stiles bought land again, his name appearing in the deed as Gould Stiles of Middletown in the County of Rutland State of Vermont."

"Oct 27, 1823, a deed, 'know all men by these presents, that I, Gould Stiles of Middletown, County of Rutland, State of Vermont, in consideration of love and good will, give to my son, Gould Stiles Jr. of Wells, County and State aforesaid, all my right title and interest to about 2 acres of land, by quit-claim deed in this town.' "

"Mch. 17, 1827, Gould Stiles 'for love and good will' to his son, Gould Jr., deeds a large land property, the son giving back a life lease of the same to his 'honoured father, and to his Anna, while she remained the widow of Gould Sr.,' for and during the end and term of their natural lives."

"Then follow numerous deeds and conveyances by each of the two Gould Stiles' from and to each other, and to and from others, showing them to have been quite deeply interested in land." * * * "Evidently Gould Stiles lived in this town after coming from Cambridge, N. Y., but later in Middletown; I have made inquiry of old people here who tell me that they well remember the Stiles family, and relatives by marriage and blood live here and in Poultney, and other towns of the county."

* Extract from a letter of D. L. Stiles to the author of the 1st edition of The Massachusetts Family of Stiles:

"It is pleasant to trace back our descent to an honorable and illustrious ancestry, but what we are now is of far more consequence to each of us. And, if we can trace our relationship to Jesus Christ, and feel that He is our Elder Brother and our Saviour both here and in the world to come; that we are joint heirs with Him to the inheritance prepared by our Heavenly Father for all that will come to Him through His dear Son, it will matter but little who was our great great great great-grandfather. With my best wishes for the success of your enterprise, I remain," etc.

Like most of his race Mr. Stiles was a tiller of the soil, "although," he says, "I made potash and pearlash, and run a sorghum mill, more or less, for 18 years. In war times would run the mill for 6 weeks, often making from 100 to 200 gallons per day, which sold for 50 cents per gallon."

In his youth, Mr. Stiles had few educational advantages; never attended a free school in his life, or any school at all, in fact, excepting for a very short time, but he evidently possessed very good natural abilities, and a remarkable memory, which he retained to the end of his life. To his enterprise and interest in the history of his own branch of the Stiles family we are indebted for a large portion of the facts concerning it that are found in this work. He was living in 1887 with his daughter, Mrs. Reynolds, at Pendleton, Ore. He died May 4, 1888, at the home of his son in Mt. Ayr, Iowa, after an illness of 4 weeks. He left 40 grandchildren and 14 gr. grand children.

Miscellaneous.

The persons named in the following list belonged, without any doubt, to the Mass. Stiles' Family, although it has been found impossible to place them.

Elizabeth Stiles and Samuel Lacy; m. Oct. 5, 1771 (Middleton, Mass., Records).

Mary Stiles and Samuel Berry; m. Apr. 22, 1779 (Ibid.).

Phebe Stiles and Samuel White; m. Feb. 5, 1817 (Ibid.).

John Stiles and Rebecca Peabody (b. June 5, 1745); m. either Nov. 10 or Dec. 20, 1769 (Boxford, Mass., Records).

The above John Stiles is said to have died at Boxford, in 1804, aged 54. Mrs. Rebecca (Peabody) Stiles died at B., Jan., 1817, aged 72 (Perley's Hist. of Boxford).

Samuel Stiles and Elizabeth Paine; m. at Marblehead, Mass., Nov. 14, 1813.

Elizabeth Stiles and Joseph Butman Jr.; m. at Marblehead, Mass., Apr. 28, 1793 (Marblehead Records).

Samuel Stiles of Boxford, Mass., m. Betty Stickney Warren. That both were dead in 1835, is proved by the following: "Mehitable, widow of Ancil Stickney, in will dated Sept. 19, 1835, orders a pair of gravestones or a double stone to be procured and set up to the memory of Samuel Stiles and his wife (her husband's niece and her husband)" (Stickney Geneal., p. 249).

Descendants of Wm. Stiles of Dover, N. H.

According to the New Hampshire Gazetteer for 1823, "Somersworth (formerly a part of Dover), N. H., was settled between 1650 and 1700 by William Wentworth, John Hall, William Stiles and others."

There is evidence that William Wentworth was of Dover as early as 1650, but we find nothing that proves William Stiles to have been a resident of the place previous to 1715. April 25, 1715, the selectmen of Dover made a list of "the Inhabitanes that are nerer ye new metin house then ye Old Cocheco Pint" (N. H. Provincial papers, vol. xi, p. 508), and the name of William Stiles is on that list. We do find, however, that the births of 6 children of "William Stiles and Deborah, his wife," are recorded at Dover, the date of the first being 1702, and the last 1710; but there is nothing to indicate where the births occurred, for the fact of their being recorded at Dover cannot be considered positive evidence of their having taken place there. We have taken pains to ascertain whether the births were all entered at one time, or at intervals, as would be likely to be the case at the present time, and find that "they are entered in one place and in one hand." "The record certainly looks as though the births had been handed in to the town clerk on one piece of paper by the father, and as if it was done after the birth of the last child; but how soon after no one can tell" (from a letter of Dr. John R. Ham of Dover, who, himself a descendant of William Stiles, kindly looked up the matter).

It is not improbable that William Stiles was an emigrant from some part of England.* We have not found the least evidence of any relationship between him and the other two New England Stiles families.

The first positive evidence that we have discovered connecting William Stiles with Dover is the finding his name in a list made by the selectmen of Dover, April 25, 1715: "The Inhabitanes that are nerer ye new metin house then ye Old Cocheco Pint" (N. H. Provincial papers, vol. xi, p. 508).

* There is a tradition among certain descendants of William Stiles of Dover, N. H., that he was one of three brothers who emigrated from Wales, but Dr. H. R. Stiles has shown conclusively that Stiles is an English name.

In 1720 William Stiles and Company had some sort of controversy with Col. Waldron, and the proceedings in the case are recorded in the provincial papers, as follows:

(Vol. III, p. 778.) "Journal of Council and Assembly at a Gen. Assem., held at Portsmouth by ad. April 30, 1720 (p. 152).

"A petition of William Stiles & Comp^{y} relating to an appeal pending between them, appel^{ts} and Richd Waldron Esq. Appellee, read at ye board and sent down."

(Vol. III, p. 782.) "In Council, May 25, 1720.

"The petition of Robert Auchmuty in behalf of Wm. Stiles & Comp^{a}, to bring forward an appeal agst Col. Waldron (p. 155) before the Govr & Council, read and sent down to ye house of represent^{s} by Thomas Westbrook Esq., and ordered that the said Col. Waldron be notifyed of said petition, and to give his attendance at the Council board tomorrow at ten o'clock before noon."

(Vol. III, p. 785.) "May 26, In Council.

"Mr. Auchmuty appeared at the board and prayed to be heard upon his petition, preferred yesterday in behalf of Wm. Stiles and Comp^{a}.

"Ordered, That the hearing upon said petition be suspended till October next."

(Vol. III, p. 791.) "Same Aug. 23, 1720. The petition of Wm. Stiles and company, praying an act may be passed to enable them to bring forward an appeal agst Col. Waldron wch was preferred in May last, and ye consideration thereof suspended, was again read at ye board and sent to the house by the clerk of ye council."

(Vol. III, p. 792.) "Aug. 26. Voted that the petitioners (Wm. Stiles and Comp.) may be granted a hearing before the Governor and Coun. provided that they pay all former charges, and that a committee from both houses be chosen to form an act accordingly."

(Vol. III, p. 795.) "A message to the board with the following vote: Voted that Col. Wear and Capt. Greenough be a Committee from this house to joyne with such of the upper house to form a bill to enable William Stiles and Comp^{a} of Cocheco Point to bring forward their action of appeal before the Govr and Council."

About the year 1720, William Stiles bought 20 acres of land of Ephraim Libbey. The land lay at Cocheco Point (Prov. Papers, vol. ix, p. 155).

In 1729, William Styles and Samuel Styles, of Dover, sign a petition relating to "frauds and forgeries."

In 1733, when the town of Dover divided the common lands among the inhabitants, William Stiles received one full share, and Samuel Stiles one-third of one full share (Prov. Papers, vol. ix, p. 162.)

Aug. 3, 1737, William Stiles, Blacksmith of Somersworth, Dover, quitclaims to his loving son in Law, James Kielle of Dover, a tract of land.

In 1738, William Stiles Senior, of Dover, sells land to Benjamin Tebbets, of Rochester. (The last two items are from the Probate Records, at Exeter, N. H.)

The estate of Willam Stiles, who died just prior to July 30, 1740, was settled by Wm. Stiles Jr., who returned an inventory of £379. Mrs. Deborah Stiles died within a few weeks of her husband, as the following shows: "Nov. 25, 1741. William Stiles, Administrator, rendered an account of administration of his father's estate, and in said acct. he charges for money paid out on account of his mother's sickness and funeral. She (the wife of William) being sick for a few weeks before his father's death, and said sickness continuing for some weeks after his father's death, in all her sickness was two months duration" (from Probate Records, at Exeter, N. H.).

Note of Acknowledgement.

We are under very great obligation to Dr. John P. Ham, of Dover, N. H., for valuable assistance in obtaining information relating to William Stiles and his descendants. Our material from the Probate Records was all furnished by him, also the entire record given below of James and Deborah (Stiles) Kielles descendants and other valuable matter besides.—AUTHOR.

years (b. Feb. 27, 1722), but in the errata of that work, a correction is found in which "Lydia" is substituted for "Tryphenia."] The N. H. Hist. Coll., for 1827 (p. 32), repeats the error of the Gazetteer, and so also does Dea. Daniel Secomb in "N. H. Centenarians," which was published in 1877, at Concord, N. H.

William Stiles Jr. was a blacksmith — and probably spent his life, with the exception of a few years, in that part of Dover which afterward became Somersworth, and is now included in the town of Rollinsford. He died at Rollinsford (according to the statement of Moses Stiles of South Berwick, Me.). He appears to have been interested in, and for a few years an inhabitant of, the neighboring town of Rochester, for, on Feb. 6, 1732–3, William Stiles Jr., of Dover, signs a petition that Rochester may be made a township (Provincial Papers, N. H., vol. ix, p. 169). And it is found that when in 1733 the town of Dover divided the common lands among the inhabitants, William Stiles Jr. is not among those who received shares of the land, although his father and brother received portions of it. Dr. Ham says: "Probably the reason for this was, that he was at the time an inhabitant of Rochester." He belonged to Rochester in 1736, for a Petition of the Inhabitants of Rochester, for "Minute Men," dated April 29, 1736, has the name of William Stiles among the signers. (See Prov. Papers, vol. ix, p. 723.) He was back at Dover, however, by 1740, for the Probate Records at Exeter, N. H., show that on "30 July 1740, William Stiles, blacksmith, of Dover, was granted a letter of administration on the estate of his father, William Stiles, also blacksmith of Dover; also, Aug. 12, 1740, William Stiles returned an inventory of £379; also, Nov. 25, 1741, William Stiles, administrator, rendered an account of administration of his father's estate, and in said acct. he charges for money paid out on account of his mother's sickness and funeral; she [his mother] being sick for a few weeks before his father's death, and the said sickness continuing for some weeks after his father's death, in all her sickness was two months in duration." (The above, from the Probate Records at Exeter, was obtained by Dr. J. R. Ham of Dover.)

July 29, 1740, William Stiles of Dover was a member of Corp. Trustram Coffin's Troop of Horse (Prov. Papers, vol. ix, p. 176).

"William Stiles of Somersworth, had by his second wife Lydia Hanson," the following

Children: (from Master Tate's * Record of Somersworth Families):

16. I. Tryphenia[3], b. Sept. 11, 1739; had two illegitimate children, viz:
17. i. Molly[4], b. Oct. 25, 1757.
18. ii. Joseph[4], b.
19. II. Lydia[3], b. Aug. 24, 1741.
20. III. Mercy[3], b. Feb. 22, 1743.

The following from Tate's Record doubtless refers to Lydia or Mercy above, Sarah being already married to Spencer Wentworth. "Saturday, June 2, 1770, —— Willey, wife of Samuel Willey of Tufton Town (now Tuftonborough), was delivered of a daughter named Lydia at her father's, William Stiles of Somersworth."

Dr. Ham says: "The name of the daughter is illegible, but I judge that it had 5 letters in it, whether Lydia or Mercy or Sarah, I can't tell from the record."

21. IV. Sarah[3], b. Dec. 29, 1744; m. Spencer Wentworth Jr., on Thursday, Dec. 14, 1769.
22. V. William[3], b. Dec. 9, 1747; m. Sarah Larry (or Lahhey or Leary). Family 3.
23. VI. Mary[3], b. Oct. 3, 1750 (O. S.); m. Jethro Horn of Somersworth, Nov. 19, 1771.
24. VII. Deborah[3]†, b. May 25, 1755 (N. S.). "Debby Stiles, dau. of William and Lydia Stiles died on Aug. 25, 1772" (Tate's Record).
25. VIII. Elizabeth[3], b. May 25, 1755 (N. S.).
26. IX. John[3], b. Oct. 19, 1756; m. Sally Hunt. Family 4.
27. X. Abigail[3], b. May 23, 1761.

* Master Tate was an old schoolmaster in Somersworth, from about 1730 to 1780 (Dr. J. R. Ham).

† A descendant of William Stiles says that William's dau. Deborah m. an Abbott of Ossipee, N. H., and lived and died at Ossipee; but this conflicts with the record of "Master Tate," who doubtless knew what he recorded. Possibly it was one of Deborah's sisters that married Mr. Abbott.

FAMILY 3.

28. William[3] Stiles [22] (William[2] Jr., William[1]), was born in Dover, N. H., in that part of the town which afterward became Somersworth, Dec. 9, 1747; m. (1) Aug. 20, 1772, Sarah Lahhey, or Larry, or Leary, who may have been a daughter of William Leary of Somersworth, who had a dau. Sarah.

In Master Tate's Record of Somersworth Families, the maiden name of William Stiles' wife is spelled Lahhee, which Dr. Ham thinks may have been misspelled by Tate. That it was the same name as the modern Larry (or Leary) can be easily imagined.

One William Stiles (doubtless this man), a blacksmith, lived in Rollinsford (formerly a part of Somersworth) and Ossipee, N. H. Is said to have married a Wentworth (probably as 2nd wife), and to have died at Ossipee.

Child, by Sarah —— (Tate's Record):

29. I. Frederick[4], b. Mch. 22, 1773.

[We are strongly inclined to believe that Wm. and Sarah (——) Stiles had a son named Wm., and that the following is the record of his 1st marriage. "Strafford S. S. Ossipee, Jan. 20, 1812. Then Mr. Wm. Stiles of Ossipee and Miss Avis Glover of Wolfborough were married by me.

"SAMUEL QUARLES,
"Justice of the Peace.
"Recorded by SAMUEL QUARLES,
"Town Clerk."

We may err in putting this family into this place, but, having found a family which is traced to William Stiles of Ossipee, N. H., and which evidently enough does not belong to the other branches of the Dover family, we feel constrained to make a place for it here.]

30. II. William[4]; m. Avis Glover and widow Wyman. Family 5.

By —— Wentworth (from record furnished by Joseph Stiles of South Berwick, Me.):

31. III. Isaac[4]; m. Hannah Linscott. Family 6.

Family 4.

32. John[3] Stiles [26] (William[2] Jr., William[1]), was born at Dover, N. H., Oct. 19, 1756; m. Sally Hunt of York, Me. He was a blacksmith and farmer, and both himself and his wife lived to be aged. They are buried at Rollinsford (once a part of Somersworth), N. H., on the place now occupied by their grandson, Moses Stiles.

36. IV. Deborah[4]; m. Joseph Reynolds of Dover, Aug. 13, 1829 (by Rev. Mr. Otherman). Mr. Reynolds was a farmer; both are now (1884) dead.
37. V. Abigail[4]; m. Paul Willand of Dover, 1820. He was employed in a store; both are dead; had son and dau.
38. VI. Tryphenia[4]; m. Paul Chadwick of Somersworth, a sailor; both are dead; 8 chil.
39. VII. Betsey[4]; m. Stephen Wiggin. Mr. W. formerly had charge of the iron machine shop at Great Falls, N. H.; both are dead; 2 chil.
40. VIII. Patience[4]; m. Ebenezer Stackpole, a sailor of Rollinsford; both are dead; 8 chil.

Family 5.

41. William[4] Stiles [30] (William[3], William[2] Jr., William[1]), probably was born at Somersworth, N. H.; m. (1) Jan. 20, 1813, by Samuel Quarles, Town Clerk, Avis Glover of Wolfborough, N. H., he being then of Ossipee, N. H.; m. (2) widow Wyman, who survived him.*

Children (by 2d marriage, born at Ossipee, N. H.):

42. I. William[5], b. abt. 1820; m. Elizabeth Larrabee. Family 8.

DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM STILES OF DOVER, N. H., IN THE LINE OF HIS SON SAMUEL[2].

FAMILY 2.

15. Samuel[2] Stiles [14] (William[1]), was born at Dover, N. H., Aug. 10, 1710 (Dover Records); m. at Durham, N. H., Nov. 24, 1754 (being then of Durham), by Rev. John Adams, Mary Huckins of Durham (Records of Rev. John Adams, pastor at Durham, N. H., from 1748 to 1780). Samuel Stiles was a blacksmith by trade, and lived successively at Dover, Durham, Barrington and Strafford, all in Strafford Co., N. H. In the N. H. Provincial Papers, we find the following references to Samuel Stiles:

Dec. 16, 1729, he signs a petition relating to "frauds," etc. (Prov. Pap., vol. ix, p. 162).

In 1733, when the town of Dover divided the common lands among the inhabitants, Samuel Stiles received "one-third of one full share."

At the Probate office in Exeter, N. H., Dr. J. R. Ham found records of several transactions in which Samuel Stiles was concerned, among them the following:

June 9, 1733, "Samuel Stiles, blacksmith, in Dover," sold land to James Kielle.

Mch. 8, 1756, "Samuel Stiles, blacksmith, of Durham," bought land of Robert Huckins.

Aug. 3, 1761, "Samuel Stiles, blacksmith, of Durham," bought for £1,800 a tract of 130 acres of Sam. Hanson of Durham. The land lay in the town of Barrington.

Sept. 10, 1761, "Samuel Stiles, blacksmith, of Durham," sold to Zeb Drew, his land, dwelling-house, barn and blacksmith shop in Durham. He had wife Mary who signed the deed and surrendered her right of dower in the same.

Says Dr. Ham: "This sale with the preceding purchase of 130 acres in Barrington, N. H., show that Samuel Stiles emigrated from Dover to Durham and thence to Barrington."

July 19, 1773, Samuel Stiles of Barrington signs a petition for the appointment of Joshua Foss as justice of the peace (State Papers, vol. ix, p. 151).

Samuel Stiles' death occurred under the following circumstances. He was at work in his blacksmith shop cleaning the barrel of a loaded gun, when it discharged, fatally wounding Mr. Stiles, who lived but one day after his injury. Physicians were summoned from Portsmouth, 24 miles away, who came on horseback, that being the only mode of traveling at the time. At the moment of the discharge of the gun, John Stiles, the four-year-old grandchild of Samuel Stiles was standing on the forge (incident related by John B. Stiles of South Chatham, N. H., a great-grandson of Samuel Stiles).

20. I. John[4], b. Aug. 4, 1784; m. Abigail Berry. Family 5.
21. II. Samuel[4], was, perhaps, the one who m. as 2d wife, abt. 1825, Mrs. Hepsibah (Twombly) Pillsbury, widow of Rev. Edmund P., a Calvin Baptist preacher, of Northwood, N. H., ancestor of the Messrs. Pillsbury, the well-known shoe manufacturers of N. H.

22. III. Joseph[4]; said to have lived at one time at Meredith, N. H. In 1852, Joseph Stiles and Mary Stiles Parshley were the only heirs of Samuel Stiles living in Strafford, N. H. (Pension Office Reports); there is also in the Pension Records, at Washington, the following: "Joseph Stiles, in March, 1878, of Barnstead, Merrimac Co., N. H., aged 90 years, states, that he served 17 days under Capt. Montgomery, in Sept., 1814, in N. H. Militia (4th Regt.). Since his discharge he lived 3 years in Strafford; 50 years in Gilmanton, except 2 or 3 years at Strafford; 9 years in Pittsfield, and since in Barnsted, all in N. H., and probably died between Dec. 4, 1882, and March 4, 1883."

Family 4.

23. Moses[3] Stiles [17] (Samuel[2], William[1]), was born at Barrington, N. H., probably in that part of the town that was taken to form the present town of Strafford. He m. Miss Daniels; lived at Kingston, Barnstead and Gilmanton, all in N. H.† "Moses Stiles of Kingston, was the 3d trader in succession at Barnstead" (History of Barnstead).

Children (some of them, perhaps all, b. in Gilmanton, N. H.)

24. I. Deborah[4], b. 1787; m. 1809, Joel Clark of Montville, Me. [then called "Montville Plantation"];

* Mr. William Clark of Montville, Me., says that his grandfather, Moses Stiles, had 8 children, and he gives the names of William and James in his list of the said children, but does not mention Samuel; while Mr. Geo. H. Stiles of Muscatine, Iowa, who is also a grandson of Moses — mentions Samuel, but omits William and James. We think the list of Mr. Geo. H. Stiles must be the correct one.—Author.

† The following are believed to be in some way connected with the family of Moses[3] Stiles:

"Miss Sally Stiles of Gilmanton, N. H., was m. Jan. 9, 1803, to Jonathan Clough Jr., of G., by Elder Walter Powers" (Gilmanton Records). Also: "Hannah Stiles of Alton, N. H., was m. Jan. 1, 1810, to Jonathan Dudley of A., by Elder H. D. Buzzell" (Gilmanton Records).

APPENDIX No. I.

History and Antiquities of the English Family of Stylles, Stylle and Stiles.

By HENRY R. STILES, A. M., M. D.

Although the name of Stile, Style or Stiles appears among the gentry in several of the eastern and south-eastern counties of England, from a very early period, yet the principal of these familes, and the only one of which we have any extended and connected account, seems to have been seated in the county of Suffolk, as early, at least, as the middle of the 15th century. Many records of its genealogy have been preserved in the Herald's College at London, which have been examined and attested by the different heralds, at various times, down to the year 1640.

From these records, and from other incontestible evidence, we have constructed the following:

GENEALOGY OF THE FAMILY OF STYLE, OF SUFFOLK AND KENT.

Burke, and those British genealogists and heralds who have followed him, have derived this family from

1. William Style Esq., of Ipswich, Co. Suffolk, who had a son JOHN, an Alderman of London, in the time of Henry VII, etc. (our No. 5 in the following Genealogy), and who (they say) died in 1500, and, according to Hasted (Hist. Co. Kent, i, 542), is buried in Allhallows Church, Barking, London.

This view, however, cannot be harmonized, in our judgment, with certain facts which were not, perhaps, accessible to those earlier authorities.

In the first place, we find, in the Topographer and Genealogist, edited by J. Gough Nichols, the late eminent genealogist and antiquarian (vol. 2, p. 302, 1853), a summary catalogue of "Sepulchral Memorials and Remains of Ancient Art existing in the Parish Churches of Co. Suffolk." No. 4, of this catalogue, is the inscription on a memorial brass, existing in the Church of St. Nicholas, in the ancient town of Ipswich, as follows:

In black letter — "Hic Jacet Willi'us Style ac Isabella quondam uxor ejus qui quidam Willi'us obijt undecimo die mensis, Julij, Anno D'ni Mill' mo cccclxxv, et dicta Mill' mo cccc nonages. C'js A' I' E Requiescat in Pace." Below was a representation of the three persons of the Trinity and two groups of children. Height of figures 27½ inches.

This, then, is the memorial of one William Style, who died the 11th day of July, 1475, and of Isabella, his wife, who died the 16th day of February, 1490.

Again, in G. R. Clarke's History and Description of the Town and Borough of Ipswich, published in 1830 (p. 254), in mentioning "the lofty and handsome steeple" of the Parish Church of St. Peters, he gives the following item, from a "Copy of a Manuscript in the library of Samuel Dowsing, of Stratford, written by his father William Dowsing, and was afterward sold to Mr. Huse, a bookseller in Exeter Change, London, Sept. 6, 1704."

"A legacy left by the will of William Stile, dated 28th April, 1463. Item, to the making of the Steeple of the Parish Church of St. Peter, Ipswich, 6s. 8d."

He adds that this seems to have been the earliest of several bequests, made by different individuals, for the same purpose.

Now, this William who "headed the subscription," so to speak, for the building of the steeple of St. Peter's, may have been the William who was buried in the Church of St. Nicholas in 1475; but as this gift was an item in his will dated 1463, and as people, in all generations, do not generally show any great alacrity in making their wills much before their time comes so to do; we prefer to believe that the two Williams were not one and the same individuals.

Then, to add to the complication, in the same Church of St. Nicholas in Ipswich, in which William and his wife Isabella are buried, is another "brass" (No. 3, in the Catalogue before referred to) representing "A man in a gown; his wife, children, arms, etc., gone; height 31 inches (probably for William Stiles and Margery, his wife — Anno 1500).

Admitting that the antiquarian who examined and catalogued these Memorials in the Church of St. Nicholas, had some good and sufficient reason for assigning this brass to "William Stiles and Margery his wife—Anno 1500," we thus have in Ipswich, WILLIAM STILE, will dated 1463.

WILLIAM STILE, whose wife was Isabella, and his monument dated 1475.

WILLIAM STILE, whose wife was Margery, and to whom is assigned the date of 1500.

It is quite possible that the first WILLIAM, was the father of the second WILLIAM, and he the father of the last named WILLIAM.

It is also equally possible that either of these Williams may have been the father of JOHN STYLE, the Alderman of London, etc., simply accredited by Burke and others as the son of William Stile, Esq., of Ipswich.

But which John? is the next question that arises. For Sir John the Alderman, the undoubted founder of this line (as far as positively known) was engaged in some important and delicate negotiations for his sovereign (as we shall hereafter see) as late as 1509; consequently, he could scarcely be the same "SIR JOHN STILE, Knight, Draper, 1500," whose monument is mentioned by the veracious Stowe in his Survey of London (1633), as being, at the time of his writing, among those "in the Parish Church of Alhallowes Barking, not defaced."*

Was this Sir John, then, "Knight and Draper" who was interred in Allhallows Barking, the son of William, and father of Sir John the Alderman?

*In his mention of this Church (so called to distinguish it from others of the same name, viz.: Allhallowes Bredstrete — i. e., of the Broad St.; Alhallows, the Great; Allhallowes by the Wall), Stowe, speaking of "Tower Street, Allhallowes Barking, a Parish Church," says (p. 130), "Now, therefore, to begin at the East end of the Street, on the North side thereof, is the faire Parish Church, called Alhallowes Barking which standeth in a large, but sometime [i. e., in the past time] far larger Cemetery, or Church-yard," and again (p. 131) under head of "Tower Street Ward" "Monuments in the Parish Church of Allhallowes Barking, not defaced are these: * * * * Sir Iohn Stile, Knight. Draper, 1500."

Perhaps these questions will never be answered; but they are interesting, inasmuch as their solution would allow of our carrying the line-genealogical two or three generations further back toward its origin.

Remembering, then, that the earlier generations of the family may read thus:

1. William[1], of Ipswich (will), 1463, father of
2. William[2], of Ipswich, and Isabella, his wife, who had
3. William[3], of Ipswich, and Margery, his wife, who had
4. Sir John[4], of London, who had
5. Sir John[5], Alderman of London, etc., the known ancestor of the Style Family of Suffolk and Kent — we commence with the latter.

Family 1.

7. Sir John[5] Stiles [5] (Sir John[4], William[3], William[2], William[1]), Alderman of London, who was employed by Henry VII, about the beginning of the 16th century, in several embassies to various European courts. One of these missions was to the Court of Naples, to negotiate a marriage between King Henry and the Neapolitan Queen-Dowager. Of this, Lord Bacon thus speaks in his history of the reign of that king:

"Therefore he sent in ambassage or message, three confident persons, Francis Marsin, James Braybrooke, and John Style, upon two several inquisitions, rather than negociations; the one touching the person and condition of the young Queen of Naples; the other touching all particulars of estate that concerned the fortunes and intentions of Ferdinando." And, in a note, he adds: "The commissioners went first to Valentia where the two Queens were, and then to Segovia, where they arrived on the 14th July, 1505."

An entry in a book of accompts of Henry VII (now in the British Museum [Additional MSS., 21, 480]), gives the date of their departure, and is curious as showing the terms upon which such services were recompensed. Among the payments of the 1st and 2d of May, in the 20th year of Henry's reign, occurs the following:

"Item to James Braybrooke, going upon the King's message for four months, at 5*s.* the day..... 28l.

Hasted (History of Kent, i, 542) says he was afterward knighted, "and was one of the Drapers' Company;" and "that he purchased 'Langley Park,' a seat of eminent account in this (Beckenham) parish, which was formerly accounted a manor, and in the reign of the Conqueror was part of the vast estate of Odo, Bishop of Baieux, and Earl of Kent," and is described in Doomsday Book.

It passed into the hands of the Malmaines, who held it in the time of the Conqueror, but before the end of the reign of Edward III, passed by sale to Langley, a "family now long extinct." The last of that name, Ralph, who died in the 30th year of King Henry VI, willed it to be sold to pay his debts. It was bought by John Violett, and passed into John Stiles' hands in the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII.

To disgavel was, according to Webster, "to deprive of that principal quality of gavel-kind tenure, by which lands descend equally among all the sons of the tenant."

"Sir Humphrey Style, in pursuance of this grant, and the better to discover how much was incroached upon the said palace, procured a Jury of Middlesex to be impannelled, by whom the bounds and limits of the said palace, were by their verdict, upon the testimony of witnesses then sworn and examined, found and discovered; and an exact and perfect map thereof was drawn; which is now in the custody of the said Humphrey Style. After the verdict of the said Jury, Sir Humphrey Style proceeded by Law in the Exchequer against some of the incroachers, where, after a long suit and much charge, at a full hearing he obtained the judgement of the court against the said incroachers; whereupon the late King granted a commission under his broad seal, to divers Lords, giving them power to compound, at reasonable rates, with such persons as had so incroached, upon his said palace."

"Sir Humphrey Style humbly desires your opinion, whether it be necessary for him to present this his case to the judgement of the Parliament, the fourth part reserved by the King now accruing and belonging to them, without whose approbation and direction he will not do anything."

"Whose opinion it was that is here asked, is not mentioned by Mr. Le Neve, or any further account given of this affair."*

Sir Humphrey Style procured a grant from Sir Thomas Wriothesley, Garter, Principal King-at-Arms, which recites that "not being willing to bear arms in prejudice to other branches of his family, he had petitioned for a coat with a proper difference," which the said King-at-Arms granted, March 28, 1529, under his hand and seal as follows, viz.: "Sable, a fesse ingrailed between three fleur-de-lis, with a border, or; the fesse fretted of the field," to him and to his posterity.†

fore that reign. In this church are many coats of arms carved, and painted hatchments, and pennons, belonging to the family of Style of Langley. It anciently consisted of one aisle, till it was increased by the addition of a large chapel or aisle on each side, both which were built by Oliver Style of Langley, Esq. Under the south aisle he built a vault for the sole use of Langley-house and the family there, though he himself was buried at Wateringbury. It is a neat building, having a handsome spire steeple at the west end of it, covered with shingles, in which is a ring of five tuneable bells."

After mentioning its "many handsome monuments and memorials," Hasted says: "On the north wall are several brass-plates of arms, and the effigies of a man, two women and eleven children (viz.: 9 to the first, and 2 to the second), and an inscription to Sir Humphrey Style and Dame Bridget his first wife, daughter of Sir Thomas Bauldy, sometime Mayor of London; he left surviving, his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of George Peryn, Esq. He died in 1557, and the said Bridget in 1548."

Hasted's Hist. Co. Kent, 1798, i, p. 546.

In describing Beckenham Parish and Church, Hasted, in the History of Kent, i, 542–547, says: "Edmund Style and Nicholas Style, esquires, and Sir Humphrey Style, bart., in 1694, gave 60*l.* for two sermons to be preached yearly, 13*s.*, 4*d.* each; the residue for bread to be distributed weekly to the poor, which money was afterward laid out in land, vested in trustees, and of the annual produce of 5*l.*, 15*s.*" Also, "—— Style of L——, gave to this parish, lands in it of the annual produce of 2*l.*"

FAMILY 5.

29. Sir Nicholas[7] Style [14] (Sir Humphrey[6], Sir John[5], Sir John[4], William[3], William[2], William[1]), was an alderman of the city of London, and was knighted in the fifth year of King James I, 1607, at which time he was sheriff of London. He was a prominent member, in his day, of the Ancient Company of Grocers, which, according to Stowe, was one of "the Twelve Honorable Companies of this ancient and Famous City; out of which the Lord Maior is to be chosen yearly, because those of inferior rancke are not capable of such dignity."* He was, also, the founder of several charities in London, thus stated by Stowe in his Survey of London:

"Nicholas Stile, Grocer, and Alderman of London, gave unto Christ's Hospitall, five pounds; to St. Bartholomew's Hospitall, 10 pound, and to St. Thomas, three pound. Moreover he gave to poor maimed Sea-faring Souldiers in St. Bartholomew's Hospitall ten pound if no house were erected in or about London, for the harbor and relief of such maimed Souldiers and Saylors."†

Stowe also mentions (Bk. V, p. 57) "Gifts and Charities entrusted with the Worshipfull Company of Grocers of London—Benefactor's name, Nicholas Stiles."‡

* These "Twelve Honorable Companies" were those of the Mercers, the Grocers, the Drapers, the Fishmongers, the Goldsmiths, the Skinners, the Merchant Tailors, the Haberdashers, the Salters, the Ironmongers, the Vintners, the Clothworkers.

The Company of Grocers, in olden time called Pepperers, was first incorporated by the name of Grocers, in the 20th year of Edward III, A. D. 1345; and their arms are the most ancient of any of the twelve Companies, except those of the Skinners (Stow's Survey of London, 1633).

The arms antient, and supporters granted by Thomas Benote Clarencieux, in the time of King Henry the Eighth, Helme and Crest, by William Harvey Clarencieux, Anno Dom. 1562 (Stow).

Orridge's "Some Account of the Citizens of London and their Rulers from 1060 to 1867," London, 1867, is given on page 233 (from a Calendar of the Mayors and Sheriffs from 1189 to 1867, compiled from Strype, Stow and the Corporation Archives), the following: "1607. Sir Henry Rowe, Mercer (Mayor); Jeffrey Elwes, Merchant Tailor; Nicholas Style, Grocer (Sheriffs)."

Sir Nicholas married Gertrude, daughter of Thomas Bright of London, ironmonger; and died Nov. 16, 1615. He was buried in the Church of St. Margaret, Walbrook, Coleman Street Ward,* London, his monumental inscription being thus given by the historian Stowe:

A small monument newly erected in the East end of the Quire.

"Here resteth in hope of a joyful resurrection, the body of Nicholas Style, late Alderman of London, who was, borne at Langley, in the Parish of Beckingham in the County of Kent; the Son of Humfrey Stile, Knight, and of Dame Bridget his wife. He married Gertrude, the daughter of Thomas Bright of London. Ironmonger.

with whom he lived most lovingly and faithfully the space of forty years and by her had three Sonnes and foure daughters;† of whom remained living at his decease, one Sonne, Humfrey, and one daughter, Mary. He dyed the Sixteenth day of November. An. Dom. 1615."

* "Upon the water-course of Walbrooke have yee a proper Parish Church, called S. Margaret, which seemeth to be newly re-edified, and builded about the year 1440," p. 292 (Stow).

† Of these children, who died during their father's life-time, were probably these three, whose epitaph is thus preserved by Stowe in his Survey of London:

(P. 244.) "Then downe lower in the street called Walbroke, is one other faire church of S. Stephen, lately builded on the east side thereof; for the old church stood on the west side. * * * This church was finished in the yere 1439."

Robert[11], Sir Thos.[10], Sir Thos.[9], Sir Thos.[8], Sir Thos.[7], Sir Humphrey[6], Sir John[5], Sir John[4], Wm.[3], Wm.[2], Wm.[1]), of Bicester House, Oxfordshire. He entered the navy March 13, 1800, as first-class volunteer on board the Immortalite, 36, Captains Hon. Henry Hotham and Edward W. C. R. Owen, stationed in the Channel; after assisting at the bombardment of Havre and Boulogne, and commanding the launch of the Immortalite, in the attack on two of the enemy's gunboats, under the guns of Calais, in August, 1803, he removed, as master's mate, to the Imperieuse, 38, commanded by his former captain, Hotham, whom he followed in March, 1804, to the Revolutionaire, 44.

While attached to this vessel he escorted the Duke of Sussex from Lisbon to Portsmouth; accompanied the outward-bound East India trade to the line, and visited the coast of North America. He was present at Sir Richard Strachan's action off Cape Ortegue, Nov. 4, 1805, and assisted after the battle in bringing to England one of the prizes (the Scipion, 74). In April, 1806, he again accompanied his captain to the Defiance, 74, in which ship he was ordered to act as Lieutenant, 26th April, 1806; and, on the 15th of August following, was confirmed to that rank. On the 24th February, 1809, he contributed to the destruction of 3 French frigates, under the batteries of Sable d'Olonne, on which occasion the Defiance, besides being much cut up in her masts, sails and rigging, sustained a loss of 2 men killed and 25 wounded. On the 24th of June, of the same year, he landed at the head of between 300 and 400 seamen and marines from the squadron then cruising off Corunna and succeeded in destroying 114 guns of the largest calibre, with their carriages and ammunition. With the boats of the Defiance under his command he brought out, on the night of Dec. 31, 1809 (under a heavy fire of round and grape shot), the armed-ship Ellison, of more than 400 tons burthen, lying under the guns of Fort Palais, one of the strongest fortifications on the coast of France. An attack had been made on this vessel a few nights previously, but had been repulsed.

The 1st of June, 1810, being again in command of the boats of the Defiance, after a fatiguing chase of six hours, he came up with 3 French coasting vessels (chassé-marees) laden with wine and resin, the whole of which he boarded, carried and brought in a calm, from under the citadel of Ft. Palais, in Belleisle, beating back 6 armed launches which came to their aid, although exposed for an hour to the most severe fire of grape and round shot from two batteries, on Point Taillefer, and from several field-pieces.*

In August, 1810, he left the Defiance, and in the following month joined the flotilla employed in the defense of Cadiz. On the 28th of October, the Comperdown, a vessel of which he was in command, was wrecked on Les Corrales, a reef of rocks between Cadiz and Pomtales, and a midshipman and 14 of the crew perished. He subsequently supported the present Sir Richard Fellowes at the storming of a four-gun battery surrounded by a ditch and stockade at the entrance of Port Santa Maria, under a heavy fire from the neighboring works, March 6, 1811.

On the 5th of July, 1811, he was second in command in a night attack on some vessels in the Guadalquiver, and had every man on the larboard side of his boat killed or wounded in a desperate action fought with a schooner of war. He was also in an attack on the enemy's flotilla on Nov. 2d. The same year also he took the cutter La Prudence, valuably laden, notwithstanding that before he came up, she had taken refuge under the battery on the Isle O'leur; for all these services he was very warmly recommended and received the thanks of the Commander-in-Chief.

He was shortly after (1811) sent to co-operate in the defense of Tariffa, and displayed throughout such zeal and activity that he obtained, as he had at Cadiz, very great applause. His conduct gained him in particular the thanks of Commodore Penrose, also of the Spanish Government.

In April, 1812, he was placed on half-pay, and advanced to the rank of Commander, commission bearing date, Feb. 1, 1812. In May, 1821, he took command of the Garnet, 18, In which vessel he had the honor of conveying the remains of Queen Caroline, from Harwich to Cuxhaven. He became a Captain on the 7th of Feb., 1849.

May 18, 1816, he married Louisa Charlotte, third daughter of Hon. and Rev. Jacob Marsham, D. D., Canon of Windsor, and Prebendary of Rochester and Wells (and niece of the Earl of Romney).* He died Feb. 24, 1868. Issue:

Here lies
Henry Stiles,

Who born in Great Britain, lived for about eighteen years in the same, and thirty years in Moscow; so that he may be considered an Englishman by circumstance of birth, a Moscovite by choice; but of each nation an exceedingly useful citizen; Alas! that he did not attain to a ripe old age in either.

He was a man, of whom, on acc't of His dutifulness toward God & his parents,
His conjugal affection,
His integrity of life,
His courtesy & refinement of manners,
His benevolence extended on all sides,
All, with one voice [altho'] be it granted with difference of idiom, spoke all good things. To him belonged those qualities by which he merited and obtained the friendship of magnates; those qualities on account of which he was held in close favor by that most powerful and acute emperor, Peter Alexovitz, who was also himself the favorite of the whole human race, and is deservedly held in esteem even above the Roman Emperor.

May the most clement hero forgive the marble, if it narrates with what unparalleled zeal he in private capacity furthered the interests of his prince, and how exceedingly his prince deigned to love him while he lived, [altho'] a private citizen, and to mourn him when dead.

It cannot be expressed in words, dear reader, how lamentable was the death of one endowed with such a character [how lamentable] to his parents, [who were] afflicted at the same time with old age and sorrow, and who regretted their [arrival at] old age, since such a son was lost; how [lamentable] to brother and sister; finally to all his friends, [how lamentable].

But to none more lamentable than to his grief-stricken wife, who, for the virtues of her husband, and for her own love [only] less eternal, has caused this stone to be erected in memory of one so dear.

He was born 2d Feb. 1664.
He died 1711. an infant son being left as heir.

Sub hoc Marmore jacet corpus Judithæ uxoris HENRICI STILES.
Quae propter Corporis elegantiam

Nec ultra esse sivit, quia ipsam amaverit

Beneath this stone lies the body of Judith, wife of Henry Stiles.
Who for her loveliness of person was deserving of longer life.

For her virtues of mind, [deserving] of immortal [life]:
To which too speedily, [yet] so to God seemed best, she departed.
Hardly, alas! had she given birth to her fourth infant
When she breathed out her last of life.
God revealed her to the earth long enough for her to be loved,
But no further did he permit, because he loved her too.
She was born 14th Sept. 1686.
She died 28th Oct. 1708.
Richard, son of Henry & Judith Stiles was born 21st Oct. 1708. Died 5th Dec. 1710.

THE FRENCH EAGLES AT WATERLOO.

The following extract from the records of the regiment of Royal Dragoons may prove interesting, as affording still further information on the subject of the capture of the French eagles at Waterloo. The extract is in the words of Captain Clarke of that regiment:

"I was in command of the centre squadron of the Royal Dragoons in this charge. While following up the attack, I perceived, a little to my left, in the midst of a body of infantry, an eagle and color, which the bearer was making off with towards the rear. I immediately gave the order to my squadron, 'Right shoulders forward,' at the same time leading direct upon the eagle and calling out to the men with me to secure the color. The instant I got within reach of the officer who carried the eagle, I ran my sword into his right side, and he staggered and fell, but did not reach the ground on account of the pressure of his companions. As the officer was in the act of falling, I called out a second time to some men close behind me, 'Secure the color — it belongs to me.' The standard coverer, Corporal STYLES, and several other men rushed up, and the eagle fell across my horse's head against that of Corporal Styles. As it was falling I caught the fringe of the flag with my left hand, but could not at first pull up the eagle; at the second attempt, however, I succeeded. Being in the midst of French troops, I attempted to separate the eagle from the staff to put it in the breast of my coat, but it was too firmly fixed. Corporal Styles said, 'Sir, don't break it;' to which I replied, 'Very well, carry it off to the rear as fast as you can.' He did so. Though wounded, I preferred remaining on the field in command of my regiment, which I did till near seven o'clock in the evening, when I was obliged to withdraw, having had two horses killed under me, and having received two wounds, which confined me to my quarters at Brussels for nearly two months."

Captain Clarke was, in consequence of his gallantry, promoted to a Colonelcy, and received the decorations of the Order of the Bath and the Hanoverian Guelphic Order. Corporal Styles also received a commission.

"Doct. of Divinity. July 6. Mathew Stiles of Exeter Coll. was now an eminent Minister in London, an excellent Grammarian and Casuist, and one that had gained great Knowledg and experience by his travels into several parts of Italy (particularly at Venice when he went as Chaplain with an Ambassador from England. An. 1624.) In 1643, he was nominated one of the Assembly of Divines, but whether he sate among them I know not, because he was forced by the giddy faction about that time to resign his cures at St. George in Botolph-lane and St. Gregory near Pauls, in London."

Sydney Smith Oct. 18, 1793. The next year we find him engaged at the reduction of Bastia. He obtained the rank of Commander in 1797, and was posted from the Carnelian, sloop-of-war, into the Theseus, 74, on the Mediterranean Station June 14, 1799. During a part of the late war, Capt. S. commanded the Alcmene frigate, and Adamant of 50 guns. In the latter he captured the Nostra Senora de los Dolores, and 315 men, May 6, 1806. Previous to his quitting the Adamant, he received a piece of plate of the value of 500 guineas, as a present from the Honorable East India Company, for his care and attention to two of their fleets, which had been placed under his protection. He was promoted to be Admiral July 22, 1830. His wife died March 31, 1816. He died at Southampton, Dec. 6, 1830, aged 78 years."—Marshall's Royal Nav., *Biog. & Obituary in Gents. STYLES CREST.
(Showing the chapeau.)

The chapeau (cap of maintenance or dignity) is of crimson velvet, lined with ermine, turned up into points at the back. It was formerly a badge of high dignity, and is now borne under the crest, of several eminent families, instead of the wreath.—Burke's "Vicissitudes of Families," ed. 1859, p. 380.

STYLES, Lond., a lion's gamb, erased, in fess, ar., holding a fleur-de-lis, sa.

Tacitus speaks of the parti-colored shields of the Germans. The coats of some of the most ancient and noble European families answer precisely to that description (as checquy, lozengy, etc.), and are probably the ancient ensigns of the Teutonic chieftains. The Anglo-Saxon kings and nobles, as their descendants, bore arms on their banners and shields, some of which have probably come down to us.—Paper of W. S. Ellis Esq., in Sussex Archæological Coll., vol. vi, p. 73.

THE STILES COAT OF ARMS,

CONSIDERED IN RELATION TO THE AMERICAN FAMILIES OF THE NAME.

The Connecticut Family.

In President Stiles' MSS. Itinerary (vol. xii, pages 154–5), in Yale College Library, is a rude pen-sketch of the Stiles arms (similar to that described in Nos. II and XIII of preceding List of Coats of Arms), accompanied by the following, under date of August 4, 1785:

"At my request, Mrs. Grant procured from the Heraldry Office, London, my coat of arms emblazoned [the original em-blazonment is now in possession of some of the family of the late Dea. Charles J. Ingersoll, dec'd, of Greenfield, Mass.—H. R. S.]. I had, indeed, the same in 1751, but I doubted my right to it. But informed Mrs. G. that my ancestors came from Millbrook, from Bedfordshire, 1635. She got a friend to trace it at the Heraldry Office to this coat of arms and gave assurance that I need not think myself deceived, for they had ascertained my title to it."

The description accompanying this note, in the President's MSS., is as follows:

"STILE bears
Sable, a fesse ingrailed, fretty or. sable, between 3 fleur de lys, of the same."

Elsewhere, in some of the President's MSS., in possession of Mrs. Kate G. Wells, of Boston, Mass., occurs the following reference to the search of 1751.

"STILE bears, 'Sable a fesse ingrailed fretty or. & Sable between three Flowers de liz, or. and a Border or. Crest. a Wolfe's head coup'd pp^r Fess or & Sable, Coll. O, & ffreete o.'

The above is the coat of arms procured from the Heraldry Office, in London, by Mr. Elihu Lyman, in 1751. But it is uncertain whether it belongs to our Family. Copied from the London copy, April 10, 1766."

EZRA STILES.

If this search of 1751 (a hundred and fifty years ago) corroborated by the second search of 1785, satisfied Pres. Stiles as to the right of the Connecticut family to bear these arms, perhaps it ought to be satisfactory to us of the present generation; but, I confess that I would have been better pleased if the parties furnishing the President with the information from the Heraldry Office, had also furnished the genealogical data connecting the Connecticut line with the English family bearing these arms.

The Bermuda, Georgia and Virginia Families.

The right of the Bermuda Stiles Family, from which descend the Georgia and Virginia branches, to these arms, seems to be fairly well established, both by their connection with the Wateringbury (Counties Kent, Sussex and Essex) family and by an emblazoned copy of the above-described arms, now in possession of Mrs. Kate G. Wells, of Boston, Mass., differing only in the crest,* from that which is given beneath. On the back of this copy was accidentally discovered, a few years since, the following indorsement in the handwriting of President Stiles: "The Arms of the Family of Stiles, with a motto assumed by Copeland Stiles, Esq., 1789. Received a Present from C. S., Esq., of Bermuda.—EZRA STILES." The motto alluded to is "Præmium Lucrum Industriæ."

The Massachusetts Family.

We are unable to trace the transatlantic origin of this family to any locality in England, which would justify us in assuming even their conjectural right to the use of any of the Stiles arms refered to on pages 622–624.

Extract from Letters of Dr. Charles F. Hale.

FOREST HILL, W. VA.,
March 10*th*, 1885.

HENRY R. STILES, M. D.,

Dear Sir—As to the coat of arms of the Stiles family. Some years ago I became greatly interested in the matter. Through a friend in London (Mr. Morgan, firm of J. S. Morgan & Co.), I had a thorough investigation made; and a copy of shield was obtained from the Herald's College; but it was accompanied with such information that I felt thoroughly dissatisfied. Indeed, the information was such as to lead me to believe that the family was not of English origin at all, but French. I then secured the assistance of my friend, the late Geo. Brinley, of Hartford, Ct., who was then in Paris, and who made a very exhaustive investigation with results that gave me much satisfaction. I cannot give you a copy of the shield, as it is stored in N. Y., with other valuable papers, and out of my reach at present; but I can say that it closely resembles the one engraved on your circular, except that it is quartered with 3 lizards—couchant. The fleur de lis are the same, the crest, the wolf's head, is also the same; but the shield is crossed with the bar sinister.

* A lion's head crest, said to have come in by marriage with the Phillips family.

The first one to bear the shield was Sir Geoffrey de Stile, somewhere about 1531. The only one of whom I can find any reliable trace in England was Sir Francis de Stile, son of Geoffrey, who seems to have emigrated to England somewhere about 1550, and who settled in Warwickshire. But his genealogy I have been unable to trace, although, in 1684, the records show the existence of the family, in the same locality, still retaining the same shield — with the bar sinister. This ancient root is undoubtedly the origin of the New England family, as well as that of Bermuda, and, without a shadow of doubt, that of Philadelphia, who still retain the ancient French form—Stile or, as some of them write it, Still*é*.

I think this is all the information, on this point, of which I am possessed.

Yours truly,
CHAS. F. HALE.

In a subsequent letter, Dr. Hale thus writes:

FOREST HILL, COAL VALLEY, W. VA.,
April 10*th*, 1885.

If I was able to make the journey I should go at once to New York, and obtain from the Security Co. where my valuables are stored, the documents and drawing which Mr. Brinley procured for me in Paris, as well as those which Mr. Morgan was able to obtain in London. I am not an expert in heraldic matters, and am not competent to judge in a doubtful case like this. But one or two things seem indisputable. One is that the French and English branches of the Stile family, became, in some remote time, intermingled, as certain salient points in both escutcheons are identical. Again, the fleur-de-lis, although a common emblem, is essentially French. In my copy, obtained in Paris by Mr. Brinley, the bar sinister is a prominent feature, and I am fully aware of the different signification of a bar sinister and a bend sinister. In one copy obtained from the family of Stilleé in Normandie, there is a quartering which I can neither trace or understand. It seems to be a griffen rampant. The Stilleé family of Phila. still retain this quartering, and although greatly chagrined at the existence of the bar sinister still retain it.

Sir Geoffrey, whose existence is well authenticated by old records, was probably a Frenchman by birth, but Sir Francis may have been born in England, and in all probability was the one who intermarried with some English family — was it some descendant of Sir John? Sir Francis wrote his name "de Stile." I have a copy of his will (date forgotten) in which he bequeaths to his daughter Victorine, "My great yellow diamond, and my copy of our family arms, done in gold, which I charge her to preserve as a precious heritage." I quote only from memory.

What more can I say? I have no papers or memoranda to guide me, and I can only speak from memory. One thing though I should mention, the copy obtained from the Herald's College, London, was engrailed; that obtained from Paris as well as the Normandie copy was not. The edge of the fesse in both French copies are straight.

I greatly regret that I can furnish no useful information in this matter. If I had been sooner informed of it, say before Feb. 1st, when I left New York, I might and probably could have placed in your hands documents that would have been interesting to you if not valuable.

With much respect,

I am yours truly,

CHAS. F. HALE.

Pension Applications of soldiers named Stiles, who served either in the Revolution or War of 1812, not elsewhere given (from Pension Records, Washington, D. C.)

David Stiles.—In June, 1871, of Harrison Co., Mo., and enlisted Feb., 1814, at Fayetteville, Tenn., with Capt. Davidson, in 3d Tenn. Militia, and discharged May, 1814; served in Ala. for a time in Fort William, and enlisted in building Fort Jackson; was in the battle of the "Horse-Shoe," under Gen. Jackson (Mar. 27, 1814). Married in Harrison Co., Mo., June 5, 1862, to Mary Thomas. He died June 14 or 28, 1881. He was previously married, and Mary was the widow of Jacob Thomas, who died 30 to 37 years prior to 1882, in Tenn., and the widow moved to Harrison Co., Mo., in 1851, and in Jan.,

1882, was living in Lone Star, Gentry Co., Mo., aged 76 years. The widow gives her residence in Harrison Co., and at same date also at Lone Star, and the latter is P. O. address. The residence of Samuel M. Stiles is given Martinsville, Harrison Co., Mo., who states that the former wife of David Stiles died in 1859. G. F. Patten of Lone Star, was at funeral of David's first wife in 1859, but no relation is stated. The widow states David died June 28, 1881; witness having personal knowledge gives date June 14.

Henry Stiles.— In March, 1871, of Kasson, Leelanaw Co., Mich., aged 77 years, who states that he enlisted at Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio, about May 1, 1812, with Capt. Sheet in 1st Reg't Ohio Militia, Capt. Finley, going to Detroit, Mich., where he was taken prisoner at the surrender of Gen. Hull (Aug. 16, 1812), and held for 18 mos. He married in Washington Co. (probably Ohio), July, 1814, to Rhoda Strait.

Henry Stiles.— In April, 1834, of Berks Co., Penn., in his 76th year, who states that he was drafted in 1775 for 3 months, in Phila., into the City Guards, commanded by Capt. Peters, and stationed as guards to the frigates and magazines, in which Company he was Sergt. In 1776 he was drafted for 2 mos. into Capt. Barney's Co. in Col. Bayard's Penn. Militia, which went to Trenton, N. J., from whence retreated to the opposite side of the river, and from thence to Phila. In 1777 he was drafted for 2 mos. under Capt. Folk, which company marched to Wilmington, Del., then to Brandywine, Chester and Phila. In 1781 he was drafted for 2 mos. at Reading, into the Company of Capt. Gobin in Col. Heister's Reg't, and marched to Trenton, N. J. His service was all as Sergeant.

Henry N. Stiles (not a pensioner).— His widow, Rebecca, in 1882, of Defiance, Defiance Co., Ohio, aged 56 years, states that her husband served in the Mexican War as a teamster from May to June, 1847. He married at Ayerville, Defiance Co., Ohio, Sept. 23, 1848, to Rebecca Clark, and he died of lung disease May 12, 1881.

Moses Stiles.— His former widow, Catarina Orchard, in Sept., 1842, of Bethlehem, Albany Co., N. Y., 80 years, states that her husband lived in Florida, 12 miles south west from Schenectady, N. Y., but she cannot give any particular information of his services only that he was promoted to be a Corporal. From her witnesses and other swearers, it has been ascertained that he enlisted for 3 years with Capt. Hicks in Col. Van Schaick's N. Y. Reg't, and served as a Corporal, and at one time was with his regiment in garrison at the important post of Fort Stanwix (now Rome, N. Y.). Whether he was in service prior to 1777 is unknown. He married Jan. 15, 1784, Catarina Strait, both of Florida, who, with her parents went 12 miles to Schenectady, the place of the nearest minister for the performance of the ceremony. He died in the fall of 1790, and after his death the widow went to Bethlehem, which was distant 40 miles from Florida. About 1794 she married Edward Orchard of Bethlehem, and he died in the fall of 1827. Children of Moses Stiles were:

Margaret, b. Mar. 13, 1785; m. 1805, to —— Mitchell. In 1842, living in West Troy, N. Y.

Eve, b. Sept. 28, 1787; m. —— Holden. In 1842, living in Stoney Hill, N. Y.

Betsey, b. May 28, 1789; m. Peter Brice (b. May 18, 1791). In 1842, living in Bethlehem, N. Y.

After her marriage with Edward Orchard she had two sons, John and Henry, who were living in Bethlehem in 1842.

Richard Stiles (not a pensioner).— In Dec., 1843, of Brown Co., Ill., aged 79 years, and states that while residing in Loudon Co., Va., he was drafted in 1781, for 2 months into the Co. of Capt. Bevers, in Col. Dabneys Reg't, who was in the command of Gen. Lafayette, going to Richmond, Va., where the troops were defeated and pursued by British until reinforced by Gen. Wayne, when the enemy were driven back through Richmond to Green Springs, where a battle was fought, and he was wounded in his right thigh and taken home. As he alludes to loss of papers in Ky., it is very likely he resided there awhile before settling in Ill. The heirs of Robert [I think this should be Richard.—M. S. P. G.] Stiles state that he died July 18, 1847, having lived in Ill. about 10 years, and was born Nov. 17, 1764. He married in 1789, Rachel ——, and lived at one time in Preston Co., West Va., and his wife died Aug. 20, 1847. In 1852, children surviving were:

Catharine Rose, aged 62 years, about.
Mary Taylor, aged 57 years, about.
Richard Stiles, aged 44 years, about.
Jonathan J. Stiles, aged 34 years, about.

Eliakim Stiles, aged 52 years, about. [Perhaps this ought to be 32, but it is clearly written 52.—M. S. P. G.]

William Stiles (carpenter).—In March, 1871, of Baltimore, Md., aged 75 years, and states that he enlisted at Baltimore, under Capt. Conway in the 6th Maryland Militia, Col. McDonald, in Aug., 1814, and discharged in Nov., 1814; was promoted to Corporal, and stationed in Baltimore. He was in the battle of North Point and Fort McHenry. He married in Baltimore, Nov. 24, 1870, widow Anne M. Cooper. He was previously married to Margaret Taylor, who died April 7, 1839, and his next marriage was to Elizabeth O. Garroton, who died Sept. 4, 1864. His last wife was the widow of Thomas A. Cooper, who died Feb. 21, 1859. William Stiles died Dec. 29, 1882. In 1883, his widow Anne M. was residing in Baltimore, aged 61 years. In March, 1883, James Stiles of Baltimore, Md., aged 62 years, was a witness.

There are no navy pensioners of the family name of Stiles. A Henry F. Cary of Boston, Mass., served in the navy under the assumed name of James H. Stiles, and for a time he was on the pension roll under that, but as soon as he established his real name, it was changed to Henry F. Cary.

John Stiles, of Maryland, 1st Lieut. of Montgomery's Co. of Baltimore Artillery; distinguished in the battle of North Point, Md. (Sept. 12, 1814).

APPENDIX III.

[Containing accounts of persons named Stiles, whose connection with the main Stiles families has not been discovered.]

ROBERT STILES OF DORCHESTER, MASS., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

There was formerly among investigators of Stiles history [The author is acquainted with the opinions of Savage and Dr. H. R. Stiles on this subject] some doubt whether Robert Stiles of Dorchester, and the man of the same name who lived in Rowley and Boxford, were the same or different individuals, but that point is at last settled, as any one may satisfy himself by examining the evidence. (See Hist. of Robert Stiles of Rowley and Boxford.)

From 1667 down to 1760, the only persons named Stiles, mentioned in the Records of Dorchester, with one exception, undoubtedly belonged to the family of Robert of that town.

The following items were copied from the 21*st Report of the Boston Record Commissioners*, published in 1890.

Births.

P. 11. "John the Son of Robert Stiles was Born the 15 of the (2 mo) 1669. His eldest son Joseph was Born the last day of June in the year 1669. [Of course there is an error somewhere, for the above is an exact copy.—M. S. P. G.]

P. 48. Elizabeth the Dau of John Stiles and Mary his wife was Borne the 19 of May 1704.

P. 51. Joseph the Son of John Stiles and Mary his wife was Borne the (9) of January 1705–6.

P. 53. Beniam Stiles the Son of John Stiles and Mary his wife was Borne 14 of March 1708.

P. 55. Mary the Daughter of John and Mary Stiles was Born Aug 2d 1709.

P. 60. Nathaniel the Son of John Stiles & Mary his wife was Born May 23, 1714.

P. 66. Nehemiah the Son of John Stiles & Mary his wife was Born the 2d day of July 1719.

Marriages.

P. 104. John Stiles and Mary Morah ware married the (22) of September 1702 by the worshipfull Mr. Wilson Justice.

P. 112. Stephen Fowler and Elizabeth Stiles were joined in marriage by ye Rev'd Mr. Joseph Morse Decr 8th 1725.

P. 223. Richard Stiles of Castle William and Mary Stone of Dorchester married August 20, 1748, by ye Rev'd Jonathan Atherton. [It is not probable that this Richard Stiles belonged to the Dorchester family.—M. S. P. G.]

Deaths.

P. 126. Beniame Stiles, the Son of John Stiles Died aprel the 13, 1708.

P. 127. Robertt Stiles Dyed November the 2d. 1710.

P. 128. Elizabeth Stiles, Widdow Dyed Decenar 6—— 1713.

P. 131. Nathaniel & Elizabeth * Son and daughter of John & Mary Stils dyed January ye 9th 1721–22.

P. 131. Joseph Stiles Son of John & Mary Stiles dyed 17th of January 1721–22.

P. 248. Nehemiah Stiles the Son of John Stiles Died June 24, 1750.

P. 250. John Stiles, Died March 12, 1752 In the 83d year of his age.

P. 254. Mary Stiles the widdow of John Stiles Died Febr 24, 1760.

The following inscriptions (see N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., vol. iv, p. 92), are from the Old Burying Ground at Dorchester: "Here Lyes two children of John and Mary Stiles, — Nathaniel Stiles Died January 9, 1721, Aged 8 years;—

* This is an error, for there is good evidence that it was Mary who died at the above date. See on next page inscriptions from the Old Burial Ground at Dorchester, Mass.—M. S. P. G.

Mary Stiles Died January 9, 1721 In 13th Year Of Her Age." Also, "Benjamin, son to John Styls. Aged 1 month Died April ye 19, 1708 (N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., vol. iv, p. 278).

Robert Stiles of Dorchester seems to have given the authorities of that town a good deal of trouble during his residence there.

He is first mentioned as the purchaser of land in that town in 1659 "Stiles residence in Dorchester was on or near the present Green street" (From William Clarke).

From Dorchester Town Records (4th Report of Record Commissioners, Boston, Mass., 1880), the following memoranda concerning Robert Stiles has been copied:

P. 114. Meeting of Selectmen.

"The 13 (12) 62; there was a warrant given the constable to take the penalties of Robert Stiles, that is, the order concerning inmates and sojourners that are entertained into any man's house without licence from the selectmen."

P. 122. Mtg. S.-M.

"Robert Stiles is presented for being defective in 18 Rod and half of fence belonging to him at the 20 acre Lotts, for which, by order he is to pay £1 7s 9d, but upon consideration had betweene the Selectmen, they doe remit it, to 6s 8d provided that he repaire and make good his fence within six days following, for the which six sh. 8 pence a warrant is granted to he constable to recover it by distress or otherwise."

P. 222. Mtg. S.-M. 11, 12, '77.

"It was granted to Robt Stiles libertie to get some timber towards building him an house out of the 500 acrs."

P. 229. 13, 11, 78.

"Constable J^{no} Tolman directed to summon Robt Stiles to appear before the Selectmen at their next meeting to know how he improves his time and his Children."

P. 229. Mtg. S.-M. 10, 12, 78.

"Robt Stiles came unto the Selectmen (being Summoned afore so to do) to answer or give an acc^{t} how he did improve his time for himself and children the conclusion was that he should look out for a place for one of his Children at least, or elce the Selectmen would provide a place."

P. 237. 12, 12, 79.

"Robert Stiles upd. 0-3-0."

P. 251, at Meeting Selectmen. 13, 10, 80.

"James Whit tithing man made complaint of Robt Stiles and his family living idly."

P. 257. Meeting of Selectmen. 19, 7, 81.

"The same day it was ordered that notice should be given to Robt Stiles that he dispos of one of his Sons by the next meeting of the Selectmen which will be in November, elce the Selectmen must doe it as the Court have ordered."

"At a meeting of the Selectmen the 14 (9) 81 it was left to Lef^{nt} Capen William Sumner and Srg^{t} Clapp to Confer with Bro. Pason about disposing of Robt Stils boy unto him If he be willing and to make report to the rest of the Selectmen.

The same day returne was made by Constable Pason of Robt Stiles answer to the Selectmen."

P. 257, at Meeting of Selectmen, 12, 10th month 81.

"The same day it was agreed by the Selectmen that Robert Stiles his eldest son should be put out as an apprentice to Edward Pason."

P. 259:

P. 260. "28: 12: 81. Order was given by the Selectmen to the Constable to demand a penalty according to the towne order of John Speere James Robinson and Robert Stilles for entertaining of inmates."

In addition to the above we find the following:

Hist. Dorchester, p. 239.—1680, Robert Stiles mentioned as one of the recipients of a legacy left by Mrs. (wid. of John) Birge for the poor of the town of Dorchester, which bounty was, that year, distributed in shoes.

There is a list of those who lived in the town, and had reached the age of 21 years in 1700 (see Hist. Dorch., p. 147): this list contains the names of John and Robert Stiles.

According to an inscription on a gravestone in the Old Burying Ground at Dorchester, Robert Stiles died Nov. the 2nd, 1710, aged about 91 years.

JOSEPH STILES OF PHILADELPHIA.

Feb. 16, 1775, Joseph Stiles was chosen Treas. of the "new manufactory set on foot for making woolens, linen and cotton;" also, Feb. 20, 1775, the managers of the above company met at the school-room of ——, and sent for William Smith, of whom they took his house in Market street, for 3 years, for 40 pounds per annum (from Christopher Marshall's Diary kept in Philadelphia and Lancaster, during the American Revolution, edited by Wm. Duane, p. 14).

In a General Muster Roll of Artillery companies under command of Col. Mifflin, near Amboy, etc., East Jersey, is a roll of the 3rd Co. of Artillery Association of Phila., commanded by Capt. Joseph Stiles (from Force's Am. Archives, vol. i, 5th series, p. 787).

Joseph Stiles to Pres. Franklin, 1787.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11, 1787.

Sir.—The Gunpowder magazine is near full, at most it will not stow more than two hundred quarter casks; in this dilemma, necessity compels me to trouble the honorable council in order to indemnify me from the Act of Assembly in storing the same which cannot be otherwise done but through their honble Board.

I am Sir, your
JOSEPH STILES,
S. G. Mag.

Directed, John Armstrong, Junr Esq., Secretary to the hon. the Supreme Executive Council of State of Pennsylvania.

At the request of Joseph Stiles Superintendent of the Gunpowder magazine we the Subscribers have thoroughly examined the Same and report as our judgement that it will not contain more than two hundred quarter casks of Gunpowder, over and above what is now therein, which appears to be well and carefully stored; we also viewed the Guard house and judge it will safely contain (fire excepted) four hundred Quarter Casks.

Vol. II, p. 546. Description of the Powder Magazine 1787.

Sir.—The Magazine is in length nearly North and South thirty-five feet, and in breadth sixteen feet measured on the inside, the height of the Wall seven feet & eight inches. Under the floor the whole length of the building, and I judge about a foot from the ground, there appears a wall on which Sleepers rest crossways of the building. Those Sleepers are many of them decayed, by which Means the floor is much settled, yet it is no ways damp.

Philada., April 23, 1789.

Gentlemen.—The Gunpowder Magazine* is now under my care and so full that it will not contain one hundred casks more, the flooring, some parts of it is so sunk that it is dangerous to take powder down on which it stands. The European ships are daily expected to arrive, the powder mills send in

* This was, no doubt, the magazine which stood on the present Franklin Square, as stated in the law passed Dec. 6, 1783, which succeeded the one erected by W. Chancellor, under the law of 1724, and continued under a supplement in 1747, by his widow, both of which laws were repealed Mch. 28, 1787. In 1790, a law passed for the purchase and erection of a Magazine and lot near Schuylkill, on the south side of Walnut and Front, which was again vacated and sold under a law of April 4, 1807, and the proceeds to be vested in other magazines, one of which was to be not less than a mile from the city, and to contain only ten tons of powder, and one or more others to stow or deposit powder in large quantities, not less than four miles from the city. Five thousand dollars were appropriated, by law Feb. 5, 1808, to complete the new magazines. See Col. Rec. vol. xvii, pp. 327, 329, 337, 367. Archives, vol. xi, pp. 202, 276, 393, 546. In Council, Phil. Sat. May 10, 1788.

Captain Joseph Stiles, Commissary Military Stores and Superintendent of the Magazine of Gunpowder, attended agreeably to notice and received instructions from the Council to procure a suitable place on reasonable terms, either above Kensington, or below Southwark, for the purpose of storing such Gunpowder as the Magazine will not contain. * * *

DAVID STILES.

From Fireland's Pioneers, vol. ix, pp. 62–68 (June, 1868). [Undoubtedly a member of the Conn. branch of the Mass. Stiles Family, although impossible of connection.—M. S. P. G.]

David Stiles was born at Woodbury, Conn., May 26, 1776. His father, David Stiles, died when the subject of this sketch was only 7 years old. His enduring constitution and remarkable longevity appear to be derived from his mother, who died 20 years ago in Orleans Co., N. Y., at the age of 110. One of her brothers, Seth Newcomb Sherwood, died in the same county some years since, at the age of 129. On the death of his father, he was placed in the care of an uncle by marriage, Gilbert Caswell, who removed to Washington Co., N. Y., in 1780. About that time he accompanied his uncle to Canada, but the unsettled condition of that country during the Revolution, compelled the family to return to the county of their former home in N. Y. He then commenced to learn the trade of a millwright, and worked in that art until the age of 25, when, in 1791, he accompanied two other millwrights named George Davis and William Johnson in a journey to build mills in Upper Canada. They prepared a boat, furnished it with supplies, proceeded down the Hudson, and ascended the Mohawk river, propelling the boat mostly by the use of poles. Hollanders and their descendants had already made many settlements in the Mohawk valley, but the pioneers met with but little favor from a people who had seen some "Yankee tricks," and had a suspicion and prejudice against all strangers of a different nationality. At Fort Schuyler, now Utica, there was a double log building, containing all the hotel accommodations. This structure, with a log trading-house, constituted all the buildings in that place. On reaching Fort Stanwix, now Rome, the only residents were several Frenchmen. With their assistance, and the use of a team, their boat was taken across the portage to Wood creek, which they descended to Oneida lake. Following the outlet, they reached after a difficult passage the Oswego river, which they descended to Lake Ontario. The place where the city of Oswego now stands was then occupied by two bachelors, living in a hut made of poles. They continued their voyage along the curving shore of the lake, crossed the outlet of the St. Lawrence river, and proceeded west along the northern shore to Port Hope, the place of their destination, where they built the first mill on that part of Canada West. Mr. Stiles worked at his trade several years, then married, acquired a farm, and remained in Canada until the War of 1812, when he returned to the State of N. Y., and traversed the thinly-settled region of the western counties. He volunteered as a mechanic in the service of the U. S. in 1812, to aid in building a fort at Black Rock, near Buffalo. As he would not return to Canada, and take the oath of allegiance to Gt. Britain, or, as he terms it, "abjuration of the U. S.," he sent for his family, and made a new home in Ontario Co., N. Y. He remained at Palmyra and elsewhere in that county several years, occupying rented farms. In the fall of 1816, he started with his family for northern Ohio, then being settled by emigrants from the Middle and Eastern States. Circumstances on his way compelled him to stop during the winter at Erie, Pa. In the spring of 1817, he pushed on to Huron Co., Ohio, and made his residence near Bloomingville, near Portland, where he remained about four years, engaged in farming and as a teamster. While there he was appointed assessor, and went from one neighborhood to another, following Indian trails, to estimate the value of property in the new communities. The Territory of Mich. next attracted his attention, and in 1821 he proceeded to Detroit where his family remained about one year. He explored the interior of Mich. as far as safety would permit at that time, and selected the vicinity of Ypsilanti for a new home.

The object of leaving his family at Detroit for a summer and winter, was to give his older children the benefit of a school. In the spring of 1822 he removed his family by boat, by the long route of Huron river, to his new location, now only 30 miles west of Detroit by railroad. Nine miles of the first portion of the road to Detroit was the next year cut out with his own hands. He had driven his cattle over nearly the same route in the cold weather and deep snow, accompanied by his second son, then only 12 years old, following the Indian trail, by the only possible route, 40 miles. Judge Woodward, another of the pioneers, had purchased government land on the Huron river, with a view to lay out a town. Mr. Stiles assisted in that work, and was asked to give the place a name. He suggested that of Franklin as a name that should be commemorated by Americans, but Judge Woodward afterward determined to honor a celebrated Greek general laboring for the freedom of his country, by the name of Ypsilanti.

He remained there a few years, until thousands of emigrants had gone beyond him, and roads had been extended to Lake Michigan, and then set his face toward Chicago, a small trading place of less than 500 inhabitants. At that time the principal product of the northwest was furs purchased from the Indian hunters and the white trappers and traders.

Having changed his avocation several times, he now engaged in a new business, hotel-keeping. A second hotel building, constructed of hewed logs, one and one-half stories high with board partitions, had been erected, capable of accommodating about one hundred guests. The rent of this building, owned by Wm. Hale, was $375 a year, including a frontage right on Chicago river, for the landing of freight near the house, from the few vessels then engaged in the lake trade. In that year, 1833, Chicago had but twenty-eight voters who participated in the organization of the local government. In two years this pioneer of nearly 60 years' progress westward, resolved to migrate for the first time eastward, and to Hillsdale county, Mich., where he remained about four years. But he could not give up the pioneer life. In 1839, he returned to Chicago, then rapidly becoming a city, and continued westward over a hundred miles nearer the Mississippi river, two miles south of the State line, and near the present town of Winslow, Stephenson county, Ill.; he remained there two years. He had then reached the border of the upper Mississippi lead regions, but the farmer-emigrants had again passed him, and in 1841, he again sought a new location and moved to Hazel Green, Wisconsin Territory, then a new town near the center of the rising district. The next year he moved a little further, and within four miles of the Mississippi, to Fairplay, a new mining settlement in Wisconsin, and opened a boarding-house for miners. At this time, 1842, his age was 75, but he considered himself then in the prime of life. He had been a slim, spare and thin-faced man for more than 50 years, his weight ranging from 150 to 160 pounds, his height 5 feet 9 inches, and with little appearance of much physical strength, but in truth his feats of strength were remarkable. He remained at Fairplay less than two years. At that time the trading point for that part of Wisconsin was at Galena, Ill., twelve miles distant. The supplies for his table were sometimes brought thither on his shoulders. He would walk the trip of twenty-four miles and bring back a load in eight hours. He was then, and had been for 50 years, of that enduring, energetic, hard-working class of men, who alternately led and followed similar men in the self-constituted army of progressive emigrants, halting at intervals at way stations, through a period of fifty years, from the Hudson to the Mississippi. Such was the character of a majority of the early settlers of the west. In 1843 Mr. Stiles crossed the Mississippi and explored the interior of the territory as far as Cedar river some years before Cedar Falls, Waterloo, or any other town north or west of Cedar Rapids was settled. The exploring party on this occasion consisted of Mr. Stiles, his son Reuben, Samuel Wiltse, Willard Hall, Ezekiel Wood, —— Walker, and a son of Gov. De Witt Clinton of New York. The trip was made in May and June, 1843. At that time the Indian title, except a possessory right for three years. had just been extinguished to the western three-quarters of Iowa. There was then no settlement in Linn county except several families at Cedar Rapids and several others at Linn Grove near Marion. That county is now one of the richest in the interior, and has a population of 25,000. In removing to the valley of the Wapsipinicon at the present site of Quasqueton, Buchanan county, Iowa, on the Wapsipinicon river, he passed through a sparsely-settled region for seventy miles west of Dubuque, a district of three counties, now containing over 65,000 inhabitants, and including Dubuque, the chief city of the State. That part of the country selected by him for the tenth new home, was being rapidily settled, but on account of the depredations and interference of horse and cattle thieves and other reckless characters, he resolved at the end of two years to migrate for a second time eastward, and returned to Hazel Green in 1845, where his wife died three years after, in 1848. Being over 80 years, he concluded to pass the remainder of his life in the neighborhood of his children in this part of the west, and has ever since remained in the adjacent parts of Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, and for the last fifteen years has resided mostly with his son Reuben at Dubuque.

In personal habits he has always been prudent and temperate, consequently has generally had good health. His memory appears to be nearly as retentive as to persons and events of six years ago as it is of names and occurrences when he was 16 or 60 years old. He married 1st, in 1795, when 29 years old, at Darlington, near Toronto, Martha, dau. of Ebenezer Ransom, the first white settler of Sandusky, Ohio.

Children (by 1st marriage):

I. Clara; m., 1820, Allen Thomas; she d. 1842; left a large family. Mr. T. living in Wis.; a son, Anson (Thomas), b. 1829.

II. Rudd, b. 1810; was m. Mch. 4, 1829, day of President Jackson's inauguration; d. many years ago in Mich.; left a large family.

III. ——; d. in infancy.

Mr. Stiles m. 2d Elizabeth Cummings, from near Plattsburg, N. Y., in 1807. She died at Hazel Green, Wis., in 1847. Issue (10 children—only 7 mentioned):

IV. Reuben, b. Nov. 22, 1809; res. Dubuque, Iowa.

V. Sarah; m. Hon. H. R. Coulter, of Lancaster, Wis.

VI. Dau.; m. Newton Kane; res. Sacramento, Cal.; has large family.

VII. Mary; m. Daniel Bostwick; she d. at Ypsilanti, Mich., 30 years ago, leaving 1 child.

VIII. Lucinda; m. Robt. Young, in 1843, and, several years after, Robt. Hoag, whom she also survived. She d. in 1859, and was buried between her husbands, at Hazel Green, Wis.

IX. Edwin; res. California.

X. Nathan, b. 1820; unm. in 1869; res. Minn.

George Bush, 20 years old (1869), living at Rock Island, Ill., is a great-grandson of David Stiles.

In 1868 Mr. Stiles was living at Prescott, Wis. A local paper thus alluded to him: "He has more vigor than most men of 70, and seems likely to live many years yet. His step is reasonably firm, his mind clear, his memory tenacious, his disposition cheerful and social, his voice unbroken, and his conversation enlivened with touches of sentiment and wit. * * * He is no doubt the oldest Mason on this continent; was made a Mason at Toronto, Can., Dec. 27, 1797. * * * With companions of youth and friends of middle age all gone before him, he stands upon the far-outreaching point of time, waiting the Master's beck to cross the narrow span which keeps him from the 'other side.' May the call be gentle when it comes and the answer 'ready and willing.'"

According to the Prescott (Wis.) Journal, Mr. Stiles went to the polls and cast his vote when he was 105 years old, and three years later his 108th birthday was celebrated at St. Paul, Minn.

One account states that the first wife of David Stiles was a daughter of Ebenezer Ransom, of Vergennes, Vt. [This was probably the place from which Mr. R. emigrated to Sandusky, Ohio.—M. S. P. G.]

John Stiles, resided at Kingswalden, near Welyna, Hertfordshire, Eng., and had brother William, living at Fitzroy, Fitzroy Square. His son, George Stiles, m. Oct. 5, 1869, Mary Wentworth; came to America immediately; followed his trade (butcher) in New York city (6th ave. and 27th st.), until May, 1870, when he went to Kidder, Caldwell Co., Mo., where he purchased and now cultivates a farm.

Children:

George Kidder.
Jane Elizabeth.
Walter Rutherford Hayes.

This family consisted of 16, of whom 13 are now living (Letter of George Kidder Stiles, Caldwell Co., Mo.).

Daniel Carter m. Elizabeth Stiles, Mch. 28, 1768 (Rec. St. Michael and Zion Ch., Philadelphia [Carter Geneal., p. 239]). She was dau. of Bartholomew and Ann Stiles; she d. abt. 1795 or '6.

Children:

(1) Nathan, b. Mch. 28, 1769; d. Mch. 26, 1847; m. (1) Abigail (dau. of Samuel and Mary) Chew; (2) Drusilla (dau. Martin and Susannah) Step (chil. and dates given pp. 223–239, Carter Geneal.).

Gideon Stiles (son of Samuel and Betsey [Stiles] Owen), m. Philemon St. John, 1820 (Ib., p. 775).

Helen G. (youngest dau. B. C.) Stiles, of Tioga, N. Y., m. Wm. A. Millrea, of Owego, Mch. 8, 1876 (Owego Times, Mch. 9, 1876).

Mary A. Stiles, m. at Brattleboro, Vt., July 1, 1887, to F. M. Harrington (Vermont Paper).

Wm. A. Stiles, d. Apr. 10, 1813, of pleurisy, at U. S. Hosp., æ. 42 (Pittsfield Rec., book 7, p. 38).

Intentions of marriage between Col. Silas Chapin, of Springfield, and Miss Experience Stiles, of Pittsfield, Mass. (Ibid., book 7, p. 163, Sept. 5, 1817).

Mary Stiles, of Long Island, Stratfield Co., had Hezekiah bapt. Dec. 25, 1709; Richard and Sarah bapt. May 19, 1717 (Rev. S. Orcutt).

Henry Clay Hall (son of Mary [Hyde] and Moses Hall), b. Jan. 7, 1834; m. 1853, Julia Stiles, of Battle Creek, Mich., where they were living in 1856; had Effa, b. Aug., 1854; son b. Mch. 27, 1856.

Martin H. Stiles, living (1884) Cleveland, Ohio; 25 years of age; employed in a R. R. office; son of A. M. Stiles, who had brothers S. M. and John; S. M. was formerly a builder in Cleveland; rem. to New York city.

H. D. Stiles, res. Vineland, N. J., in 1884, was reared a farmer, in Westfield, Mass.; rem. to Vineland in 1865; is still a farmer; has been a great traveller, and has seen nearly every country in the world; has a dau. m. to E. Stanley Cornwall manuf. of cotton-batting, cotton-waste and quilted carpet-lining at Chicago; building a large factory at Marseilles, Ill.

John Stiles' name is found in a list of "poor children" in New England, for whose benefit sums of money had been sent by parents and friends in England, about 1645. See Innocency Cleared, by Rev. Thomas Welde, in New Eng. Hist. Gen. Reg., vol. 36, p. 67.

Mathias Styles was one of 10 divines who approved a petition respecting the propagation of the gospel among the Indians in America, which was presented to Parliament by Rev. William Castell of Courtenhall in Northamptonshire (Drake's Hist. Boston, note to p. 287).

[The above petition appears to have been presented previous to 1645.]

Jno. Stiles. The following is found in the "Diary of Samuel Sewall" (Mass. Hist. Coll., 5th series, vol. v, p. 306):

"Oxford Apr. 13. 1689.

Rec'd of Samuel Sewall the Horse of Jn° Stiles of Abbingdon in good condition with Briddle, Saddle, Saddle cloth, and nine shillings 6d in full for his Hire.

I say Rec'd p. me
DANIELL FORKNER."

[Note by J. W. D.; all of this excepting signature, in the handwriting of Samuel Sewall.]

John Stiles and Hannah, had John, born Mch. 31, 1669.

Abiel Stiles, son of John and Hannah Stiles, born July, 1672 (Report of Record Commissioners of the city of Boston [pub. 1883] pp. 112, 124).

John Stiler [it seems as if this ought to be Stiles] and Mary Bull, married by Mr. Cotton Mather, June 9, 1697 (Ibid., p. 236).

Mr. Stiles, also wife and daughter of Cambridge, mentioned by John Rogers in a letter written at James River in 1671 (New Eng. Hist Gen. Reg., vol. 32, p. 241).

Mary Stiles m. at Boston 22 Mch., 1705, Sylvanus (son of Geo. and Lucy) Vickers, who deeds land 20 Aug., 1717. He m. Anne Newall 11 Dec., 1718, and d. soon after (Vickers or Vickary Geneal.; New Eng. Hist. Gen. Reg., vol. 18, p. 187).

[The above petition was rejected Dec. 2, 1727.] (Hist. Hardwick, Mass., p. 22.)

Katherine Stiles married Obadiah (son of Obadiah and Elizabeth) Perry in Waltham, Mass., Jan. 13, 1746–7. He was b. Jan. 9, 1724–5 (Bond's Geneal. Watertown, p. 403).

Lizzie Stiles of Lunenburg, Mass. (having been deserted by her former husband), m. as 2nd wife, Alex. Swan of Lunenburg. [It seems probable that Alex. Swan was born between 1735 and 1745, judging from dates of birth of other members of his family, consequently his marriage with Lizzie Stiles is not likely to have occurred before 1760—possibly many years subsequent to 1760.—M. S. P. G.] (Smith's Hist. Peterboro, N. H., p. 301.)

Ephraim Stiles m. Lydia Abbott (author says Esther); rem. to Black River, N. Y.; had Elizur, M. D., of Whitesboro, N. Y. (Abbott Geneal., p. 155).

Samuel Stiles and Mary his wife of Scipio, Cayuga Co., N. Y., sold land Sept. 7, 1803, in Epping, N. H., to Jos. Peaslee. The said land came to the said Mary out of the estate of her late husband, Edward Burleigh, late of Epping (Probate Records, Exeter, N. H.).

[Mr. Charles Burleigh, author of Burleigh Genealogy, thinks Samuel Stiles, who m. Mrs. Mary Burleigh, was a resident of Poplin, now Fremont, N. H., or Epping.]

March 16, 1803, the adm. of estate of Edward Burleigh, mariner, was granted to widow, Mary Stiles.

May 1, 1804, Mary Stiles dower of the estate of Edward Burleigh her husband, late of Epping dec'd (Prob. Rec., Exeter, N. H.).

[It would appear that Widow Mary Burleigh married again before her 1st husband's estate was settled.—M. S. P. G.]

Carlton Peck, 1st son of Jared (son of Olive [Hyde] and Jehiel) and Amanda (Bidwell) Peck, was born 9 June, 1828; m. Oct. 20, 1847, Lydia Stiles (b. Mch. 15, 1831, in Canada West), dau. of Martin Stiles of Lapeer, Mich., where they were living in 1856. Child: Eusebia N. (Peck), b. May 31, 1852. Another account says there were 4 children, viz.: Lucy, Sarah H., Amos, Lewis (Hyde Geneal.).

Joseph Stiles; m. Christiana Vought. [The record of this family was furnished by Miss S. A. Stiles of Penn Yan, N. Y.]

Benjamin P. Stiles m. Mehitable (dau. of Nathan and Fanny) Booth. She was b. Jan. 13, 1790; bapt. Apr. 6, 1794 (New Britain, Conn., Geneal. and Eccl. Hist., p. 218).

Benjamin Stiles m. Hannah (Benedict) Trowbridge, b. May 4, 1781; d. June 16, 1824 (Benedict Geneal., p. 301).

Widow Stiles of Weathersfield, Vt., m. as 2nd wife (after 1792) Daniel Humphrey (b. abt. 1750 in Goshen, Conn.), who removed to W. previous to 1789. He m. a 3rd wife in 1799, his 2nd (Wid. Stiles) having died shortly after their mar. (Humphrey Geneal., part iii, p. 296).

A. or O. Stiles m. B. Pierce, July 9, 1841 (St. Albans, Vt., Town Records).

John and Stephen Stiles and Gould Baker, were among the first settlers of Bainbridge, Chenango Co., N. Y., which was settled in 1785, from Vt. and Conn. (N. Y. Gazetteer for 1862, p. 225).

[It is probable that John and Stephen Stiles of the above item were John and Stephen Stoyell from Voluntown, Conn. (at least b. at V.). John settled finally at Moravia, Cayuga Co., N. Y., and died there, and Stephen m. Fanny Johnston, and lived at Unadilla, Delaware Co. These men, and their des. to this day have not only been called Stiles, but have answered to the name. There are peculiar circumstances connected with this family surname, which possibly should be Stiles.–M. S. P.G.]

Mr. Styles m. Sarah, dau. of Moses Titcomb, and wid. of Jno. Stickney of Pelham, N. H., who d. 1842 (Stickney Geneal., p. 344).
